OREGON MANUFACTORY.

Oregon as a manufacturing state is not making the progress it should, and the business men of the state who have inaugurated a movement for building up our factories and creating a concern for them by the people of the state, have done well. It is something that should be kept up.

The government report just received contains the following:

Although Oregon is increasing in importance as a manufacturing state, the growth of its manufacturing industries during the past 60 years has not kept pace with that of its population. In 1849-50 the 52 manufacturing establishments reported at the census of that year gave employment to an average of 285 wage earners, representing 2.1 per cent of the total population of the state. In 1909 an average of 28,750 wage earners, representing 4.3 per cent of the total population were employed in manufactures. During this period, however, the gross value of products per capita of the total population decreased from $168 in 1849 to $138 in 1909, although the proportion which the manufacturers of the state represented of the total value of the products of the manufacturing industries of the United States increased during the same time from two-tenths of 1 per cent to four-tenths of 1 per cent.

In 1909 the state of Oregon had 2,246 manufacturing establishments, which gave employment to an average of 34,722 persons during the year and paid out $23,949,000 in salaries and wages. Of the persons employed, 28,750 were wage earners. These establishments turned out products to the value of $93,005,000, to produce which materials costing $50,552,000 were utilized. The value added by manufacture was thus $42,453,000, which figure best represents the net wealth created by manufacturing operations during the year.

In general the manufacturing industries of Oregon as a whole showed a marked growth during the decade 1899-1909, the five-year period 1904-1909.

WANTS TO KNOW

How much do you spend for stamps each year? Do you write two hundred letters? How do you pay for them? Your old rags, rubber, bottles, brass, iron, copper and zinc would pay for all the letters you write each year. Did you ever think of that? Well, they would—so just try it and see. Your old clothes and shoes are worth money—don't throw them away. Anything that you have no use for is not always to be thrown away. Someone else has a use for them. They may not be worth much, but they surely are worth something when you learn to SELL IT TO OSCAR.
