WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 14, 1890. Ex-Speaker Carlisle presented the minority report of the ways and means committee to the house. It takes the McKinley bill in detail and shows the injustice of that measure, and goes in to the strongest kind of argument in favor of a genuine tariff reform, one that will afford the country some real relief instead of deluding, as the McKinley bill does, those who know no better, into expecting benefits that will never come until the democrats are returned to power.

Thy democratic rooster has had a glorious time in congress since the returns from the spring elections be gan to come in. It was for several days hard to find a democratic desk in the House that was not ornamented with a newspaper with cuts of one or more roosters lustily crowing for victory in its columns, and the favorite democratic pastime last week was to show these papers to the republican members. Seriously though, the best informed democrats in congress believe the spring local elections to be but the prelude of the great tidal wave which is to give the democrats the control of the next House of Representatives, and the Presidency in 1892.

Unless there is a great change of opinion among members of the House the abolition which the judiciary committee reported and the senate passed last week under the name of an anti-trust bill will never be heard from in the House. It might as well have been called anti-small pox bill, for all it could accomplish if it were a law.

Representative Wilson, who ranks high among the democratic leaders of the House, says the republicans will certainly pass a federal election law during the present session. If they do, it will have to be done by order of King caucus, because there are enough republicans in the House who are opposed to any such law to defeat it unless they are compelled by order of the party caucus to swallow their opinions and vote with their party.

The republicans of both Senate and House have held caucus after caucus within the last few days trying to get together on the silver question. Secretary Windom has brought all of his powers of persuasion into action in trying to have the caucus adopt his silver bill, now before a House committee, but so far nothing is agreed upon. Between the anti-silver republicans and the free coinage republicans there is a wide chasm which will have to be bridged in some way before anything like unity can exist in the party on this subject. In the mean time the most of the democrats hold themselves in readiness to vote for free coinage, pure and simple, if they can get an opportunity.

The Pan-American congress wants an international American Bank established under a United States charter, with branches in all American countries. The congress will adjourn this week, and on Friday the delegates start on their southern trip.

The Tanner administration of the pension office has been stirred up again by the dismissal of the assistant chief of an important division, who had his pension re-rated. They go slowly, but they go.

Another democrat—Representative Wise of Virginia—has been deprived of the seat in the House of representatives to which he had been legally elected, and a republican put in his place who was not elected at all.

Mr. Harrison has, by authority conferred upon him by act of congress, presented a gold medal to Mr Joseph Francis, the inventor of the first life saving car. Mr Francis is 59 years of age and extremely feeble.

The California fruit crop this year promise to be unusually large, and the greater part of it will probably be dried, as dried fruit has paid better than canned.

The kangaroo is being successfully propagated in England, and there is some likelihood of this curious animal taking its place among the most familiar domestic animals of that country.

Furniture covered with rep. or similar goods, should be first whipped; then carefully brushed, and all dust wiped away with a damp cloth. A soft cloth is best for satin-covered furniture. Black walnut or mahogany furniture may be washed quickly with soapy water, and a soft brush, then wiped dry and rubbed with an oily cloth. Rotten stone and sweet oil are used to polish, and are excellent. Then all that can be rubbed off is removed and a chamols skin makes it as good as new.

Its Merits Thoroughly Tested.

Dr. E. S. Holden, Dear Sir: The Etherical Cough Syrup received. I have used this syrup for coughs and cold for several years and can truly say that it is the best, if not the best cough medicine that I have used or known of.
