Osteopathy

Osteopathy is not similar to, nor does it include chiropractic, massage, rubbing, electric vibrators, or magnetic healing, or any of the so-called treatments, which are a mask to deceive the public. Many of these imposters who claim to be "specialists", tell their patients they give Osteopathic treatment, and some are bold enough to state they have attended Osteopathic colleges, which is false in every particular.

The Osteopathic Physician is a graduate of a recognized college of Osteopathy, the course being three and four years. The Osteopathic Physician passes a rigid examination given by the Oregon Board of Medical Examiners and is a licensed physician.

These imposters are not college graduates, anybody can buy a diploma for $10.00 without any training.

They do not take a state board examination are not licensed to practice in the state of Oregon or in any other state in the Union.

The public at large will do well to leave alone these imposters and fakes and when in need of a physician, employ one with a license to practice.

Cinderella Pictures Deserve Highest Praise.

"The Reign of Cinderella is on"—A woman of less brains, or less discerning personality than Miss Mabel Taliaferro would have failed most ingloriously, both in her attempt to seize the scepter of Cinderella, and in succeeding to make the world in general accept her as the successor of dainty "Cindy" of our story book days. The Selig Polyscope Co. have erected a triumphal arch around this beloved legend, through which Prince Charming and Cinderella lead their imperial cortege. In staging this mammoth spectacle, which is now being shown at the Dreamland theater, the Selig people illustrate the truism that life is activity, and the three-reel production as viewed by the writer, is a fitting tribute to their untiring efforts to life to a higher plane the moving picture industry. That the story proves of absorbing interest to old and young alike is a foregone conclusion inasmuch as Cinderella meets the demands of all ages, and is destined to live long after less ambitious efforts of silent drama have served their puny functions and have been forgotten. Mr. Nelson of the Dreamland theater announces that these reels will be shown May 21, 22, 23, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.
