WOOL TARIFF AT WORK.

And just here is an appropriate place for calling attention to another striking illustration of the manner in which our wool-tariff policy and Mr McKialey's statesmanship, while greatly taxing the American people, also operate to destroy American industry. Let any-one who has access to it take the "Statistical Abstract" for 1890, issued by the United States Treasury, and, turning to page 128. notice how dependent the women and childdren of this country are upon foreign manufacturers for their supply of what are known in the trade as woolen "dress goods"-such fabrics as everybody's wife and daughters want to wear-and in what a startling ratio the importation of such goods is increasing. But as comparatively few have ready access to this official document, the essential figures are here submitted: In the year 1881, 52,693,-000 square yards were imported; in 1884, 59,-432,000; in 1886, 68,637,000; in 1887 78,-042,000; in 1888, 85,630,000; in 1889, 91,-2$4,000 and in 1890, 110,992,000 square yards. Now, why was not this immense import of this class of woolen fabrics manufactured in this country, or at least a fair proportion of t? No one will pretend that it is through any lack of skill on the part of our artisans Men that can work up cotton, cow hair and shoddy so that they will have the appearance and touch of wool can de almost anything in production of textiles. No one will pretend that it is lack of desire, machinery or capital on the part of our manufacturiers, or that an average of 71 per cent was not good, stiff protection. On the other hand no one will deny that it is an inability of our manufacturers to supply themselves under favorable conditions by reasons of our tarill with the qualities of wool essential for such frabrications. Were they placed on a par with their foreign competitors in this respect, our best manufacturers would speedily engage in the business of making dress goods, using a large percentage of good, strong American wool for the warp, and a comparatively small percentage of fine, lustrous foreign wool for the "filling" or surface, thus creating a large additional demand for domestic wool, and opening avenues for the employment at high wages of thousands of American artisans. But Messrs, McKinley and Aldrich and Delano and Lawrence have said: No, this thing shall not be done." and the American people, who pride themselves or their intelligence, have thus far acquiesced in such treatment and have been taught to imagine that it was good and that whoever asserted to the contrary must be a very knavish fellow.

A HOUSE WITH 4,000 ROOMS.

The Vatizan, the ancient palace of the Popes of Rome, is the most magnificent building of the world. It stands on the right bank of the Tiber, on a hid called the Vaticanus, because the Latins formerly worshipped Vaticinium, as ancient oracular deity, at that place. Exactly when the building was commenced no one knows. Chalemagne is known to have Inhabited it over a thousand years ago. The present extent of the building is enormous, the number of rooms, at the lowest computation, being 4,422. Its treasures of mable statues, ancient gems,paintings, books, manuscripts, etc., are to be compared only with those in the British Museum. The length of the Statute Museum alone is a fraction over a mile. Conservative writers say that the gold contained in the medals, vessels, chains and other objects preserved in the Vatican would make more gold coirs than the whole of the present European circulation,

The wood cutters of England strongly ob ject to the methods of the Salvation Army in interfering with their business. One of the avocations to which Gen Booth has assigned a part of the outcosts and unfortunates he is reclaiming is that of wood entting. The enterprise, backed up by benerdent contributions, has been extremely suc cessful, so that Gen Booth is now one of the argest wood merchants of London. He is, of course, able to undersell those with smaller capital who have no one to set them up in business. What is needed for the poor of England is not greater competition. for it is that which has overthrown them. They need a country where competition is lessflerce and the chances of success for small capitalists are greater.

In all books on geography published during the latter part of the last century and the first two decades of the present it was plainly stated that Chimborazo, a peak of the Andes in Old Peru, (now Ecucador,) with an attitude of 21,420 feet, was the most lofty peak in the world. The reputation of Chimborazo received a severa shock when Mr Pentland, a British scien tist, began his explorations in the Bolivian Andes, where he soon found two peaks, Sorato and Illimani, whose respective alitudes were 24,000 and 23,000 feet,

But, while Mr Pentland was making his historic observations in the Andes, others with observing minds were exploring the cloud-clapped peaks of the Himalayas and measuring the heights of the principal summits. Forty peaks of that chain were measured, none of which were less than 20,000 feet in height. One of these, Dhawalageri (White Mountain) has an altitude of 25,752 feet, and, till the height of Mount Everest was computed, was bell, ved to be the highest peak in the world. Three others in this same range besides Everest and Dhawalageri are higher than the highest mountain in America. They are: Jawahir, 25,749 feet, Chamalari, 26,000 feet even, and Gossingthar, 24,740. Add Everest to the four above enumerated and we have five mountain peaks in one chain, almost in sight of each other, which are all over 24,000 feet high, Everest being the most lofty, its height being reckoned all the way between 29,002 .and 29,700. For nearly half a century Mount Everest, or Gaurisacker (as It is known in Europe and Asia), was thought to be the appex of the world, In 1881, however, a Captain Lawson, sent out by the British Geographical Society, discovered a peak on the 1sle of Paqua which is 32,763 feet in height. He named it Mount Hercules.
