DAILY DEMOCRAT.

THEY QUARREL.—Several morning papers are doing some crowing about circulation, telegraphic dispatches, etc., and the result is liable to be a several thousand dollar wager out of a months earnings over the matter. The following from the Astorian is a sample of the fur that is liable to fly: "The Salem Statesman, a clever journal, has the following at its masthead, which is a little ambiguous: "The Statesman has the second largest circulation in Oregon, both daily and weekly. Its dispatches are from the associated press direct.' The Statesman is a live paper, and if it will arrange that statement it will have a chance to get up a nice little wager. The Astorian has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper in the state outside of Portland; this paper gets its associated press dispatches via San Francisco; the Statesman and every other paper in Oregon, outside of Portland, except the Astorian, have their "associated press" report made up in a little back room in Portland. The Astorian takes more associated press report, and sends more money for news than any other newspaper in the state, outside of Portland. If the Statesman or any other newspaper feels like contradicting these facts it can earn more money in a day than it ever earned in a week."

WILL CELEBRATE.—Albany Lodge No 4 I O O F, is making extensive preparations to celebrate the seventy-first anniversary of the order on April 26, 1890. There will be a parade and other exercises, commencing at 1 o'clock p m. An oration will be delivered at the opera house at 1:30 p m, by Hon M C George, of Portland. There will be a social at the opera house in the evening. All Odd Fellows and their friends are cordially invited.

Newspaper Charity.

An old newspaper man (now retired), who is also one of Walla Walla's best citizens, not long since related his experience in conducting a country paper. Among other things he said: There are more persons who sponge from newspapers than any other class. When a man comes into the world he receives a free 'ad'; when he dies his good deeds are not overlooked by the charitable editor. All during his life he asks and receives favors from the newspapers. If they speak well of him the flattering notice is received in silence. If his acts are justly criticised he talks of a suit for damages. He desires favorable mention and desires it often. In fact some men have an idea a newspaper is run expressly to keep them before the public and that, too, without money and without price.—Statesman.
