

KNIGHTS OF LABOR VS REPUBLICANS.

A dispatch from Philadelphia says: General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, tonight made public a lengthy statement regarding the controversy over the employment of plate printers. He begins with the assertion that the statements credited to secretary Foster are entirely and unqualifiedly false.

That the seven men dropped from the rolls in the plate printing department shall be restored to their former places, or places of equal importance and pay, and shall be treated with the same fairness and consideration as the other plate printers by the chief and assistants in the bureau.

Just as the knights were congratulating them selves upon the happy termination of the trouble, a committee of plate printers was called in by Meredith. The card which preceded them said:

"A Delegation from the Gompers federation of labor desires to be heard before an agreement is arrived at with the Knights of Labor."

Continuing, Powderly in his statement says: "These men have been drilled by Meredith as to their speech and conduct while deliberating with the secretary, but Meredith forgot to tell them the name of the organization they were supposed to represent, and gave the name of an association that does not exist."

After a short interview with this committee the secretary turned to Devin and said, "If there is to be a fight with this organization or yours I don't know out I had better fight yours."

Devin retorted that the Knights of Labor could do some fighting themselves, and called Secretary Foster's attention to the fact he had concluded an agreement, but Foster said he would have to send for Gompers before he could arrive at a further understanding of the case.

The advice of Secretary Foster have influenced him to so act as to give the controversy such a coloring as to create the impression that it is a struggle between the labor organizations. Such is not the case. Foster has an undoubted right to consult with Gompers if he pleases, but the fact still remains that none of the men involved belong to any organization but the Knights of Labor.

"SOME MCKINLEY PRICES."

The Oregonian under the above caption recites that one assistant Secretary Bussey, (whoever he is,) informs the public that bids for contracts for furnishing goods and supplies for the Indians are put at lower figures than they were before the passage of the McKinley bill, and urges this fact to show that prices have not advanced since the passage of that bill.

Mr Blaine resembles his presidential boom to the extent that he is said to be gaining strength daily. He is taking life easily at Bar Harbor. He goes out driving every day takes a regular amount of exercise, has a good appetite and seems greatly to enjoy his freedom from official cares.

The Telescope claims that Jeff Myers says McKinley is not a man of ability.

Jeff Myers says McKinley is not the man of ability he has been led to believe he was. Gentlemen and ladies of the commonwealth of Oregon, you pay your money, you take your choice. Singular.

If the republicans carry both Ohio and Iowa this fall, it will be no more than they did last fall when they carried both states.

HOME MARKETS.

The Scio Press approvingly appropriates the arguments of some "exchange" in favor of the so called "home market" theory put forward as an excuse for the imposition of a high tariff tax on foreign importations. Time and time again has this home market theory been shown to be a humbug.
