

THE REAL OBSTRUCTIONISTS.

Before the present congress was organized by the election of Reed as speaker, the cry was raised among republicans that it would be necessary to change the rules of the house in order to prevent democrats from obstructing legislation.

Not satisfied with rolling up the largest democratic majority of any state in the union, the Texas democrats have nominated a Hog for g.

Between driving voters out of their party and posting leaders as "deserters," the republican hot-heads and their organs are getting in fine shape for the occasion.

Uncle Jerry Rusk should issue a circular congratulating the farmers of the United States on the shortness of their crops. If those crops could be made short enough every year to come down to the home-market demand it would be a great thing for agriculture.

We tell the senators plainly that the party is in danger if they do not assert their right to save it from the tariff extremists of the house. What the republican party needs to-day above all things else is a few more rebels in the senate.
