This Spring.

The "joyous spring" has come again,
And what a sight to see.
The snow lies deep upon the ground
And loads each drooping tree.
The lovely grass so bright a green
That all this winter grew,
The springing flowers, the budding leaves,
The snow hides all from view.
Oh! take away this freezing spring,
With all its ice and snow;
The suffering it brings to us,
We'd rather never know!

And give us back the winter time,
The best that ever threw
Its shadows o'er this favored land,
Its joys we would renew.
March 2nd, 1891.

LEBANON.—Two passenger coaches on the road between Lebanon and Albany and two trains daily; this argues some business for the Lebanon branch road.

L. O. Morgan, of Albany, moved into H. C. Hardman's house this week. Mr. Morgan will team for Jennings & Co the coming season.

At the school election Monday, C. H. Halston was elected director and Dr. L. Foley clerk.

J. A. Beard sold his drug store last week to Messrs J. A. Roberts and Charley Miller, of this place. Although John will retire from the business, we are assured that he will continue to abide with us.—Express.

Scio.—The Edward Barrett Comedy company will give entertainments at the city hall tonight and tomorrow night. Admission, 35 cents.

Dr. Althorn, recently of Michigan, arrived in this city Monday, and will locate and practice his profession in our city. He has secured an office in the Blythe brick, where he can be found at all times.

We hear of what came near being another fatal hunter's accident, that occurred a few miles from this city last week. One hunter had killed a deer and was carrying it on his shoulder, another hunter mistaking him (the man and deer) for game, fired at him, the bullet going so close to hunter No. 1 as to clip a lock of hair from his head.—Press.
