

Daily Democrat

John Wanamaker began life without a dollar in his pocket. So did we. Come on with your cabinet portfolio.

A heavy pork failure has occurred in Boston. But there's nothing the matter with the beans.

Editor John C. New, the newly appointed consul-general to London, is quoted as saying, "I am very much pleased with my position." It is worth $20,000 a year. Show us an editor who wouldn't be pleased with such a position.

A cigarette crummer says that the consumption has fallen off greatly during the last year, and that the cigar trade has increased. This may be due, he imagines, to the onslaught made by the press and pulpit upon the cigarette habit. If this be true, let's keep it up.

The Chinese minister at Washington expects, on an average, $1000 a week in telegraphing to his government. His cable messages go to Havre, from there to Aden, then across the Arabian sea, through India, to Peking. One day he spent $2000 in sending dispatches concerning the Milwaukee trouble.

Bad company is like a nail driven into a post, which after the first or second blow may be drawn out with little difficulty; but being once driven up to the head, the pincers can not take hold to draw it out but which can only be done by the destruction of the wood.

Sulphate of copper is recommended for keeping posts and timber from decay. Telegraph poles in Norway are said to be preserved by boring inch holes about two feet from the ground, and filling with the sulphate of copper crystals, afterward plugging the holes with wood. The crystals gradually dissolve and permeate the wood, turning it a greenish color.

Now that Br'er Clarkson has been asked in out of the wet there does not appear to be any sound reason for longer allowing poor Br'er Dudley to stand shivering in the ante room. It is not becoming to let the ox that trod out the corn go hungry while those who manage the granary wax fat and prosperous. Call Br'er Dudley in.

There is almost a unanimous sentiment among Kansas legislators in favor of doing something to aid in the development of the sorghum sugar industry of the state. Just what this something should be is creating considerable discussion and bringing out a number of suggestions. Some want a bounty, others are in favor of allowing cities and townships to vote bonds to aid in building mills, while still another class want sugar mills exempted from taxes for five years.

The pine needle industry, according to all accounts, is making serious inroads into the manufacture of jute bagging. A Boston dispatch says that the Nevins Bagging Mills, in Salem, will be shut down for an indefinite period, and possibly, for a year, at least. The ships chartered to come to Salem, with cargoes of jute this spring will, it is said, be turned to New York by the Boston and New York pilots, who have been instructed to make New York instead of Salem.

The democratic party is right in asserting that unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation. It is right in demanding that the surplus revenue be stopped, not spent. It is right in holding that the taxes to be first reduced are those which bear hardest upon the greatest number of people—namely, the war taxes upon the necessities of life. Every word of the republican president and every act of a republican congress which antagonizes these everlastingly right and truly democratic principles will hasten the day of the second overthrow of their party.

Postmaster General Wanamaker stated to a member of Congress who was working to have a very offensive partisan postmaster removed, that the charge of offensive partisanship would not be regarded as a sufficient cause for removal, and that some other good reason would have to be given. To be sure, some other good reason will be given—good enough to effect the removal, and fair notice given to the new incumbent that offensive partisanship is not objectionable to the present Administration. "It works just like music," and whatever is left of the civil service business in the Post Office Department, after Quay, Clarkson and Wanamaker have had their innings for three months will not be worth inquiring about.—Portland World.

Love sees the virtues that are of the soul, hatred only the diseases of the skin. "All men have their faults, and stealing was Bill's," said a weeping widow over the corpse of a desperado, shot in attempted burglary. All grotesque, ludicrous as the expression may seem, she was right. She knew that not in the robber, the law-breaker, the outcast, did the real man shine forth, but in those rarer moods of kindness and generosity when he was the true friend and husband. Perhaps when two enemies, who have refused to see any good in each other on this earth, meet hereafter in another world, free from the muddy vesture of decay which clogs their vision here, the first thought of each will be: "Is this the beautiful soul that I maligned and hated?"

A Gentleman of rare virtue, named G. L. Mackay, has been found who objects to lending aid to the proposed movement in behalf of the Texas Home for Crippled Ex-Confederates because Col. Robt G. Ingersoll is taking an active part. The objection to Col. Ingersoll is not that he fought in the Union Army but that "he is the greatest enemy of Jesus Christ this country has ever seen." When a man makes up his mind to withhold his hand from charity he is never at a loss for an excuse. Sometimes he objects to the color of the eyebrows of the solicitor.

Mr. Businessman, do you know what put John Wanamaker into the Cabinet? It was by knowing how to advertise his clothing store and spend $100,000 in good printer's ink.

Bishop Newman finally puts Mr. Cleveland down amongst the very best Presidents the country has had.

Joseph Pulitzer is recovering his eyesight by treatment in Paris. He was totally blind when he went abroad.

A woman never wants to be a man so much as when she sees a crowd gathering in the street.
