That Bridge Meeting

There was a large crowd at the Shelburn bridge meeting yesterday. The members of the two county courts were met at the train and taken to the proposed site, returning to Shelburn where a fine dinner was served at the hotel, prepared by Shelburn people. Then a large crowd met at the Presbyterian church, where addresses were delivered by Senator Miller, E. Hofer and others, with music by the Scio Band.

The county courts were thought to be favorably impressed.

MISFITS.

The Gov's veto axe is a sharp one.

There was occasion to swing the veto axe.

What Albany woman will dare wear a harem skirt.

Over $500,000 saved helps, and there is some more that might be chopped off.

Some one says that the principal evil about that street car is that it came from Eugene.

After all the good roads talk Oregon has no good roads bill. The legislature did too much haggling.

Again the Democrat remarks that there should be provision for fair refereeing in basket ball contests. Having interested men officiate is ridiculous and mars a good game.

Put it there Gov., You're a dove With the ax.

The high school boys did some shouting last night after the Newberg victory. Following them an Albany man several times gave the following cry: Rah, rah, rah, Zip boom, bee, I'm from a blind pigeon.

Newberg made 6 points on field throws and eight points from the foul line, made possible by about the most unfair exhibition of refereeing ever seen in Albany, a feature of a basket ball game that is unnecessary and always to be regretted.

The following from the Corvallis Gazette-Times ought to make Albany and Corvallis feel like brothers:

"Good for Albany. A $40,000 slice of government pie will help along a little. With a new postoffice, new armory, and a half dozen new business buildings this year, the Hub City is hitting a rather swift pace. May it long continue."

The Democrat has received a pamphlet headed: "Creating a Nation Wide Panic. Why?" It is signed by the National League for Medical Freedom. It declares: "Nothing in recent years is more essentially cruel than the systematic attempt on the part of medical terrorists to create nation-wide fear in the minds of the people," referring to bubonic plague scares, hookworm scares, tuberculosis scares, common cold scares, infantile paralysis scares, cholera scares, etc.

H. W. Kaupisch, of Corvallis, has established a creamery at Lebanon, with a capacity of 300 pounds of butter.

The 500 Club met last night at the home of Judge Duncan in an enjoyable session, with a good attendance. After 500 a fine lunch was served.

March 1 will be colonist day and everybody in Albany should write to some one in the east, inclosing a colonist folder, which can be secured at the commercial club rooms, telling of the advantages of this part of the world.

Some one reports an interesting incident. A couple of men, of dark complexion, hailed a milk wagon and paid for a quart of milk. One of them drank the first half from the bottle, getting the cream, and the other finished up the bottle. It was handed back to the dairymen and the men continued their journey.

ARTISTIC LIGHTING MEANS ELECTRIC LIGHTING

Those who appreciate beautiful homes agree that soft, harmonious and artistic illumination is possible only with the aid of electricity.

The intelligent use of modern fixtures and lamps make the ELECTRIC LIGHTED home at night a place where one is glad to be and extend hospitality.

The smell, the dirt and the danger of other forms of illumination are eliminated.
