

AS TO BOODLE.

The Herald joins other republican papers in charging that Brice owes his election to a use of the money which he possesses. This charge has been made in nearly every republican newspaper in the country. Now, as a matter of fact there is not even the semblance of truth in the charge that Brice used money to secure his election. Not a single republican paper in the land has adduced an iota of evidence to sustain this charge. Not one of them has even made a pretense of relating what the evidence is. It is unfortunate that the democrats of Ohio should have seen fit to elect a man of money to the United States Senate, but not withstanding his money, Brice is a man of the strictest integrity. The other charge that he is not a citizen of Ohio is as unfounded as the charge of bribery. For years he has done all his voting in Ohio and never exercised citizenship in New York or elsewhere except in Ohio. It is in very poor taste for republicans at this late day to interpose objections to the election of a wealthy man to the United States Senate. It is the rule of that party to elect such men, and it is an exception to the rule if they elect any other kind. Our contemporaries should remember that hoodie was an essential element of success in the last presidential election, and that there is scarcely a doubt in the mind of any unbiased man that Harrison owes his election to the unsolicited use of the hoodie raised by Quay and Wamaker and judiciously disbursed by Dudley in accordance with the scheme which he contrived and which he unwittingly disclosed in his celebrated "Blocks of Five" letter. If Brice used hoodie why was the proof not brought out at the election? There were a number of democrats in the Ohio legislature who sought by all means in their power to defeat him in order to elect Thomas, and if there was any proof of bribery these men would have used it but there was none.

FARMERS.

The following article is from the pen of J. H. Stine the editor of the Willamette Valley Tribune. Mr Stine was a zealous supporter of Harrison, but this article shows a conversion to the "faith once delivered to the saints." Let every farmer read it:

In Master Burgman's address at the annual session of the National Grange, he says: "If the farmer must meet free competition, so also should the manufacturers." That is true and just. If "all men are created equal" why should any class of men be made favorites. The prices of products of the farm, labor and furnace, alike, are governed by their supply and demand. If the world's supply of wheat is less than is needed, its price will be high; and so it is with other necessary commodities. The price of our wheat at home and abroad, is fixed by its price in Europe, and its price in Europe is governed by its cost grown by self labor, and no industry suffers under as great disabilities. The farmer is not at liberty to use his products to the best advantage. He can ship his products to Europe and exchange them for such goods as he and his neighbors need, but before he can land them upon American soil he is taxed thereon to the extent of about one half of his product shipped. The protective object of a tariff is to enable the protected manufacturers to obtain increased prices for their goods, and to compel all others to pay such advanced prices. Thus the prices of the farmer's product are fixed by their price in the lowest markets of the world. There are two conditions under which the prices of farm products would be advanced by a tariff namely: Such a general failure, or destruction of crops as would require importations and such universal laziness in the farmers as would result in an insufficient supply of farm products for home consumption—neither of which are likely to occur, and if they should occur they would be national calamities. A tariff tax on oranges and lemons grown in Greenland and on flour, wheat, corn and meat, would not benefit or effect any one, because they are not imported. The most of our exports are farm products; and except for exports imports would soon cease for want of means to pay for them. Sixty million of people are taxed to favor and enrich one million. Why should this injustice be borne? One half of all the goods manufactured in the United States are taxed by the tariff and cost more than they would except for the tariff. Why should the manufacturers of the other half of our goods be allowed a tariff to enrich them to the detriment of all others?

Through the defalcations of Silcott, many members of congress were losers of various sums. A bill was introduced a few days ago to make these losses good out of the United States treasury. Mr Herman of Oregon was loser to the extent of about $2,500. Notwithstanding the fact, that, under parliamentary rules, a member can not vote on questions in which he has a direct pecuniary interest, yet Mr Herman voted for the bill. This was a great mistake of our congressman. Like other chickens, this little fowl will, in the future, come home to roost, and will be a very sharp little thorn in the side of Mr Herman.

Preparations are being made for improvements on a grand scale in Albany next season. The old moss-back will become razzle-dazzled at the immensity of new industries and enterprises which they will be able to count up in this city next fall as monuments of the enterprise, pluck and energy of those who stake their lives and fortunes on the grand possibilities of Albany's future. There will be no place for flies in Albany next year.

All I ask is an honest comparison of my prices with those of other dealers. C. E. BROWSELL.
