

WASHINGTON.
(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14, 1891.

Mr Harrison will return to Washington tomorrow, and if he can get his attention away from the horse of would be public pap-suckers now waiting to pounce upon him, for a few minutes, he may be able to help clear away the suspicion under which the United States treasury department now rests, of having attempted to hamper the investigation which it has pretended to be so anxious to have made, of the affairs of the wrecked Keystone National Bank, of Philadelphia. It is regarded naturally as a suspicious circumstance that just as the expert accountants at work on the books of that bank were getting into the part of their work which promised important results, that it should be discovered at the treasury that the fund from which they were paid was exhausted and that they must be dismissed and the investigation stopped. There's money enough to pay a thousand and one unnecessary expenses for this and that, but not enough to pay for the investigation of a wrecked bank with which a prominent member of the administration had been much mixed up. Isn't that suspicious of itself?

Treasury officials pretend to be rocking their brains to discover a way to pay these men, meanwhile the men have stopped work. Perhaps when they resume, if they ever do, some of the books may be missing. The Philadelphia people have taken the matter up, and if their committee's stinging letter to the treasury department does not cause Mr Harrison to take some action he is either thicker-skinned than he has been supposed to be, or is afraid for his friend, Mr Wanamaker. At any rate the letter, a portion of which follows, will make Mr Harrison do some thinking: "It is of vital importance alike to the credit of the national banking system and to the cause of justice, that the investigation shall be pursued to the end and directly under the auspices of the United States government. If it be true, as stated, that the experts employed by the government have been dismissed for the reason that there are now no funds available for the payment of their expenses, then this committee will advance any reasonable amount required to meet such expenses." Everything may be perfectly straight about the action of the treasury officials in this matter, but it certainly does not look so. Everybody will concede that the financial system of a nation should be, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. There is now a large and respectable body of our citizens bitterly opposed to the entire national banking system, because of its principles, but even they have never charged that there was crookedness in the administration of the system, and woe be unto that administration upon which crookedness is proven.

A gentleman who is very close to Representative Mills said of the report that Mr Mills was hedging on the silver question: "Those who believe such a story do not know the man. He never straddled a question in his life. I could talk to you for an hour about his position, but instead I will refer you to the first speech he makes in Ohio, which will be on the 19, inst. I happen to know that he will on that occasion fully define his position on every question now before the public, and," with a wink, "that is more than some of his competitors for the speakership dare to do."

The democratic missionary party, or rather a portion of it, left here yesterday for Chicago, where they will be joined by the remainder. Their first stop will be at St. Paul on the 15th inst. They are due at Spokane Falls, Washington, on the 24th inst. Tariff will be given everywhere.

Your correspondent was shown today what purported to be a letter from an Ohio republican to a member of the same party in Washington, which, if the writer knew what he was talking about, contained a most important piece of political news. Following is a copy of a paragraph in the letter referred to: "Don't get worried about the newspaper accounts of the Sherman-Forsaker feud; there is no feud between them, but on the contrary the most perfect and cordial understanding. It has been thought best to have them appear to be fighting each other in order to bring out a full vote through the efforts of their respective followers many of whom are not in the secret. If we succeed in electing a majority of the legislature, which, between us, is far from a certainty, John Sherman will be re-elected to the senate as a "vindication" so to speak. He will, as may seem best at the time, either decline or before the adjournment of the legislature resign, giving as a reason his desire to retire from the cares and troubles of public life, and Forsaker will then be elected to succeed him. Be careful to whom you speak about this, as it might seriously interfere with the party leaders' plans, should it get out; but you may depend on its being true."

The profile which adorns the silver dollar is that of a Philadelphia school teacher, Miss Anna W. Williams. Her profile is considered to be the most perfect of any woman in Philadelphia.

An extensive Chicago manufacturer of harvesters has sold his entire output of machines—125,000—and is now expressing his machines from the south to all over the northwest.

The saving of 2½ cents per pound in the price of sugar since the McKinley bill went into effect, says the Boston Journal, means on the 3,000,000,000 imported in the last fiscal year $75,000,000 in the pockets of the great American people. And all by reason of the "iniquitous McKinley bill."—Statesman.

Now it is a very commendable thing for legislators to so legislate as to make financial savings to the people. And it should be noticed that in the above matter the saving to the people was not secured by adhering to the protection scheme, but by breaking away from protection and adopting free trade. The people see and understand this, Mr. Statesman.

Governor D B Hill was pretty smartly snubbed at the New York state convention the other day. He wanted the convention to nominate McNaughton, of Rochester for lieutenant governor. They gave the nomination to Sheehan by a unanimous vote. He wanted them to nominate Maynard for attorney general but they nominated Rosendale. He wanted the convention to follow his dictation as to the platform but the convention sat down on him again.

Roswell P Flower candidate on the democratic ticket for governor of New York, Frank Rice the candidate for secretary of state and Rosendale candidate for attorney general are all Cleveland men.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW.
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I at last it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Hensley, with his ORGON KIDNEY TONIC, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the ton. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I was happy to state that I was a new man. I will recommend the ton to all afflicted as I have been.
