

THE DAILY DEMOCRAT.

(From our regular correspondent.)
WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 30, 1899
Before Cleveland was elected President, it was the general argument, that in spite of the many corruptions, and general inefficiency of many preceding administrations, still it would not do to trust the democrats with the management of the intricate machinery of a great government.

The republicans had conducted affairs so long, and the democrats "were out" for so great a period, that this argument actually prevailed with a great many people. But the cry will not be heard again. The smooth running of the government machinery under the direction of democratic engineers is prominent in the memory of the people. In broad distinction to the old idea that the democrats of the United States constituted a particular class entirely devoid of either principle or ability, and unfit for responsible trusts—the aspect now presented by the republican administration.

The very men, who kept up the hue and cry during these past years have shown that individually, and collectively, the republican party is inefficient and unfaithful. That the harangues made for political effect, during past campaigns were insincere in their delivery, and republican politicians, unfaithful to the trusts reposed in them by the people.

The president and secretary of state have watched the foolish measures of congress and endeavored persistently, to prevent the republicans making an especial exposure of the party and killing its future prospects.

But the members of congress went on from bad to worse and were about to commit what would have been "The Unpardonable Sin" to the administration; when the president was driven to use severe and savage methods, to head them off in their insane career.

There are naturally, a few men, in every assembly, of too good a disposition to commit wrongs, and necessarily, too honest and wise to be identified with the contemptible legislation of the present congress except in denouncing it.

Mr. Butterworth, one of the most distinguished members of the House, is extremely antagonistic to everything, so far done, by congress, relating to the tariff.

He recently said that the republican who was not gratified with the president's late free trade message, did not understand the political situation, and that the heroic treatment of the president was absolutely necessary when it was delivered to save the party. He said that it was not difficult to discover, in the restless discontent which has grown up under the partial operation of our tariff, a sure harbinger of the overthrow of those who defend and uphold the extravagant rates of duty now imposed. "What is our situation as a party?" he says. The tariff unrevised—a sad no consoling prospect that the senate will do more than transpose the exorbitant rates that abound in the present schedule.

The republican party seems to have lost its appreciation of the common sense of the country. The federal election law, which is now occupying the attention of congress appears, merely an attempt to administer sugar coated poison; as obvious in its purport as the old fable of Esop's concerning the wolf and the lamb.

The bill begins with hypocrisy and ends with a piece of chicanery, since it pretends to have general application, but aims only at the south. It means that the south must be made to vote the republican ticket. There is a bitter fight between the democratic and republican members on the subject, but of course the majority will prevail, unless recent blunders have opened its eyes.

The senate has passed the bill admitting Wyoming, notwithstanding the ridiculous and absurd constitution of the would be state. Every democrat voted against it.

An effort is being made in congress, particularly in the senate to secure a new building, that will be safe and healthy; neither of which the present building is, for the government printing office. It ought to succeed as a new building is a necessity.

The majority of 5,153 votes given to Penneyer for governor is sitting very heavy on the stomachs of republican newspaper men who declared before the election in the most sanguine way that the people of Oregon would never elect a free trade governor, no, never.

At the last state election there was a tie between the democratic and republican candidates for the legislature in Wallowa county. On last Monday a special election was held when the same two candidates were run again. The democrat was elected.

Judge Pipes will preside at a special term of court to be held in Eugene July 14 to try some right of way suits brought by Oregonian Railway Co.

OUR LITTLE WORRIES AND ILLS

It is the little things of life, the worries of to-day and to-morrow, that make the crow's feet around our eyes. So the little pains of an hour or a minute break down the constitution. Look after the little ills. Brandreth's Pills cure dyspepsia, or indigestion, headache, pain in the shoulders, coughs, tightness of the chest, dizziness, sour stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, inflammation of the lungs. Pain in the region of the kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offspring of dyspepsia. One or two pills every night is sufficient. Brandreth's Pills are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

One J C Oliver writes to the Pacific Express from Union county to say, that there was quite a large vote cast in that county for the union candidates though none was credited to that party in the state official returns. He says he knows of over 50 votes for that party in three precincts. The official canvass shows twelve votes for that party in the county. If Mr Oliver is right he owes it to himself, and the public as well, to make public the proof of his statement. Let him obtain the affidavits of those union voters showing that they voted the union ticket and lay them before the public. People are slow to believe his charge, but will if he furnish such proof as the above.

Serofulous eruptions, such as pimples, discoloration of the skin, especially on the face, are caused by impure blood and will disappear rapidly by using Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier.
