A MECHANICAL CURE FOR HICCOUGH.

Procure a glass of water and pour a lit tle of it down the patient's throat. While he is drinking the water he should press a finger on the orfice of each ear. By this method you open the glottis, and in five seconds the thing is done. Should you,by ony chance, meet with an obstinate case, you may rest assured that throat and ears were not closed at one and the same time; either the water was swallowed before the ears were thoroughly stopped,or the water was not sufficient to fill the throat. Another precaution is to keep the chin well up This cure was obtained from an old Indian medical officer, who had experimentedfor some years to discover a method of relieving the terrible stage of hiccoughing in yellow fever, and this cure was the out

The fact is apparently overlooked by the Southern advocates of an educational test that, when it was established in Massachusetts ageneration ago, the men who could not read at that time were excepted from its operation, and remain to this day, their cases being specially provided for whenever necessary in any new legislation. Thus the election law which is to go into operation in Massachusetts next year provides that "any voter who declares to the presiding election officer that he was a voter prior to May 1, 1857, and cannot read," etc. The policy now proposed in the South appears to be to disqualify all who shall be unable to read at the time the change goes into effect, This, however, is not a fatal objection, provided sufficient notice is given-say, a year. Any man can learn to read within a year, and the fact that he would lose his ballot a year hence unless he could then read would be the strongest possible incentive to his doing so. Even in a State like New York, which allows men to vote even if they cannot read their ballots, the shame felt at the confession that he does not know what the letters on a ballot mean is said, by people who have had good opportunities for observing the matter, to stir a good many men to learn to read. The motive would be, of course, a hundredfold stronger if a man could not vote unless he could read.
