SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr George Whitman came down from Green Basin last evening.

L.H. McMahan, editor of the Woodburn Independent, is in the city today.

J.M. Moyer and his head man in the Portland Albany woolen mills store, were in the city this morning.

The ladies of the Congregational church will give a "Spider Web" sociable, at the residence of Wm Vance, Friday evening, April 10th.

Mrs L.E. Blain, Mrs A.D. McCoy and Misses Rhoda Hall and Annie Flinn went to Portland this morning to attend the U.P. conference.

Cap Humphrey has returned from a two months' stay in the valley, much to the pleasure of his "cittizens" at Pendleton.—Pendleton E.O.

Mrs John Simpson and daughter, of Corvallis, are visiting Albany friends, while Mr Simpson is doing Portland on business.

Judge Chenoweth has returned from San Francisco, where he received the state agency for a valuable work, and is now in the city on a tour appointing county canvassers.

Ex County Commissioner Wash Phillips is in the city. Mr Phillips now resides in Seio, having leased his farm for five years. He was one of the most efficient commissioners the county has had and Albany people are always glad to see him.

C.W. Ayers passed through Albany today for Portland to secure some machinery for his placer mines, from which he had just come. Their prospects increase and he believes there is a big thing there. A seven foot quartz ledge has just been discovered there, which promises rich returns.

Milk, Butter and Beet Money.

Thirty tons of beets (Mangold) to the acre. Plenty of grass makes plenty of milk and of butter and of money, and that is what we want both in city and country. We are told money is scarce, but that is as you take it; bring half a car load (12,000 lbs) of fine butter and you will find plenty of buyers with the cash in hand glad to give you money and get your butter. Look a moment friends. A well managed dairy farm of 120 acres will turn out 12,000 pounds of butter in a year, which sold at present prices 30 cents per pound, would bring the snug little sum of $3600, and you need not wait for your money. Draw your own conclusion.

Will beets be of much benefit as feed for our stock? Yes, very decidedly; everybody knows that if we had grass, good grass and plenty of it the year around we could much easier solve the question of plenty of milk and butter and money the year around. The beets brings us right there. Beets is grass in the winter. Give a cow a bushel beets per day during the four winter months, together with enough of other feed and good care, and you will have no trouble in getting a good cow to produce 2 pounds of butter per day right in winter. You see it does not require much land to raise roots enough for your stock. One bushel per day per cow for four months is 120 bushels only per cow.

One acre well prepared land will produce one thousand bushels beets and the labor attached to the cultivation is not great.

What time should beets be planted? They should be put in as soon as the ground handles well and not later than the month of April. If you have Beaverdam land choose such, if not, any other land good for wheat or oats will answer, plow deep, 8 or 10 inches, pulverize the land well and work it one way, 3 feet apart, plant on flat ground in straight lines, drop 2, 3 seed together about 14 inches apart in the row, cover with an inch firm soil. When well up go over the field and only leave one plant in a place. Keep the soil firm and mellow, especially during dry weather, and you will be astonished to see what immense crop you can get and the money it will return you in the shape of feed and product.

Any information on the above subject will be cheerfully furnished any one desiring it by the undersigned.

C.H. Schmitt, Albany.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Monmouth milliner calls her shop "The Emporium of Pretties." The Tom-sorial Palaces will please take a back seat.

The Roseburg Review says the E.O.R.R. Commissioner while in that city got on as a spree. Well, what is he paid for anyway.

Recently four of Albany's famous Nimrods were hunting geese, etc., near Shedd. Becoming hungry they sent a little girl, whom they met, to her father's house for something to eat. The girl was equal to the occasion, and told her mother that she wanted something for four traps to eat. The good lady of the house hunted up four antiquated biscuits, surpassing army hardtack, and sent them to the men, and then they learned what it was to be soldiers. That was the extent of their meal.

SODAVILLE NEWS.

SODAVILLE, Ore., April 7, 1891.

Much valuable work has done on the spring lot recently and it will be in better condition than ever before.

The attendance at school has been very large, for this place during all the year, and still continues to be large. A new wing is to be built on the building this summer and another teacher to be hired. This will be a much needed improvement for our village and widely appreciated by all.

Main street is to be treated to a new sidewalk, on both sides of the street in the very near future. Improvement in the general order at present.

A little child of Mr and Mrs Solon Faulkner, that was burned by falling on a stove a few days since, is improving as rapidly as could be expected.

Many people in this vicinity are planting gardens.

Rev Joseph Brown preached a very able sermon at this place on Sunday last. Bro. Brown occupies the pulpit on the first and third Sundays, and Bro. Bashor on the second and fifth.

Our Sunday school is in a prosperous condition, which is a source of much good in Soda, also prayer meeting every Sunday evening.

S.E. Cooper has moved into the house recently vacated by Wm Simmons; the latter buying and moving on the farm of Mr Kearns.

The teacher and pupils of the school are making preparations for Arbor Day exercises to be held at the school house on Friday next.

A large business house is soon to be erected on Main street, which will be used for a drug store. Several houses will also be built during the summer.

TANGENT.

April 7th, 1891.

Quite an interesting Easter service was given by the Methodist Church South on Easter evening. The program consisted of music, recitations and exercises by the children. The chief attraction of the evening was the representation of the ten virgins by ten young ladies. The five wise ones were dressed in white robes their lamps burning bright, the five foolish in black robes and their lamps gone out. It was quite a solemn scene and many were moved to tears. Services were also held in the M.E. Church.

The spring term of school commenced Monday with the same corps of teachers.

Mr G.W. Smith has returned from Halsey, where he has been studying telegraphy, and will take charge of the store here.

The Hesperian Literary Society meets every Friday evening. It affords great amusement for young and old as well as being very beneficial.

The Ladies Aid Society of Tangent M.E. Church South have reorganized and begun work for the summer with the following officers: President, Mrs N.E. Olin; vice-president, Mrs L.A. Bryan; secretary, Minnie McGhee; treasurer, Mrs Sue Jenks.

Reminiscences Continued.

Editors Democrat: Seeing there is a controversy in your paper between Long Ago or Veteran and Wayward child, and as I have been asked a good many questions about the matter I will just say both writers are slightly mistaken in their narrative. Long Ago or Veteran was mistaken in the name as all the mistake I can see worth noticing, as Job was the man he was writing about and calling Uncle Johnny Crabtree. Everything else corresponded with Uncle Job and surrounding. Wayward Child says Uncle Job hadn't nine children at time of second marriage. He had nine at that time I can name, or at least he had to go to mill for nine children, while his wife had several, and after they married they had four. John Crabtree, better known as Uncle Johnny, was married the first and only time on February 22, 1825, to the lady he still lives with, having five children born in each of the three states, namely, Virginia, Missouri, Oregon, and used to talk some of moving to California, but think he has given that up.
