MODERN POLITICS.

The legislature has been afflicted with about the worst piece of machine politics, under Boverman and his gang, the state has ever experienced.

"Looking back behind the scenes, I find that the men behind this all are members of the Oregon machine.

"They say Secretary of State Benson has made the request that this bill be passed.

A wedding back east between an English lord and an American heiress attracted national attention, and the papers have been full of the affair.

The organization for the consideration of the history of Linn county is a good one and deserves a universal support among all taking a pride in the people and events that have made our local commonwealth.

Then Fouts got in a few fine words: "I have not been elected by the Democrats or by the corporations.

The bill was fathered by Bowerman, Thompson and the rest of the gang that were bringing discredit upon the legislature.

It is modern politics with a vengeance.

NAMING A FAIR STREET.

Down in San Francisco already there has begun an interesting hunt for a name for the amusement street for the Panama fair.

SHOULD BE DROPPED OUT OF OFFICE.

When a man has been turned down by the people then the politicians take him up and build him a job to pay for his past failure to serve the people, and loyalty to the bosses.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

The capitol building at Jefferson City, Mo., was recently destroyed by fire, caused by a bolt of lightning striking the dome.

Clyde Ashby's Suicide.

The Democrat is informed that the cause of the suicide of Clyde B. Ashby, at Salem, was a cancer in his throat, which had been afflicting him for some time.

SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

Oregon's legislature has continued to do business down near the asylum the past week, mostly along pettifoggling lines.

In congress the great question up has been reciprocity with Canada, with numerous ideas on both sides.

In congress an effort is being made to provide for a rate of 4 cents a pound for the advertising sections of magazines.

A wedding back east between an English lord and an American heiress attracted national attention, and the papers have been full of the affair.

The organization for the consideration of the history of Linn county is a good one and deserves a universal support among all taking a pride in the people and events that have made our local commonwealth.

DRUGLESS HEALING INSTITUTE.

The O. S. Matthews Drugless Healing Institute, the only one of its kind in this section of the Willamette Valley, is now open for the reception of patients at 325 Lyon street.

Rheumatism is one of the troubles that has found its remedy. Our treatment is the most rational and scientific ever discovered and invariably affords quick relief from the suffering caused by this dangerous and painful malady.

Our treatments embrace Chiropractic, Mechano-therapy, Suggestive therapy, and Electricity in all its forms, in fact our institute embraces all the best practice of the modern drugless healing schools.

Many patients are daily flocking to the institute, and that they are being benefited by our treatments can be shown conclusively.

Remember that consultation is free—it will cost you nothing to have diagnosis made of your ailment.

The institute is conducted by Drs. O. S. Matthews and Paul N. Foghew, and Mrs. O. S. Matthews who is at all times at the service of lady patients.

LEGISLATURE.

A good many bills were passed yesterday.

Some that passed the house were: Providing for a fine for the man having over 35 ducks in his possession.

Prohibiting marriage of whites and Japs or Hindus.

Authorizing county courts to appropriate $500 annually for poultry shows.

The bill appropriating $200,000 for the Panama exposition was killed.

A new bill in the house prevents the importation of armed strike breakers.

The following are part of the eight bills passed by the senate:

Dimick's eight hour bill.

Appropriation of $270,000 for buildings for the O. A. C.

Providing for method of purchasing state supplies, about which there has been a good deal of contention.

An attempt to repeal the anglers license was defeated.

A number of immateria bills were introduced.

Silver Threads.

In Ben Laurie Mr. Jose has found a most congenial and suitable role, that of a whole souled, good-natured individual who makes life brighter by his mere presence, and he has surrounded himself with a most efficient company selected from the headlines of the profession.

From a scenic standpoint nothing has been spared to perfect the details and it is said by press and public to be a production which will live in memory beyond that of "Snore Acres" and "Way Down East".

Trains on Oregon Trunk.

Portland, Feb. 9.—After nearly two years of work, the Hill lines are about ready to inaugurate train service into interior Oregon.

Bend will be reached at a somewhat later date. Grading has been completed all the way to Bend, however, and rails will be laid to that point as soon as possible.

There will be no celebration to mark the opening of the line to Madras, although when the first train rolls in, it is doubtful if the enthusiasm of the people of that city can well be restrained.

26 Years in Same Office.

Eugene Register: Lark Bilyeu is one of the oldest attorneys in Eugene. He has practiced law in this city for 26 consecutive years and has occupied the same office he now occupies, all the time, having gone into the same before the paint had scarcely dried.

Died at the Hospital.

Miss Rebecca Green died yesterday afternoon at the hospital, after an operation. She was 18 years of age and recently came here from the east.

LINN CO. HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

A good sized audience, mostly of old-timers were at the U. P. church last night for the purpose of organizing a Linn County Historical society.

Geo. H. Himes gave an historical talk about Linn county full of great interest.

Originally this was the Champeog District. Linn county was formed off it and reached east to the Rockies and south to California.

The first Linn county election was held June 5, 1848, when H. J. Peterson and Anderson Cox were elected representatives, and Jason Wheeler the first sheriff.

Luther White of Linn county was president of the senate in the first legislature in 1853.

Linn county's first agricultural society was organized May 1, 1856, with Hon. Delazon Smith as president.

The first claim was taken up at Albany in 1845 by Abram Heckleman, Hiram Smead taking one up about the same time.

With a projectoscope Rev. White and J. C. Irvine gave some fine views of Gen. Joe Lane, grandfather of Father Lane; Hon. Delazon Smith, father of Sheriff Smith; Rev. Wilson Blain, father of L. E. and W. R. Blain; John B. McCoy, father of A. R. McCoy and Mrs. French; G. H. Baber, Linn's first judge; Rev. Thos. E. Kendall, Linn's first minister; Rev. S. G. Irvine, '52; Marion Crabtree, the first white person born in Linn, 1846, with A. R. McCoy a close second.

A constitution was adopted, with dues at 50 cents annually and the following officers elected: Judge C. H. Stewart president, Mrs. L. E. Blain and Sheriff D. S. Smith vice presidents, Dr. Franklin secretary, A. C. Schmitt treasurer.

MISFITS,

Lots of pettifoggling down at Salem.

Just ask the legislature, it will do the rest.

Albany has struck the paving gait good and hard.

Portland's suburban joy houses are a disgrace to the entire state.

Making new offices is one of the principal businesses of the legislature.

Mrs. Monroe died at Mitchell, Or., this week, at the age of 102 years.

Thirty-seven more flocks of pavement will make 70 blocks in all, about five miles.

The English lords may take the whole Gould family and they won't get much but money.

The recall law is a good one. Officials need an axe hanging over their heads in the interest of better service.

The legislature has been characterized by petty contentions, silly quarrels; childish getting even with people and pettifoggling.

Dr. Tanner, once famous for fasting, is about to start on an 80 days trial. Good by, Dr. His former trials were 40 day.

E. Hopkins Smith, authority on good manners, says Peary is a great explorer, but no gentleman. That has a north pole smell.

The good roads association announces that whatever the legislature does the fight for good roads will continue. It is for keeps.

Senator Dan Malarky yesterday called Senator Dan Kellaher a liar, and there was danger of a tragedy with the Duns as actors. But no blood was shed.

An ordinance has been introduced in the council at Ellensburg taxing bachelors and old maids $25 a year. Of course it is a freak. The introducer must have been reading the proceedings of the Oregon legislature.

L. E. Warner of Oakland last year cleaned up a net income of $3063.06 on his 160 acre farm. His receipts were $1821.96 cream sold from thirteen cows, $175 for huffers, $21.50 for calves, $103.38 for eggs and poultry, $390 for prunes. Total $3483.06. Expenses $420.
