A FAMILY POISONED

Last evening the family of Mayor J L Cowan had, among other things, head cheese for supper. Those who partook of it were the Mayor, Mrs Cowan, Miss of it were the Mayor, Mrs. Gowan, Miss Eva Cowan, Miss Lee Prather, Mrs. Renner, who was spending the evening with them, and afterwards the Chinese cook. William Cowan, not liking it, did not induige in it. Shortly before 10 o'clock the members of the family, who had caten of the head cheese, were taken violently ill, Miss Prather just as she returned, on being sent for, on returning with William Cowan from spending the evening at a neighbors. A clerk in the Bank, who has a room at Mr Cowan's, was sent for Dr Maston, who immediate-ly responded, and by morning by using antilotes had gotten all of the family out of danger, though, at one time, Miss Eva Cowan, who had partaken most heartily of the cheese, came very near dying. Mrs Reamer, who had returned to her brother's, was only slightly affected hav-Mrs Benner, who had returned to her brother's, was only slightly affected, hav-ing only tasted the cheese. The China-man stated in the morning that he was heap sick all night, and came near dying. The cause was at once surnised, and laid in some way to the head cheese, though the symotoms, particularly in The cause was at once surnised, and laid in some way to the head cheese, though the symptoms, particularly in the case of Miss Eva, who had concul-sions, was arsenic poisoning. An inves-tigation revealed the fact that Mrs Cow-an made the head cheese herself and that the family had been eating from the same make about a week. Last evening the fresh supply of vinegar on hand hav-ing been exhausted some was used from a jug that had been standing since lune. It was very strong acid vinegar and was diluted before used. The jug has been broken and reveals quite a sediment of what appears to be arsenic matter on the bottom. The theory is that the acid of the vinegar ate it from the glazing on the interior of the jug in which there are said to be arsenic properties. Mrs Cowan and Miss Eva Cowan are at the time of going to press scriously ill from the effects of the poison, but are considered out of danger. The others are doing well.

Albany people who have been here a year or less took great delight on Christ-mas in picking fresh flowers from yards in the city, and sending them back cast to their friends, to show them what a glorious country we have. New comers always do this. They seem to like to make their castern relatives green with envy, though it is difficult to imagine anything green back there among the many feet of snow. But, bless us, here our lawns are lush and lusty with ver-dure.

Linn county never having received much from the state of Oregon it would be very gratifying to see so competent a man as Hon T J Black given the position of Railroad Commissioner. The June-tion Pilot gets down to business on the subject as follows: "The proper man to appoint as railroad commissioner is the man who has use for the railroads and has found out when it is that wrongs have been perpetrated, the man that has seen wrongs long neglected before an at-tempt was made to have them righted, the man that is considerate for the welfare of our state and her citizens, the man that is considerate for the welfare of our state and her citizens, the man that is enterprising, quick to perceive and prompt to act. We know such a man to be T I Black, Give him two cually as good colleagues, with power to do their work, and Oregon will have cause to rejoice.
