LOCAL RECORD.

R. R. MEETING.—There was a good attendance at the railroad meeting last evening. S. E. Young in the chair. Hon. Geo. E. Chamberlain, chairman of the committee on articles of incorporation reported that he had prepared articles, but on consultation it was thought certain changes should be made, so that the articles will be complete, and asked for further time, which was granted, the meeting adjourning until next Monday evening, to meet at No. 1's Hall. It is proposed to incorporate in a manner to give the company a standing among the large railroad companies of the United States. Our citizens mean business, and propose to go sure in the matter. Railroads are not built in a day with a few dollars capital stock.

GETTING COURTEOUS.—Here is the way the Baker City Blade talks about the best paper in Eastern Oregon: "The swell barrel that does editorial duty on the East Oregonian, when he is not lying in the gutter with animals of his ilk, wrote an article in Monday's issue of that paper that shows exactly the size of his brain." Courtesy that from way back, equal almost to the following exhibition of brotherly love in Portland: "Yesterday M. M. Barnett, editor of the Sittings, caused the arrest of William Moorehead, late business manager of the defunct News, on a charge of assault with intent to kill. This morning Mr. Moorehead turned the tables on Barnett by swearing to two complaints against him, one for assault and battery, and another for threatening to murder."

THE MINING CASE.—The case of Woodin and others agt Dr. E. O. Smith, was tried this morning before Justice Humphrey after a several days sparring match on divers kinds of motions. The justice after hearing the testimony rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs, adjudging that the mine be delivered to its lawful owners. As the DEMOCRAT predicted in the first place this dangles the doctor at the little end of the horn. As the judgment calls for costs also, the experiment of taking possession of other parties mining claim will, including the $200 spent on the mine, cost the defendant about $500.

STILL RAGING.—At least one paper in the State has not failed to keep its readers posted or unposted about the small pox. It hails from the rival city Astoria, and in its Wednesday's edition says: "Notwithstanding the Oregonian's reports to the contrary, the small pox is still raging in Portland and East Portland. The latest cases brought to light are those of a family living less than a dozen blocks from the East side landing of the Stark street ferry. One of the persons afflicted is not expected to live, and two others are in a dangerous condition." Wonder if that is true.

R. R. COMMISSIONERS REMOVED.—Yesterday Gov. Pennoyer sent to each of the railroad commissioners the following letter of removal: "Sir:—You are hereby removed from the office of railroad commissioner of Oregon for cause. Said removal takes effect at this date. Yours respectfully, Sylvester Pennoyer, Governor of Oregon."

IN THE DISTANCE.—The Union Pacific is making arrangements to build a railroad up into Oregon, probably to cross the Cascades at the McKenzie pass, uniting, we predict, with the valley road at Albany.

CHECKS CASHED.—Searle & Deane's bank checks will be cashed at par at P. Cohen's store.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.—For the 24 hours beginning at 12 o'clock, noon. Rain.

AUCTION.—Auction every afternoon at J. Monteith's, at S. E. Young's old store. Goods at your own price. Must be sold.

FOUND.—A pair of gentleman's eyes in case. Call at the DEMOCRAT office.

We will sell you groceries cheaper than any one else.

OUR SALEM LETTER.

SALEM, Jan. 16th, 1889.

Editors Democrat:

The committees in the House will not be announced until Monday next. This indicates an early adjournment this week. At 11 o'clock, a. m., to-day the Senate filed into the House to hear the Governor's message. There were not as many of the people in attendance as is usual on such occasions. But what were there a credit to the county in appearance and demeanor. When the Governor arose to deliver his address we were struck at the evidences of our high civilization that surrounded him and contrasted it in our mind with the report of the recent reception and inauguration of President Legitime of Hayti Jan. 2nd, this year, as given by an eye witness as follows: "He was accompanied by the entire army of some 12,000, dressed in clothes the colors of the rainbow who, between dancing and singing, all the way up to the church punctuated their expressions of loyalty by shouts of "Vive Legitime." Arriving at the Cathedral, where the corps diplomatique had already assembled, the President was escorted to the altar. The Cathedral was thronged with the elite of Port au Prince. They are simply indescribable. Imagine, if you can, about 20,000 negroes, dressed in the latest style, a full-dress black broadcloth coat that had done service for years and had been handed down as a family relic, no shirt, a white cravat, strapped rather negligent around the throat, a pair of blue trousers, coming half-way down the legs, and no shoes. I will not attempt to describe the wearing apparel of the ladies, but will merely say that each was neatly attired in a fan, a pair of carpet slippers and a broad grin. The latter was the most conspicuous article of the clothing."

The Railroad Commission received their "resignations" as my Irish friend would say in the form of dismissal from office for cause which is given in full in the message. The substance is this: "There is no provision of the constitution by which any power or function of the State government can be delegated to a Commission. This Commission was entrusted with regulation of freights, this is a function of the Legislature; if it is entrusted with power to adjust questions in dispute between common carriers and persons having dealings with them or others parties, this is a function of the judicial department, etc. The Governor recommends a just maximum rate freight law instead of the contrivance of this R. R. Commission. The Fish Commissioners would go out in the same way were it not that they are creatures of the Legislature. He would prevent fish traps and fish wheels. This Commission was authorized to look after the law for the propagation, protection, and preservation of fishes, etc. Since the Clackamas hatchery has passed under the control of the federal government there is no further need of this Commission, he says, and the State may as well provide seed wheat for farmers as hatcheries for fish monopolies. He recommends that the State University and Agricultural College become self-supporting as a tax for a few is not legitimate in educational matters, it should be only for all as in the matter of common schools. The Governor asks for river improvement at The Dalles and a law on assessment and taxation. It seems that certain funds belonging to the State University at Eugene have been diverted for the support of a law school at Portland. For which there is no authority of law whatever, and of this outrage the Governor says, "and it can well be doubted as to whether pupils can gain a proper respect for the law, who receive their law education in a school supported by funds diverted without authority of law." Does the Governor mean stealing? He wants the Agricultural College to get $10,000 worth of land and go to work. He says the scandal of our country is the fact that corporate power dominates the Federal Senate, and therefore the Legislature should take extreme care in the election of a Senator. By this outline it will be seen that work will begin to save those things the Governor has wrecked for a season; but we predict that those Commissions are gone to stay. While there are some things in the message that require consideration before accepting the recommendations, there is one thing and that is it is a document of clear and wonderful directions.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Wednesday was a great bill introducing day in the State Legislature. The following were introduced by Linn county members: Irvine, in reference to lien law, incorporating city of Halsey, in reference to purchase of timber land Dawson, for purchase of land for deaf mute school, prohibiting sale of tobacco and cigarettes to minors under 18, regulating railroads and other corporations.

Among important bills are the following: Abolishing separate acknowledgment of women in making deeds, repealing law in reference to free scholarship, creating Morton Co., increasing salary of members to $5 a day, making 6 per cent legal rate of interest, in reference to killing of stock by railroads, making the age of consent 16, regulating building and loan associations.

This morning the Legislature met and without reading the journals, after passing two or three resolutions, adjourned until next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Hons. R. A. Irvine, S. A. Dawson, T. E. Cauthorn arrived in the city this noon, and others passed through homeward bound.

SCIO.

Riley Shelton has sold his residence to John Gill and has gone to Salem thinking probably of locating there. We regret losing such a good citizen.

Rev. J. W. Osborn, of Independence, who has been pastor of the Baptist church of this place for the last fifteen years, preached his farewell sermon here last Sabbath.

Rev. Sperry, of Brownsville, was elected to take his place for the ensuing year.

Mr. Nelson and Wm. Logan, of McMinnville are visiting friends in this place.

The town has been infested with a band of beggars and bears for the past week, and they seem likely to stay until they are driven away. It does not seem that such able bodied men and women deserve much sympathy from the people.

Mr. Bagley, of Salem, who has been the guest of Miss Edith Pentland, has returned home.

Mr. O. B. Cyrus and Miss Emma Morris were united in marriage at the residence of the brides parents, Jan. 13, Rev. J. W. Osborn, officiating. The happy couple have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and prosperous life.
