THE DAILY DEMOCRAT.

From our regular correspondent.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 24, 1890

Ex-Speaker Carlisle thinks the Lodge Federal election bill one of the most objectionable measures ever before congress, and considers that it would be practically impossible to hold a legal election under its complicated provisions. In speaking of the bill Mr Carlisle said, "Suppose we do a little figuring on it to start with. If this bill was a law there would be at each of the 90,000 election precincts of the country, at every congressional and presidential election, 7 federal officials, making a total of 630,000 men, and costing ten or fifteen millions of dollars every two years. This estimate is based upon the present number of voting precincts but the complications of this bill would make the process of voting such a slow one that the number of precincts would have to be largely increased, perhaps doubled, in order to give the voters an opportunity to deposit their ballots." The bill has not been much better received by the republicans than by the democrats.

The Blair educational bill is dead. But the Senator has come up smiling with another bill, this time the appropriation is only $58,000,000.

The republicans of the House don't vote as they talk in contested election cases. The democrats were led to believe that seven or eight republicans would vote with them in the case of Mudd vs Compton, but when the vote was taken Mudd got the solid republican vote and the seat.

There are four contested election cases in which all the arguments have been heard, and it is expected that the republicans of the committee on elections will try to railroad them through this week.

The announcement by the republicans of the House Ways and Means committee several days ago that the tariff bill was complete has brought a great deal of trouble upon them in the shape of objections from influential members of their party to certain clauses of the bill. The result is that the bill has not been reported to the House and it may not be this week, and it would not be surprising if the pressure should prove great enough to compel radical changes in the bill before it is reported. It is probable that the democrats will prepare a substitute, based on the Mills bill, but giving all raw materials used in manufacturing a place on the free list.

So general has been the complaint against the paper used in the postal cards that the Post-office department was compelled to get after the contractor, and that individual has promised to use a better quality of paper hereafter.

The House has passed the annual pension appropriation bill. It was for $98,500,000, and every man who voted for it knows that it is not enough, and there is bound to be a big deficiency at the end of the next fiscal year, but that does not stop the demagogues from getting up and howling for additional pension legislation. One of them in a speech advocating a service pension said, as coolly as if he was speaking of buying an apple, that the total cost of such a bill would not exceed $648,000,000.

When Mr Carlisle's statement was published recently that the appropriations which the republicans of this congress intended making would cause a deficiency in the treasury at the end of the next fiscal year, Mr Cannon chairman of the House committee on appropriations, stated that it was a misrepresentation made for political effect. Now, as good a republican as Senator Hawley states on the floor of the senate that the appropriations to be made for the next fiscal year will aggregate $523,000,000 against an estimated revenue of $450,000,000, making a deficit of $73,000,000. Certainly Mr Hawley was not talking for political effect.

Senator Vest made a good point when Senator Sherman's anti-trust bill was under consideration by stating that the easiest way to abolish trusts was to abolish the protective tariff which made them possible.

The bill placing John C Fremont on the retired list of the army with the rank of Major General has passed the House.

The new German Chancellor, General Caprivi, is an inveterate smoker and a moderate drinker. He manifests a marked preference for wine over beer, which he touches very rarely and sparingly.

The Republican papers out in Iowa accuse the Democrats of getting drunk on the occasion of the inauguration of the new State Government there. The Republicans on the other hand, were very sober.

Remember that the democratic primary meetings are to be held Saturday April 5th at 2 o'clock P M. Let every precint instruct its delegates to favor the viva voce system of voting.

In the matter of contested seats the rule with both houses of Congress appears to be to just let the Republicans ask for what they want and then take it.
