

Daily Democrat.

WASHINGTON.

From our regular correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20th, 1888.

Mr Cleveland, Senator Gorman and a majority of the party leaders have decided that it is good politics to let the "tail go with the hide," so to speak. Consequently little or no effort will be made to prevent the republican steal of the doubtful seats in the House of Representatives. These gentlemen hold that it will be better for the republicans to have control of all branches of the Government for a time; they believe that it will result in an overwhelming democratic majority in the House in 1890, and the election of a democratic President in 1892. The republican majority in the House of the Fifty-first Congress will hardly be more than five, if so many, and there is little doubt that if the democrats had decided to make a determined fight for the doubtful seats that this majority could have been reversed.

A second-rate actor has been trying to get a little cheap notoriety by telegraphing his agent here to open negotiations for the purchase of Oak View, Mr. Cleveland's suburban residence. Col. Lamont says that Oak View is not for sale.

The republicans are loudly clamoring an extra session of the Fifty-first Congress to be called immediately after Harrison's inauguration. Many reasons are given for the necessity of this extra session, but the real reason is that their majority in the House will be so very small that they fear enough of the republican members elect may die before next December to make the majority democratic should that party elect their successors, hence they want to take no chances about capturing the organization of the House. Whether Harrison will be willing to call an extra session of Congress simply for the purpose of allowing his party to organize the House of Representatives remains to be seen.

Most people would think that this country was already overloaded with class voters, yet some republicans are demanding a position in Harrison's cabinet for editor DeYoung of the San Francisco Chronicle, because he represents the Hebrew vote. This thing is getting somewhat monotonous. If all the class voters are to be recognized in appointing officials where are the American voters to come in? Mr. DeYoung may be, and probably is, as good a man as the average republican, but if his only claim to office is being the representative of the Hebrew, or any other class vote, he should not be appointed.

The republicans who have been retained in office during the whole of Mr. Cleveland's administration are now showing their gratitude by talking in favor of a "clean sweep" when Harrison comes in.

It is said here that Harrison purchased the support of the Craftsman, of this city, the alleged official organ of the International Typographical Union, by promising to appoint one of its editors Public Printer.

Representative Perry Belmont, of New York city, the popular Chairman of the House committee on foreign affairs, has been appointed United States Minister to Spain. He has accepted, and will immediately resign his seat in the Fiftieth Congress. He declined a renomination, at the recent election, to the Fifty-first Congress. Mr. Belmont will make an excellent representative abroad for this country, the only pity being that the coming republican administration will make his present diplomatic career a short one.

Much is said about Harrison's probable policy. The only thing on which to base an opinion is his course in the Senate. He was always known as a conservative man so far as his own opinions went, and yet he always voted with his party no matter what the subject to be voted upon or how radical it might be in its effect. This fact should not be lost sight of in attempting to make a forecast of what he will do as President. When I know the men who will compose his cabinet I will be prepared to express an opinion as to his probable policy, but not before.

Washington is already busy preparing for the coming inauguration. There are no politics in inauguration day here. Members of both parties are put on the committee to make arrangements, and everybody endeavors to make each one better than the preceding one. It will be very difficult however, if not impossible, to excel the inauguration of Mr. Cleveland.

All upper-tendom attended the auction sale to-day at the British Legation of the personal effects of Lord Sackville, the ex-British Minister.

The advance guard of the second session of the Fiftieth Congress is already here, and the work of the session may fairly be said to commence on Wednesday of this week, when the House committee on appropriations will hold a meeting.

Dolph's friends at Washington are pressing him for Secretary of the Interior in Harrison's cabinet.

Five hundred and twenty nine patients in the Insane Asylum at Salem.

Now come well-authenticated reports showing that the republicans have been committing some very gross frauds in West Virginia in order to secure the governor's office. The increase in the republican vote in several republican counties is out of all proportion to the increase of population, and sufficient evidence is said to be in the possession of democrats to show that large numbers of negroes were imported from Ohio and voted.

No self-respecting, honest intelligent patriotic republican endorses the bitter malignant threats contained in the article headed "Might As Well Surrender" in Saturday's Oregonian. The misanthropic, democratic spleen and sectional hatred of that paper is not equalled even by the New York Tribune.
