who recently made such a neat escape from the state penitentiary doesn't purpose to be caught if he can keep from it. He has almost entirely wiped out his identity since leaving the prison. The ugly scar across his nose has been puttied over so nicely that nothing short of a close examination would reveal any defect in his probosis. He stopped all night recently at the hotel at Aurora and the men about that hostelry suspected the stranger as being none other than the much wanted Whalen. They wanted to take him in tow but were not sure that he was the right man. In the morning when he got un they were going to arrest him, but when they looked him over carefully in the washroom they failed to find the scar that ought to be on his nose. While the Aurorans were talking it over the fox Whalen walked out of the hotel washroom and was soon lost in the distance. The next heard of him he was robbing a freight train at Clackamas. Whe the fellow is now is the question that is puzzling the officers—Statesman.

with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating snd a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked. Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. #### FACTS

ABOUT THE TEA WE DRINK.

But few people know that there is such a thing as sun-cured tea in existence, and fewer have seen it. But there is, and it is of all teas the sweetest, purest, and most fragrant. You the sweetest, purest, and most fragrant. You ask at once how it is that it is not offered for sake and that you know nothing of it. That is answered easily; but it is necessary to present fest a few details. The public only knows two general classes, viz., the green and the black tens.

Green Tens.

Few people know that the bright bluish-green clear of the ordinaly leas exposed in the windows is not the natural color. Unpleasant as the fact may be, it is revertheless artificial; Prussian blue, affica, gypsum, plumbago, and other unhealthful mineral collers being used for this purpose. Theeffect is twofold. It not only makes the ten a bright, shiny, a fractive green, but also permits the use of "off-color" and worthless tess, which once under the green closk, are readily worked off as a good quality of tes. The abomworked off as a good quality of tea. The abominable voloring practice even idmits of the use of foreign substances, and the English government, which looks closer into the genuineness of its staples than ours, has it some of the alleged "finest" of teas found redried leaves, straw, fragments of matting, ricelusies, and willow leaves. In fact, it is openly stated by an English authority that hundreds of thousands of pounds of sloc, ash, and willow leaves are annually imported as tea, which without the coloring process would be impossible. They report tea as one of the most motoriously adulterated articles of commerce. The temptation to make sweepings and bad tea into a merchantable product with a few tea into a merchantable product with a few cents' worth of green coloring matter is too strong to withstand, and the worthlessness of the trash that often finds its way to this market labeled "New Crop," "Fest Quality,"
"Green Tea," etc., would simply assumd the public if revealed, to say nothing of the unhealthfulness of the Prussian blue, plumbage, gypsum, and the other mineral colors that are employed.

Black Teas.

The basket and pan-fired Japan teas, as well as the China teas that may be included under the general heading of "black teas," get their color from the firing or toasting process, but mineral coloring matter is also frequently used to give a certain desired commercial appearance. The firing and the coloring, as in the green tens, largely conceals the iden-tity of the ten, and permits the use of the very chaptest tens, to argue nothing for the deteriorating effect of excessive firing which must be resorted to when a very cheap prod-uct is used and an extreme color desired.

Beech's Ten (Sun-dried).

Concerning sun-dried tens the people of the Pacific Coast have heard but little and know less, although it is extensively used where it is known and understood. We are told that when tea is so poor it cannot be sold at home or safely shipped to the English markets, it is shipped to America; that we will drink any-thing. That may possibly be one of the rea-sons we have not been offered sun-dried teas

They were good enough to send elsewhere.

The sun-dried teas being sun-cured, no coloring matter is used, hence nothing but pure tea leaves can be employed; for unassisted by manipulation or coloring, all at-tempts at adulteration or the introduction of foreign leaves or material would be bold and glaring. That it is, therefore, sweeter and fat more fragrant than the artificially colored green teas and the manipulated basket or pan-fred teas, you hardly need be told. That it is more healthful than the mineral-colored tens, is also apparent. That it is more expensive, is also true; and that is another reason you have never seen it. There is not so much profit in it as there is in the cheap adulter ated and colored teas.

About the Cost of Tens.

According to the custom-house reports, the amount of tea received at San Francisco last year (1800) was 6,840,157 pounds, and the value $255,250, or a fraction over 180 per pound. The contumer, of which the reader was one, paid for that 15c tea all the way from 10c to $1 per pound. In other words, for that $956,259 worth of tea the consumer, and between four these per pounds. as per pound. In other words, for that $250,500 worth of tea the consumer paid between four and five millions of dollars. There are your enormous profits, and there you will probably find the chief reason why meet of you never heard of a sun-dried tea. As the sun-dried teas heard of a sun-dried tea. As the sun-dried teas have no mask, they are compelled to be absolute g pure and of better quality than the ar-gleially colored and manipulated teas. Hence the margins on them are smaller, and many dealers don't care about handling them, and you know making about them. But it is the object of this article to tell you where you can get them, and what to sak for, and all about them. "Deech's Ten."

"Beech's Tea," guaranteed to be the pure sun-cured leaves, is now offered to the people of the Pacific Coast. It will be a revelation to you. You doubtless never saw any natural leaf. Have your grocer break open a package. It will be found in color to be just between the artificially colored green and the black tess, and the drawn tea presents a clear, brilliant cannry color, of delightful fragrance. It is offered to the people at 60e per pound, the same price that many artifi-cially colored teas are sold for. But its guarsuteed purity makes it more economical to use; for a less quantity, say about twenty grains, its required per cup. As there are 7.589 grains to a pound, there will be seen to be between three and four hundred cups to the pound, or at the rate of about one fifth of a cent per cup. Its economy is therefore manifest. It is put up in one-pound packages only, in patent air-tight and moisture-propparchment, with the trade-mark that is found at the bottom of this article plainly printed on the package. It is sold in this form for two reasons; one is, that the original strength and aroma is preserved; and second, there can be no deception, which would be quite possible if it were sold in bulk, without the name and trade-mark attached. Caution.

Recollect that the margin of profit is so much smaller on Beech's pure sun-dried teas than on the artificially colored teas that you won't get it if tea by any other name can be put off on you. Ask for
