Rivats,-In one of Eugenes' "An s" boom articles appearing daily Oregonian the following appears; a thousand dollars will be spent by tyin a sewerage system; the street as will cost $20,000; the wooden-factory will put in $15,000; and the ry expects to start with $25,000 abod. Other industries will follow by, for the city is awake to its adges. Eugene has no rival. Albany pulses and Salem cighty miles and Eugene, the "Queen City," at sal of the Williamette valley intends sert herself, not with a "bubble p but by developing all the impresences tribulary to her. Keep boom articles appearing dailbut by developing all the in-scources tributary to her. Keep a on Eugene." The idea that and Eugene are far enough away e rivals is a good one. The two-n well grow together. Speaking wements Albany already has her trs, her $75,000 woolen mill, her this, planing mills, claim factories, e. etc., and we are clad to se-e. etc., and we are clad to ses, etc., and we are glad to see gene is also striving to get some
