

THE DAILY DEMOCRAT.

From our regular correspondent.
WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20, 1890.
Mr Harrison has sprung another English idea on the country in the shape of a Government Measure to be pushed before Congress. His predecessors have contented themselves with recommending what they thought ought to be done, and leaving the rest to Congress, but in the case of the silver bill to-day introduced in the House the English idea of legislation has been strictly followed. The bill was prepared by Secretary Windom, submitted to the cabinet and the President, approved by the latter and a majority of the former, and is now introduced in the House as an administration measure. Now if Mr Windom could only be admitted to the floor of the House to champion the measure the whole proceeding would be entirely English. The bill has been referred to the House committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, and I understand that Secretary Windom has already been promised a favorable report by the republicans of that committee. It will be interesting to see whether Congress will resent this clear usurpation of its functions by the executive branch of the government, or whether it will be quietly accepted and allowed to stand as a precedent for future administrations.

Gov. Campbell was to-day partially examined by the House committees investigating the Ohio ballot box forgery. Nothing new was brought out. Ex-Gov. Foraker, who was examined Friday and Saturday, did not raise himself any in the estimation of honorable men by his testimony, telling how he bribed Wood to get possession of the forged document. Under cross-examination he admitted that he should have discovered the forgeries if he had made as careful an examination of the paper as he should have done. Mr Foraker seems for some reason or other to be extremely bitter against Representatives McKinley and Butterworth, of Ohio.

There was a lively time in the room of the House committee on Reform in the Civil Service this morning, caused by a discussion before that committee on the merits of the present Civil Service law. Opposed to the law were Representatives Houck and Ewart, and favoring it the Civil Service Commissioners. The law received some very hard knocks, but if the private claim of the Commissioners—that a majority of the committee is pledged to them—is true, nothing is likely to come of them.

Secretary Blaine has the sympathy of everybody in the terrible bereavement which has fallen upon him, by the sudden death of his brilliant young son Walker Blaine. His funeral took place Saturday and was attended by nearly every public man in Washington and an immense crowd of private citizens.

Ex-Senator John Platt, of New York, heard about the incipient Morton Presidential boom, and came over to read the riot act to the Vice President and to inform him New York would have but one candidate to present to the National republican nominating convention in 1892, and his name would be Platt. Mr Morton refused to see things in just that light, but before Mr Platt went back home the two would-be candidates patched up some sort of a truce. Mr Platt was heard to say to a friend, "Oh let Morton think he is a candidate, and spend his money, it will put it in circulation."

As every Congressman asked about it expresses himself in favor of an immediate settlement of the one question of location for the World's Fair, it is fair to presume that it will be settled this week, or next at the farthest.

The bill admitting Wyoming has been favorably reported by the Senate committee on Territories, and the same committee has decided to lay aside the bill for the admission of Idaho until the Supreme Court decides a case now before it, affecting the constitutionality of the constitution recently adopted by the people of that Territory.

Poor Humanity!

The common lot is one of sorrow say—at least—the pessimists, they who look at the worst side. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence, is often shadowed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness of the nervous system, a condition only irremediable where inefficient or improper means are taken to relieve it. The concurrent experience of nervous people who have persistently used Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is, that it conquers entirely super-sensitiveness of the nerves, as well as diseases—so called—which are invited and sustained by their chronic weakness. As the nerves gain stamina from the great tonic the trouble disappears. Use the Bitters for malaria, rheumatism, biliousness and kidney troubles.

The estimates of the Bureau of Statistics place the value of the poultry products of last year at $200,000,000. With this enormous value of products there were $2,500,000 of eggs imported.

Nor that Benjamin Foraker has retired to the seclusion of private life the country may settle itself down to the discussion question, Who was McGinty?
