THE WORLD

U.O. yesterday defeated O.A.C. 2 to 0 in a close and exciting game.

Welch instead of selling is buying. He has got the street railway system of Salem in his hands now.

W. Lar Thompson is now city attorney of Lakeview. He has submitted a new charter for the city, providing for the convention system in the elections of the city.

Julia Grant Daly, a former Corvallis young lady, was found dead yesterday in a hotel at Seattle, either having fallen out, or jumped to her death. Her father formerly resided at Corvallis. Years ago he was for a while clerk at the St. Charles Hotel in this city.

Jersey Club Men Here.

R. L. Burkhardt this afternoon is entertaining a crowd of members of the Oregon Jersey Dairy Association, previous to the big Jersey sale on the 20th. This noon they were given a fine dinner at the St. Francis, and then were taken to the Burkhardt place to see the fine display of animals, over ninety head, registered. The following are here: Harry West, Seapoose, president; Thos. Withycombe, Portland, secretary; Chas. H. Cannon, of Turner, a resident of Albany in the early 90's, vice president; B. C. Altman, Gresham; J. J. Wright, Silverton; Ovid Pickard, Marion; W. D. Henry, Salem; J. W. Dickinson, Shedd; Walter B. Davis, Halsey; W. J. Crawford, Supt. of the Albany schools 1891 to 1894, Salem; E. A. Rhoten, of the Homestead; F. E. Linn, Perrydale; C. E. Newman, Amity; W. B. Allen, Rickreall; and C. C. Woodcock, Portland.

After 30 Years.

Corvallis G. T.—A travelling salesman named Muir, who sold goods to J. M. Nolan at Albany thirty years ago, dropped into his place of business here this morning and for a few minutes there was an Irish-German reunion. J. M. thought it quite a coincidence that both should be at the same old business.

ALBANY WON THE DEBATE WITH KLAMATH FALLS.

Albany High school won the semi-final debate last night, at the U. P. church, in the contest with the able team from Klamath Falls. It was perhaps the best debate ever heard in Albany. Some said they had heard University debates that were inferior.

There was a large audience, full of enthusiasm present.

Superintendent Boetticher presided. Miss Madeline Rawlings was heard in a piano solo and the high school girl's chorus sang, assisted by the boys in the gallery.

Then came the debate of the question of the cabinet, or short ballot, form of government in Oregon.

Chas. Ohling spoke first, with the ease and force of a veteran, in a convincing way that made a strong impression. He declared there is need of a change, a less cumbersome system, that the cabinet system, under which the governor appoints those around him, that it makes a more effective executive, more effective legislation and is less expensive. He displayed a long ballot. Our government is not by the people but by the party in power.

Forest Pell for the negative put up a strong argument for popular government, and declared the cabinet system is a one man affair, taking the power out of the hands of the people, approaching aristocracy.

Irvine Acheson for the affirmative presented a masterly and forceful argument, calling for responsibility, and showing the force of the cabinet executive and a legislature working with it.

Edwin Cox for the negative insisted the plan was unsound and does not call for an improvement.

Chas. Ohling for the affirmative cinched the case with a ballot cut out as it would be under the system. His closing summary of the case was the crowning effort of the evening and drove the nail into the case for the affirmative.

While the judges Prof. Berchtold and Mr. Wood, of Corvallis, and Mr. Latourette of the U. O., were making their markings, a song was heard by the live students, led by the girl's club. The decision was unanimous for Albany, and warm congratulations followed.

The Alaska Pictures.

There were twice as many people out last night to see the wonderful Alaska pictures of Beverly Dubs, as the first night, and tonight there should be at least twice as many as last night. It is worth it. It is a wonderful exhibition of moving picture art, an education. This will be the last night.
