FIREMEN WANT IMPROVEMENTS.

The firemen of the city held a get-together booster meeting at the hall of No. 2's last night, one of importance. Wm. R. Hand was elected chairman and S. S. Gilbert secretary.

Judge Stewart, a veteran, was called upon and gave a history of the department and apparatus. No. 2's present engine was bought in 1875 and No. 1's in 1888, the hook and ladder truck in 1851. At the present time the boilers and hose should be thoroughly tested and replaced, probably new boilers and more hose bought.

A committee of five was appointed to confer with department in reference to the department's needs, as follows: Chief Engineer Hockstader, C. H. Stewart, Fred Bloom, S. S. Gilbert and E. H. Horsky.

It has been suggested that a new auto-truck engine in the long run might be cheaper than repairing one of the engines.

The department expressed itself in favor of using the team for fire purposes only, keeping the horses off the streets.

It was reported that the Veal factory would put a fire whistle on their engine, if desired.

News From Albany's Six Early Trains.

A. C. Schmitt, vice president, O. A. Archibald cashier and W. A. Barrett a director, of the First National Bank, left on a trip to the principal cities of the Northwest, to inspect bank buildings after plans for the new five story building to be erected here. The trip will include Walla Walla, where there are said to be some fine buildings, recently erected.

Denver Hill, of the Foster-Hill Investment Co., which has several thousand acres around Foster, with A. C. Brown of Lebanon, left on a Portland trip. The Co. had an option on the Cascadia property, at $50,000, but this was forfeited. Mr. Hill expects to see a road to Foster within two or three years, when a big change will take place in that country.

John F. Altermatt left for his home at South Bend, Ind., where he has a fine suburban property and is well located in business. Mrs. Altermatt and children went down this afternoon on a Portland trip, but will return for a longer visit.

Ernest Arnold, of Portland, went to Corvallis, his native city. His father Prof. B. L. Arnold, was a former president of the O. A. C. in its early and struggling days.

Hugh Fisher went to Salem. Mrs. Fred Fortmiller and Teddy and Mrs. W. A. McClain went to Lebanon for a visit.

Henry Freerksen arrived from Shedd. Mrs. E. A. Thayer returned to Lyons. Mrs. Ray Fox and three children went to Lyons, where Mr. Fox, formerly of Newport, is now running a store.

N. P. Crume arrived from Brownsville. Prof. Hargrove returned to Portland. Manager Jennings, of the O. P. of Eugene, arrived on a visit with Manager Morton.

Dr. Billings went to Portland. A. G. Knapp, O. H. Larson and Geo. Dorr went out to Lebanon to investigate Ed. Roberts tea ranch.

I have a fine assortment of Alarm clocks to select from, all warranted.

ANNUAL MEN'S BANQUET AT ARMORY.

The annual banquet given by the Presbyterian church for business men was held last night at the armory with one hundred thirty-three present.

It was a fine affair, a splendid get-together feed in the interest of the greatest of all causes.

The tables were neatly spread, and the service by a large corps of ladies was very prompt and painstaking. The menu had chicken pie without bones as the principal feature, closing with ice cream.

Then Rev. Gesebraecht opened the after dinner part of the program with a short talk in the interest of more men for the work of the church.

A. C. Schmitt said it was a day of experts along all lines, with a demand for new ideas, and it was a privilege to have present a man who is an expert in religious work, introducing Mr. Lewis of the Lewis-Wylie Hydraulic Co., of Portland.

Mr. Lewis spoke for an hour, opening with some apt stories. He said there are numerous ways of getting men to church, the hurrah way, sermons from popular newspaper topics, stereopticon lectures, moving pictures, etc., but the really great thing is to keep the men at work, make them busy, which is better than amusement.

There is a great deal of loss of power in the church, wasted strength.

It has been learned from experiment that by proper system more work can be secured along all lines from brick laying to carrying rails, and it is the same in church work.

A boy said he liked the parable best in which everybody loafs and fishes, and there is too much of that, too many corpses in the church.

The Y. M. C. A. is popular because it does things in a business way.

The church should be the center of social life and activity, not the dance hall and moving picture show.

Don't think you can fool with the Lord.

GRAUSTARK TO-NIGHT.

In point of cast and production, "Graustark" holds its own with any of them. The leading figure in this season's presentation is Miss Louis Zita Simons, a most charming and beautiful young actress, who has scored a pronounced success in the part of Princess Yelivo. Bert King as Lorry, Fred McGuirk as Anguish, Atkins Lawrence as Dangloss, and Adele Lane as Dagmar are other names familiar to theatergoers. The scenic investment is a beautiful one and is heightened by gorgeous court costumes and the native dress of the people of the imaginary "Graustark."

AN OPERETTA BY LOCAL TALENT

Albany is to have a real comic opera production, with local people as participants. The Civic Improvement club are the promoters of it and will present it as a big local benefit.

The opera is "The Mystic Rose," which has just been produced in Corvallis with great success.

Arrangements have been made with the composer of the opera, Robert P. Skilling of New York City, to conduct both the rehearsals and the performances.

Mr. Skilling was recently musical director of the Metropolitan Juvenile Opera Co. and also of the Manhattan Musical Comedy Co., and will put on "The Mystic Rose" just like a city production.

The first general rehearsal is called for tomorrow night at 7.30. Adult singers of all voices, are invited to attend and join this fine enterprise. The music is catchy and the harmony pretty, and very interesting to those taking part in it. The ensemble or chorus music is especially interesting.

The ladies of the Club will be both chaperones and patronesses, and the representative people will be identified with it.

Tomorrow night the director, who is in the city now, will briefly explain the opera, and a large part of the music will be rehearsed.

In connection with the Mystic Rose Mr. Skilling produces a Flower and Butterfly Ballet with about a hundred little girls, a beautiful spectacle, and fine work for the children taking part in it. Little girls from seven to fourteen years of age are invited to join this. The first rehearsal for them will be tomorrow, Thursday, at 4 p. m. Of this feature the people of Corvallis are still gasping in astonishment, and asking how it was accomplished, but the little girls thought it great fun.

The Union Furniture Factory.

A. B. Beckley, of the Union Furniture Co., arrived last evening from San Francisco to attend the annual meeting of the Company here tomorrow, and get supplies for the coming season. He is getting a good business for the Company established in California. The factory had a good year in 1911 with prospects of a much better one this year, gradually developing into a large and influential plant and business.
