

WILL DRIVE AWAY.

A R Meyer, president of the Argentine (Kan) Silver Smelting and Refining Works, the largest in the world, says that if the McKinley tariff bill should pass congress in its present form would be absolutely necessary for the company to close down its works at Argentine and remove its machinery and business to Mexico. This would be due to the clause imposing a tax of a cent and a half a pound on lead in ore. Robert S Towne, Vice-President of the company, has been in communication with the Mexican government for some time, and through the influence of Leigh Lonzer, agent of the Mexican Ore Company, has been granted the privilege to erect five smelters in Mexico, at points suitable to the company.

An agent of the company is now in the East purchasing the machinery for one of those which will be erected at once. The company had expected to continue to run the refineries here even if the bill passed, but Mr Meyer said to day that he thought the company would now have to close down every thing at Argentine.

"The tax which it is proposed to levy on lead in ore is simply prohibitory, and nothing remains for those who expect to smelt Mexican ore, but to work in Mexico," he remarked. It is said that Blaine, Elkins and other republican leaders interested in Colorado smelters have caused the trouble.
