

Mr Wanamaker is said to be much pleased with Clarkson. He couldn't have found a better man for his "suspender department."

Mr J D Rockefeller, who gave $600,000 toward the establishment of a Baptist University in Chicago, is said to be ready to increase his gift to $3,000,000 if necessary.

Mr Harrison says: "Thank God, I have satisfied myself. It is the only satisfaction that a man can be certain of." Mr Harrison has done more than satisfy himself. He has satisfied all his relatives.

The latest wrinkle in the clothing trade is garments made of paper. A Minnesota inventor is said to have made enough vests and underclothes of paper last winter to create something of a panic among St Paul clothiers. The paper is prepared so that it is as soft as cloth and the cold cannot penetrate it.

The official figures of the United States census in 1790 were 3,929,326, of which number 695,655 were slaves. A short time after these figures appeared Capt G Imlay, a Virginian, published an article in which he placed the population in 1800 at 64,000,000, and was therefore supposed by his friends to be a visionary. His prediction was surprisingly accurate as well as daring.

About two years ago Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, now President of the United States, says the New York World, decided to come to New York to practice law. Luckily for him his intimate friends, New and Dudley, saw into the future very clearly and persuaded him to remain in Indianapolis.

The Irish ask for home rule, but the Tory peers in that unfortunate country seem to think that a royal residence in Dublin and an English price to live in it will do as well. This is the old story. For some eight hundred years England has been refusing the Irish what they asked and giving them what they did not want.

A special from Harrisburg, Penn., says that Postmaster-General Wanamaker's ambition is to be governor of Pennsylvania. It is said also, that Senator Quay is ready to help him reach his goal. These things being true, Mr Wanamaker has only to raise a campaign fund and place it in Mr Quay's hands.

The difference between John Jarrett and the workmen he claimed to represent in his enthusiastic advocacy of protection is that the protection victory brings John a fat office and the workmen a reduction of wages. But the fat office will bring additional arguments in favor of protection and the reduction of wages will bring increased profits to the protected manufacturer, so that the beauty of protection will be unimpaired.

The confession of faith adopted by the Westminster Assembly has been maintained without change for nearly 250 years. But even Presbyterianism, intensely conservative as it is, has at last taken the first step toward revising its standards of faith. The response of the Presbyteries to the questions of the General Assembly, especially as regards the doctrine of predestination, cannot fail to excite a profound interest outside as well as within the Presbyterian denomination.

The first outfit of men and machinery for actual work on the Nicaragua canal has been dispatched to the scene of operations. It will be a great day for the commerce of the world when the canal is completed and successfully opened to ships. In the meantime the big ditch, dug part way across the isthmus of Panama is slowly filling up, while several thousand unemployed laborers wait, houseless and without food, for steamers to take them away.

The office subsidized organs naturally see everything at Washington through rose tinted spectacles. One of them says that "in the pension service the change in spirit and purpose is felt already by every veteran in the land." Yes, it is decidedly a change, even from former republican administrations, to have the "roll of honor" recruited by shirks and bummers whose "injuries in the line of duty" came from falling out of bunks, getting hit by demijohns or indulging in horse play. The battle scarred veterans do feel the change, and many of them do not like it.

Calvin S Brice, chairman of the democratic National committee has just been made a member of Mart Armstrong Post G A R at Lima, Ohio. That will give him no better standing with republicans, so long as he votes the democratic ticket. A confederate who now votes the republican ticket will receive far greater consideration at the hands of this administration than a union soldier who votes the democratic ticket, notwithstanding the very great love that party professes to entertain for the old soldier. After all, it is a mere question of politics: if the voter is a republican he is all right soldier or no soldier, and if he is a democrat he is all wrong soldier or no soldier.

ELECTED.—6000 rolls of wall paper in an immense number of patterns at Fortmiller & Irving's, the finest line in the central Willamette Valley. It is an art gallery to see it all.

The appointment of Henry Stanwood, a nephew of James G Blaine, to be a Deputy Collector in the Custom House at New York, following the appointment of Secretary Blaine's son to be his own Examiner of Claims and his private secretary to the fat Consulate at Liverpool, shows how thoroughly nepotism is the fashion under the new Administration.

The list of the President's family relatives or connections already provided for at the public expense stands as follows to date:

- (1.) The President's brother.
(2.) The President's father in law.
(3.) The father in law of President's son.
(4.) The brother of the husband of the President's daughter.

(5.) The husband of the daughter of the President's brother.
(6.) The husband of the niece of the President's wife.

With the custom of "providing for his own" and "satisfying himself" thus openly set by the President it is not strange that his associates and party friends follow his example. Mr. Blaine's brother has long held a sinecure birth in one of the Departments at Washington, and its head raised a small cyclone recently by intimating that he would like an efficient man in the place. Senator Sherman has just secured for his brother a Consulate, Consul Sherman Mr. Blaine's late Secretary, has appointed his son to a salaried place under himself. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Tichenor has done the same. And so it goes.

There can be no doubt as to what the Republican statesmen are "here for." It is to get all they can and keep all they get.
