The Russians eat on an average once in two hours. Climate and custom require this gorging.

Compressed paper is now used as a substitute for wood in the manufacture of shuttles and wheels for looms.

A Wilmington (Mich) man whose well ran dry found that the roots of a willow tree had grown a distance of twenty-four feet, coiled up on the bottom in a solid mass, and were carrying all the water into the foliage.

Sounding in the Black Sea show that beyond a depth of 600 feet the water is so impregnated with sulphurated hydrogen gas, emanating from decaying animal and vegetable matter, that living organisms are not found there.

GENERAL HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

If a person of greater age or higher rank than yourself desires you to step first into a carriage, or through a door, it is more polite to bow and obey than to decline.

No compliment that bears insincerity on the face of it is a compliment at all.

Unmarried ladies may not accept presents from gentlemen who are neither related nor engaged to them. Presents made by a married lady to a gentleman can only be offered in the joint names of her husband and herself.

When you cannot agree with the propositions advanced in general conversation, be silent. If pressed for your opinion, give it with modesty. Never defend your own views too warmly. When you find others remain unconvinced, drop the subject, or lead to some other topic.

Look at those who address you.

Never boast of your birth, your money, your grand friends, or anything that is yours. If you have travelled, do not introduce that information into your conversation at every opportunity. Any one can travel with money and leisure. The real distinction is to come home with enlarged views, improved tastes, and a mind free from prejudice.

If you present a book to a friend, do not write his or her name in it unless requested. You have no right to presume that it will be rendered any the more valuable for that addition; and you ought not to conclude beforehand that your gift will be accepted.

Never undervalue the gift which you are yourself offering; you have no business to offer it if it is valueless. Neither say that you do not want it yourself, or that you should throw it away if it were not accepted.

There is an art and propriety in the giving of presents which it requires a natural delicacy of disposition rightly to apprehend. You must not give too rich a gift nor too poor a gift. You must never make a present with any expectation of a return; and you must not be too eager to make a return yourself when you accept one. A gift must not be ostentatious, but it should be worth offering. On the other hand, mere costliness does not constitute the soul of a present.

Never refuse a present unless under very exceptional circumstances. However humble the giver, and however poor the gift, you should appreciate the good will and intention, and accept it with kindness and thanks. Never say, "I fear I rob you," or "I am really ashamed to take," etc. Such deprecatory phrases imply that you think the bestower of the gift cannot spare or afford it.

Acknowledge the receipt of a present without delay.

Converse with a foreigner in his own language. If not competent to do so, apologize, and beg to speak English.

Members of the family should not converse together in society.

Do not smoke shortly before entering the presence of ladies.

1891. Harper's Magazine ILLUSTRATED.

The important series of papers on South America, by THOMAS CHURCH, will be continued in HARPER'S MAGAZINE during the greater part of the year 1891. Three of the largest pork-packing institutions of Chicago, including Armour & Co., propose to leave that city and establish their business at the southern extremity of Lake Michigan in Indiana. It is said that a good harbor can easily be made there, and the business which these three establishments will bring must warrant a city of 100,000 or more within a few years.

The nest of the hornet is the first article of paper manufacture that ever saw light of day. The hornet takes the wood of a tree, grinds it assiduously into pulp, and forms sheets of paper out of which he constructs his nest. Altho', as you can see, the paper is gray in its present condition, it is undoubtedly paper, of the finest kind.

The U S have 776,500 of telegraph wire, and in 1889 no less than 56,000,000 messages were sent through the country. France has 220,890 miles of wire, on which in 1889 were transmitted 30,050,000 dispatches. Great Britain has 180,000 miles of wire, and in 1889 sent 50,000,000 messages.

THE GOLDEN RULE BAZAAR.

Has now a complete line of Holiday goods, dolls, doll buggies, boys' wagons, velocipedes, and many other goods which go to make up a complete line for Christmas, besides a complete line of lamps of every description. China crockery, fancy decorated ware, glassware, bird cages, plush goods, such as albums, toilet sets, autograph books, scrap books, children's A B C picture books, and all goods that are carried in a Bazaar store, including Roger Bros. 1847 silverware. We wish to call the attention of the public in particular to the Golden Rule prize baking powder and tea, put up expressly for this trade, which gives the best of satisfaction, as is attested by the hundreds who have used both the tea and baking powder ever since introduced by the Golden Rule Bazaar. Each package of tea and can of baking powder draws a prize in the shape of a fine piece of glassware. Be sure to call, when in Albany, at the Golden Rule Bazaar, as you will be sure to find what you want, and will be shown over the store and be treated kindly by my clerk, Mr. Miller. My goods are all marked in plain figures so as not to deceive anyone, and I have but one price to all.

Yours truly,
JULIUS GRADWOLD,
