

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10, 1890.

Mr. Harrison has shut his eyes to the results of the recent elections and made up his mind to urge in his annual message to Congress the passage by the Senate of the Force bill and by the House of the notorious ship subsidy bill. In short, he has, in spite of the protests of some of the most far-seeing members of his party, including Mr. Blaine, determined to cast his lot with the radical wing of the republican party. That he ever does not mean that the Force bill will be passed. All indications are against its passage, as it is certain that more republican senators would now vote against it than would have done so at the last session of Congress had it then reached a vote. Mr. Harrison will also, it is said, strongly endorse the McKinley tariff act in his message. Democrats fear that these things are too good to be true. They can hardly realize that their opponents should be willing to do so much toward democratic success in 1892.

There are good reasons for believing that as soon as Congress meets bills will be introduced by republican senators from the northwest, modifying or repealing sections of the new tariff law which bear down heavily upon the citizens of the states they represent. It is believed that bills placing binding time on the free list, and reducing the duty on ready-made clothing would receive the votes of every republican senator from west of the Mississippi river; and there is some talk about a combination which in return for the votes of several republican senators from the eastern states for these measures, shall repeal all duties upon raw material. Such bills could easily be gotten through the House as it is a fact well known here that at least twenty-five members of the House voted for the McKinley bill under protest, and only because they lacked the courage to stand the lashes of the party whip which was given them unsparingly whenever they evinced a disposition to kick outside of the party traces.

Mr. Blaine is now engaged in performing his celebrated reciprocity act. He hopes to save the old and old republican party by holding out glittering inducements to the people of what will be accomplished in the future, and by ignoring the injury inflicted upon them at this time, which they have resented so effectually by their votes. Mr. Blaine has a long head, and his brain is an active one, but he cannot bamboozle the American people, who know that real reciprocity with a string tied to it, provided for, or rather alleged to be provided for, by the McKinley tariff law, is a fraud pure and simple. Oh no, Mr. Blaine, the people have been juggled with too long in the "protection" line to be caught by the false glitter of your "reciprocity."

The treasury surplus has been reduced so low lately that it is said completed pension cases are held up in the pension office because the treasury wanted a charge to get in some more money before honoring another draft of the Commissioner of Pensions, who drew $19,000,000 last month. It becomes plainer every day that the deficit prophesied by the democrats at the last session of Congress for the next fiscal year will exist.

Not satisfied with having served notice upon Senator Quay that he must vacate his position as chairman of the republican national committee, there is an element in the republican party that wants to depose Speaker Reed from the leadership of his party in the House, and the proposition has been boldly put forth that the complimentary nomination for Speaker of the next House be given to some other republican. There might be something in this if there was anybody else to lead the republicans, but Reed is about the only prominent republican that was re-elected, and the chances are that he would have gone with the rest if the election in Maine had not taken place before the tariff bill went into effect; and they will have to follow him or nobody.

The joint congressional committee to investigate violations of the Chinese immigration law, left here for the Pacific Slope Saturday. Sessions are to be held at Spokane Falls, Tacoma, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego. The committee expects to return about the last of December.

Secretary Windom finds it more difficult than he supposed to abrogate or interfere with the privileges enjoyed by the Canadian railroads, which cross sections of the United States. When Mr. Bayard was secretary of state he decided that these privileges were protected by a section in a treaty between England and the United States.

Senator Spooner seems to have the inside in the race for the vacancy upon the bench of the Supreme Court.

Don't fail to our men's and boys' clothing before purchasing elsewhere. We sell the best clothing for the least money of any house in the city. Look and be convinced. G. W. Simpson.

INSTRUCTION IN MUSIC.—Those wishing instruction in piano, organ or harmony, should call on Mrs. H. F. Hollenbeck, at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Monteith. Private musicals will be given each term for the benefit of pupils.

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.—G. W. Willis has just completed his blacksmith shop at the corner of Second and Railroad streets where all kinds of iron and wood work can be had and done in first class order. Bring on your plows, wagons, etc., etc. for repair.

At the next session of the legislature another raid will doubtless be made on the state treasury for funds with which to build wagon roads. The people of Baker City should be awake this time and secure some of the money to improve the road leading to Grant county.—Oregon Blade.

Oh indeed. So you want to join in this raid on the treasury do you? Well, we commend your frankness, though we deprecate the fact that there is one newspaper in Oregon that will justify these raids to deplete the treasury of the state through unconstitutional and un-called-for methods.

THE GOLDEN RULE BAZAAR.

Has now a complete line of Holiday goods, dolls, doll buggies, boys' wagons, velocipedes, and many other goods which go to make up a complete line for Christmas, besides a complete line of lamps of every description, China crockery, fancy decorated ware, glassware, bird cages, plush goods, such as albums, toilet sets, autograph books, scrap books, children's ABC picture books, and all goods that are carried in a Bazaar store, including Roger Bros' 1847 silverware. We wish to call the attention of the public in particular to the Golden Rule prize baking powder and tea put up expressly for this trade, which gives the best of satisfaction, as is attested by the hundreds who have used both the tea and baking powder ever since introduced by the Golden Rule Bazaar. Each package of tea and can of baking powder draws a prize in the shape of a fine piece of glassware. Be sure to call, when in Albany, at the Golden Rule Bazaar, as you will be sure to find what you want, and will be shown over the store and be treated kindly by my clerk, Mr. Miller. My goods are all marked in plain figures so as not to deceive anyone, and I have but one price to all.

Yours truly,
JULIUS GRADWORT,
Oct. 18, 1890.
