

DAILY DEMOCRAT.

WEATHER BULLETIN NO. 12.

Of the Oregon State Weather Bureau, co-operating with U. S. Signal Service, Central Office, Portland, Oregon, for the week ending Saturday, June 7th, 1890:

WEATHER.

The forepart of the week was cool and cloudy, with rain, hail and snow in the mountains. The rainfall was poorly distributed, and there was not the benefit derived from it that was expected. The latter part of the week was cloudless, dry and warm, on Friday and Saturday the temperature was above 90 degrees in many sections of the state. More rain is needed. Rain and cool weather will yet produce good crops. Delayed reports from Eastern Oregon show that on May 28th, 29th and 30th frosts occurred that did damage to vegetables, especially potatoes, tomatoes and peas, corn, rye and barley were also injured.

CROPS.

The month of May had a high average temperature, the crop prospects are not so encouraging as might be desired, especially early and late sown grain. The fall and early sown wheat, continue to have a favorable outlook. The fruit prospects are good. Strawberries are very plentiful. Cherries are ripe and the trees are loaded with them. General reports indicate a light hay crop. Crops in Tillamook county are all promising. Throughout the Willamette valley rain is badly needed. Wheat fields are burnt in places. Much of the spring sown grain did not come up. In the Umpqua and Rogue river valleys the prospects are brighter. The coast counties are especially promising for good crops. The Grande Ronde and Walla Walla valleys, and a greater portion of Umatilla county as well as the major portion of Union county, have the best prospects for crops in Eastern Oregon. In the valleys of Walla walla county, wheat, oats, barley and rye are doing very well. Wasco, Sherman and sections of Gilliam county appear to be the worst affected by the dry weather. In Crook, Grant, Baker, Lake, Harney and Klamath counties, the frost of May 28th, 29th, did the most damage, and in those counties the grass is rapidly drying up.

RIVERS.

The cool weather stopped the melting of the snow in the mountains, as a result all rivers are rapidly falling. The present weather may cause them to rise again.
