

LOOK AT THE FIGURES.

There were two important changes in the usual proceedings during the closing hours of the Fifty-first congress. No unanimous vote of thanks was allowed to be recorded to the retiring speaker, and no estimate was given by the chairmen of the proper committees of the totals of the appropriation bills.

But these be-spots that will not out at the demand of republican conspirators. One thousand million dollars is the sum named as the cost to the people of a republican congress. This is the amount to be raised by taxation from a people who were promised that their prosperity was assured by the return to power of a party pledged to a reduction of their burdens.

Turning to the details of this steal the people will find no redeemable feature. They are not to be taxed to reduce their bonded debt. They are not to pay now that future payments may be lessened. The pension list is mounting to alarming figures after a generation has passed since the war closed.

The reported likeness of Mr McKinley to the great soldier-statesman of France's days of glory is more than a physical resemblance. History records the fact that the exile of St. Helena continued to the end to nurse the delusion of the return of his "star of destiny."

Most of the democratic papers of the state approved Governor Penneyer's veto of the wagon road bills because they believe they were clearly constitutional. But it is not true, as stated by an exchange that they all endorse his views on the World's Fair matter.

It is rumored that our forty Secretary of State, Mr Blaine, is to be sued for $1,000,000 by the widow of the late Gen. Barrundia. Mrs Barrundia evidently believes in reciprocity.
