

Daily Democrat

Private Secretary Halford, who takes Colonel Lamont's place at the White House, cannot be accused of being ungrateful. When Mrs. Halford was rescued from the Johnstown flood by the negro porter of a Pullman car the grateful private secretary got him a place in the treasury department. It was a noble act and did not cost the donor a cent.

The President's own Postmaster at Indianapolis has been most unmercifully hauled over the coals by the Civil Service Commissioners. They have made him dismiss on the spot the two clerks that he appointed without examination, as a reward for party services, and another who had been dismissed for gambling by the former Postmaster and whom Mr. Wallace had promptly reinstated. They informed him, furthermore, that the civil service law must be obeyed in letter and spirit, and that they mean to see that it shall be so. All of which is most distressing to the flusters of Indiana.

Parents are too often slow to see the motive of their children's kindest actions. A little fellow has been reading of some young hero who helped his father and mother in all sorts of ways, and after racking his brains to think how he, too, can help, he remembers that he can fetch his father's slippers and take his boots away and put them in the proper place. Without saying a word to anybody, when evening comes he does it, but the father is so occupied that he notices not what the boy has done. The little fellow hopes on, thinking that when he goes to bed his father will say how pleased he was to see Charley so willing to help; but not a word is uttered, and the boy goes to bed with a choking feeling in his throat, and says his prayers by the bedside with a sadness very real in his heart. Parents often complain of children not being so ready to help as they should be; the fault is with the parents, who have not known how to evoke feelings with which the heart of every child is richly stored. All words of approval are helpful and encouraging. In a large family there have been days of anxiety and care. The eldest daughter, by her skill in teaching has earned a little extra money, and without a word to anyone she lays nearly all of it out in buying things that are much needed in the house. What joy fills her heart when a fond mother takes her aside, and with emotion that cannot be concealed, says how thankful she is for such considerate kindness, and murmurs: "I don't know what we should do without you, darling." My friends, do not be so chary of these words of encouragement.

CHICKEN'S COKE HOME TO ROOST.

A staunch republican has a democratic wife who had an idea that during the last administration that a reduction of the tariff would greatly benefit the working classes, while her husband argued that the election of Harrison and the triumph of the protection idea would have the same result. As every one knows the tendency has been toward hard times since the election, and this republican has been out of work and without money since that time. One day recently the wife said to the husband: "There isn't a thing in the house to eat." "I know it," replied the husband, "but what can I do? I have had no work for weeks, and I have been trying every place but can find none, and am totally discouraged." "Well," said she, "go to the closet and get me that protection to 'American labor' banner you carried during the last campaign. I'll cut it up and boil it and maybe it'll do for soup."—Rushville, Jacksonian.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS

Hearths of gray marble may be cleaned by rubbing them with linseed oil.
To prevent mold from forming on the surface of ink, add a few cloves to it.
Dry paths tend to comfort outside the house and cleanliness within.
To restore oil cloth: Melt one-half ounce of beeswax in a saucer of turpentine; rub the surface all over with it, and rub in with a dry cloth.
Lace may be washed by winding it around bottles or sewing it on muslin and boiling it in soft water and white castile soap. It should be rinsed in soft water and white castile soap. It should be rinsed in soft water after removing it from the suds.
When eggs are scarce put away at night a cup of mashed potatoes, into which has been mixed a teaspoonful of sugar, beat well, put into your pancake batter in the morning. You will be pleased with the lightness and sweetness of the cakes.
White silk, a wedding dress, for instance, may be kept for years, without acquiring the slightest tint of yellow, if wrapped in a linen sheet that has been deeply blueed, and over this two or three thicknesses of heavy brown wrapping paper.
A creaking hinge can be cured by the use of a black lead pencil of the softest number, the point rubbed into all the crevices of the hinge.
Never leave a stone pot having a cover of the same material in a place where anything hard is liable to fall on or be thrown against it, as, for instance, under nails on which skimmers, iron spoons, etc., are hanging. Even so light an article as a large tin tunnel, when accidentally knocked from its nail, has been known to hit and nick the cover of a crock happening to stand under it. When a cover is once notched, it will soon crack entirely across, and then, sooner or later, break.

The postmaster general has established a new postoffice in Wicomico county, Maryland, and he has named it Wanamaker, which by the way, is his own name. Our postmaster general intends that his name shall not be forgotten, and at the same time his clothing house in Philadelphia, for which, perhaps, the new postmaster will act as agent, will receive a good advertisement. Mr. Wanamaker is a rather shrewd man.

Commissioner Tanner seems to have subsided. His attempt to prove himself a martyr has failed and the leaders in his party, disgusted with his conduct, have pushed him into the recesses of his bureau with the advice to keep still. His great efforts in behalf of the old soldiers have been proved to be for the benefit of the pension agents.

Mr. Secretary Tracy's promise to reorganize the navy Department on a business basis has a proper and a pleasant sound. So had Mr. President Harrison's Civil Service Reform pledge. It results that count.

President Harrison's example has given a great boom to the Sunday excursions.

Don't fail to examine Mellor's carpets. You will find them from 10 to 15 per cent cheaper than any other place in town, taking no consideration on the quality.
