

THE LANE CO. VERDICT.—Sheriff J. E. Nolan, this morning, arrested one Joe Goggin at Albany, on suspicion of having been implicated in the murder of John Ewing, above Cottage Grove, last summer. It seems Goggin had told that the young man Ewing was dead and that his body had been sunk in a stream with rocks attached to his body. He was brought here this afternoon and incarcerated in the county jail. It appears that the young man, John Ewing, was working in a saw mill above Cottage Grove last June, when one day he took a gun and went to the woods to hunt for deer. After he left three shots were heard about one-half mile distant from the mill. Ewing did not return, and for the next several days search parties were organized and thoroughly hunted the woods for him, but found no trace, and nothing has been heard of the missing man since. The people of that section have suspected that he has been foully dealt with, as he had no cause to disappear, and then he left all his belongings, not even taking his coat.—Guard. They undoubtedly have the wrong man.

SCIO FIRE FACTS.—An exchange gives the following in reference to the Scio mills: The Scio mills were built by McKinney & Turner sometime in 1857 and did a large business in those days. In 1878, R. Pentland of The Dalles entered and improved them. In 1885, upon the death of R. Pentland, they passed into the hands of their present owner. In connection with the mill was a large pump and tank for furnishing the town with water, also an electric light plant run by the water power. D. Myers planing mill, and a wagon shop, were also furnished power. The mills and recently been rebuilt, and provided with new improved machinery, together with the addition of the plants which furnish the town with electric lights and the water power.

SHINE MURDERED.—J. H. Stine was murdered near Whiteson Sunday night. Stine, N. C. Cook and a section boss were going home from Amity when Cook, who was following Stine on the railroad track, suddenly drew a revolver and shot Stine in the back. He then shot himself. Both men died almost instantly. The section boss went to Whiteson and gave the alarm. No cause was given for the deed. It is surmised here that the men had probably been drinking. Stine was a one time editor of the Brownsville Times and Lebanon Express, which papers he founded.

One version of the tragedy is that Stine was shot because he had been in the habit of joking Cook about the stories told concerning Cook and a characterless woman of the neighborhood, stating that the Grand Army would get hold of the story and put him in the penitentiary. Cook was mentally weak and totally destitute of understanding a joke.

TODAY.—W. S. Cleveland, the famous young minstrel manager, now in the city, probably does more work than any other manager in the country. He never thinks of such a thing as a summer vacation. He oversees everything, no matter how trifling; everything must be in perfect order and thoroughly equipped before he sends a show on the road. This season everything is new, new people, new costumes, new scenery—not a vestige of last season's show remain. Mr. Cleveland appreciates the fact that the public want to see something new every year, and has gathered together a host of novelties this season. At the opera house tonight.

The Salem Statesman says of them: In the line of minstrelsy, Cleveland stands pre-eminently at the head. Beforehand he advertised that there would be none of those "old favorites" and there were not. The entertainment even the stale jests were missed, everything being new, crisp and fresh.

How Much Rain.—Some people say that the month of November just passed was noted for being rainy. Others say not. But the figures tell the tale. The average rainfall for the month of November for the last fifteen years is 3.92 inches. The amount of rainfall for the November just ended was 7.32 inches, so the rainfall this November was nearly double that of the average for the last fifteen years.

A New Nursery.—Mr. J. A. Hyman has begun the establishment of a nursery on twenty acres of land on the Rainwater arm across the river. He selected the place on account of the bridge. That section of Benton county in a few years will be built up with gardens and nurseries.

Rev. Irvine returned this noon from a trip to Salem.
Mrs. Russell, residing on Lyon street, is lying dangerously ill, due to a rupture a few days ago.
G. W. Simpson returned last evening from a trip to Spokane Falls, where he disposed of 20,000 pounds of dried fruit.
J. W. Blain, cashier of the First National bank of Albany, was in the city yesterday.
C. C. Hovis, the restaurant man, just north of the Democrat office, left last night on the overland for California, much to the regret of several Albany creditors.

AN ALBANY MAN NAMED.—The Independent West Side says: "There is little doubt of Eugene Hermann's receiving the nomination again," and then asks: "Who is the Eugene of the democrats in the first congressional district upon whom to bestow the honor of a nomination?" Answering its own question, it says that a fit man is to be found in Hon. J. K. Weatherford, of Albany. "Thus presenting the name of J. K. Weatherford," it says, "is a voluntary contribution on our part, and entirely unknown to him, but we do it with a firm conviction in his fidelity to democratic principles, and from the fact that by personal intercourse with many members of the party he stands in the front rank, as one that should receive the honor of a nomination. We therefore present the name of J. K. Weatherford to the consideration of the democracy as one worthy in all respects to receive that honor at their hands."

CIRCUIT COURT.—The following new cases have been begun: J. J. Long agt. J. M. Coffelt. For recovery of money. Attachment. H. H. Hewitt, attorney for plaintiff. C. H. Hoberg agt. G. W. Eells, et al. Foreclosure mechanic's lien. G. W. Wright, attorney for plaintiff. A. B. McIlwain agt. C. D. Turner. For recovery of money. J. N. Duncan, attorney for plaintiff. Assignment of A. J. Achison. Blackburn & Watson, attorneys. A. S. Knox agt. city of Albany. Weatherford and Wolverton, attorneys for plaintiff.

WHEAT, 91 CENTS.
A Portland man lost $1100 on a foot race at Pendleton. It takes a foolish man to back a foot race these modern days. Nearly all of them are slippery.
At sixteen, a girl wants a dude with toothpick shoes and a microscopic mustache; at twenty, a chief justice with piles of tin; at twenty-five, she'll be satisfied with a member of congress; at thirty a country preacher or doctor will do; at thirty-five anything that wears pants, from an editor up.—Ex.

Even an editor will sometimes show symptoms of meanness. We loaned a certain editor not a thousand miles from here, two dollars last September to enable him to get home and after waiting two months drew on him through his bank and got an opportunity to pay the expenses.—Junction City Times.
"It is hard to print a daily in a small town without having something to worry about." The Journal worries more than all the other papers in Oregon combined.—Albany Democrat. The above bail was thrown into the water to see what kind of a fish would snap it up.—Journal. Our contemporary hence, is also a great fisherman, and should produce testimonials to prove it, else the fact will never be learned.

A circular from "the Pueblo Chieftain" warning the public against two men named John Dunn and W. L. Myers, two souvenir fakirs, who obtain money under pretenses of getting up an illustrated book showing prominent people, business blocks, etc., ostensibly for the purpose of advertising the city and surrounding country. The circular says: "They have just finished a souvenir of Pueblo, Colorado, where they obtained a large amount of money under false representations, and the patrons of the souvenir are cursing loud and long at their treatment." They will be sure to come to Albany, all fakirs do.

There seems to be some reasonable ground for hope that the Oregon Pacific is beginning to see daylight, and that within a reasonable time in the future the road can be pushed to an Eastern connection. It would seem that there is room for this road, so far removed from other transcontinental lines; but its real ultimate terminus will be at Portland or Astoria, instead of Yaquina bay. That part will do some business, and doubtless an increasing business year by year, but the logic of the situation is sufficient warranty for the prediction that all transcontinental lines reaching the Northwest will eventually converge at Portland and the mouth of the Columbia.—Telegram. Some day Portland will wake up and learn that there are other places in Oregon beside the present metropolis. Albany will be one of them.

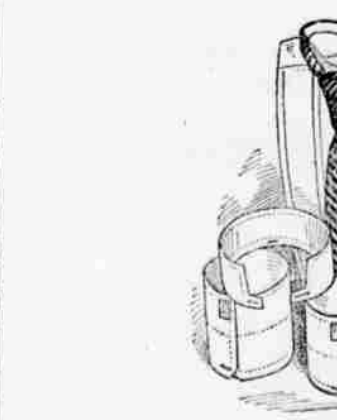

CAED OF THANKS.—The undersigned husband and daughter of the late Mrs. Dreitenbush, wish to reiterate thanks to neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the recent illness and death of Mrs. Dreitenbush.
