

From our regular correspondent. WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, July 8th, 1889.

Mr Harrison has apparently bent the knee to the republican senatorial combination, and the fact has created no little gossip here. It has of course been well known for some time past that quite a number of more or less prominent republican senators were aggrieved because of real or fancied slights they had received from the administration, and many people predicted open hostilities between Harrison and the senate next winter.

Great is the force of example. Commissioner of Pensions Tanner a short time since made his daughter his private secretary at a salary of $1,800 a year, now the new commissioner of Indian Affairs, Thos J Morgan, of Rhode Island, has his wife for private secretary at a salary of $1,000 a year.

Attorney General Miller has discovered a rare curiosity. It is a Virginia republican who declines an office. Mr C A Heermans, who was recently appointed assistant U S Attorney for the western district of Virginia, has written declining the office on the ground that he should have been appointed attorney and that the smaller office was given him as the result of a compromise between certain parties, which he refuses to recognize.

Secretary Windom only receives visitors by card now, and he requires them to state their business, so that he may decide whether he will grant a personal interview. The innovation is not popular.

The department of Agriculture has issued a circular to railroads and transportation companies regulating the shipment of cattle from Texas and Arkansas during the continuance of the disease known as "Texas fever."

Senator Harris, of Tennessee, is said to be very solid with Postmaster General Wanamaker, who is said to have intimated to the senator that he might name the post master at his home—Memphis.

Among the applicants for a foreign appointment under this administration is, A C Hill, of Texas, a first cousin of the late Ben Hill, of Georgia.

The paragraphs of the American humorist have proven too much for the sensitive nature of the Persian minister to this country and he has determined to go back to the Shah.

The resignation of Gen Jos E Johnston railroad commissioner has been accepted, to take effect the 16th inst.

Don't fail to examine M. Hwain's carpets. You will find them from 10 to 15 per cent cheaper than any other place in town, taking no consideration on the quality.

A dispatch from Chicago in Sunday's Oregonian giving an account of an interview with State School Superintendent McElroy, who was on his way to Nashville to attend the National Teachers' Association, makes that gentleman say in speaking of the delegates who will attend the G A R Encampment at Milwaukee from Oregon: "Oregon will bring a liberal supply of wine with other products for distribution and all the posts have a free, full and standing invitation to participate and libate at the Oregon headquarters."

The oldest United States ex senators are James Bradbury, of Maine, and Jefferson Davis, of Mississippi. Each served in the Senate of 1847.

In a private letter to a friend in Washington Senator Sherman writes that he expects to give six full weeks to the Ohio campaign. He will visit every county in the State and make many speeches.
