

Daily Democrat.

A DANGEROUS SCHEME.

The great cardinal doctrine of the third party is the subversive plan of loaning money by the government to land owners and owners of imperishable farm products at two per cent interest. This scheme is objectionable from nearly every stand point from which the subject may be viewed. In the first place it was never contemplated by the framers of the constitution that our government should be a paternal one. It was intended by the wise men of the revolutionary period, who had fully tested the faults and shortcomings of a kingly government in suffering its persecutions, that ours should be free from these faults. That it should be one of limited powers, written and clearly defined in the constitution of the country. It was to be a government that recognized and maintained the equality of all citizens before the law. It was intended to be a government that protected equally all men in the pursuit of business or happiness, but it never entered the minds of those wise men that under the constitution any class of men would rise up and demand in the name of that sacred instrument that the government should not only protect them in their private business, but should, in addition, help them to make that business a success, either by loaning them money at a rate of interest lower than his neighbors can secure money for, as in the case of the land loan and subtreasury scheme, or by taxing his neighbors for his benefit as in the case of a protective tariff. It may be said without the least fear of successful contradiction that it is beyond the power of any student of the constitution, any constitutional lawyer or jurist, to find any sentence in that instrument which might serve as a warrant for the exercise by congress of the power necessary to carry out the subversive scheme. Thousands of men all over the country have been led to believe that congress can rightfully exercise this power, and this because they have not taken the pains to look into the organic law under which they live. Demagogues and office seekers who have been unable to secure office in one or the other of the old parties, have caught up this 2 per cent government loan scheme in the vain hope by its plausibility to delude unthinking voters enough to carry them into office. Then this scheme is objectionable because it is aggressively antagonistic to that rule of faith of the third party itself—"equal rights to all and special privileges to none." This scheme would loan money to men at two per cent who have lands or imperishable farm products to pledge as security, while all other citizens, who should be equal before the law, would be compelled to go into the general money market and borrow at current rates of 5 to 10 per cent. This would practically compel one class of citizens to do business on capital for which 5 to 10 per cent interest is paid against the 2 per cent of the government at 2 per cent. There ought to be enough madness in every man who has been led into the third party scheme to cry out long and loud against it. It is unfair because it does not treat all citizens alike. And the very class of citizens whom it ignores is the very class, above all others, who should receive the fostering, paternal care of the government if any class is to be thus favored. We mean the honest, toiling millions who have no lands or imperishable farm products to pledge to the government to secure a 2 per cent loan. These people are, through untoward circumstances, poor and helpless, and while they labor today to pay for the bread they eat last week, these more fortunate neighbors who have lands and farm products may be favored in an especial way by a government said to be by the people, of the people and for the people. This government money loan scheme is objectionable on the ground of the "crushing tendency." It is a plan to rely upon the strong arm of the government in fighting the battles of life. This destroys that fearless, independent manhood which in times past has so peculiarly ennobled American citizenship. No republican government can remain intact unless its citizens are free and independent. To institute this loan scheme would mark the beginning of that decay of independent American citizenship that would end finally in the destruction of the government itself. Let every voter beware how he gives in his adhesion and support to so dangerous a policy. Let the doctrine that every tub should stand upon its own bottom sink deep into every democrat's mind and he will soon reject this delusion called the subversive scheme.

MORE CHICKENS COMING HOME

Two years ago the democrats controlled both branches of the Ohio legislature, and they passed a most violent partisan, wretchedly framed bill of legislation, which they passed in the name of the people, and they gave the republicans a candidate for governor who walloped the democrats to the tune of over 20,000.

Now the republicans have the legislature and despite Governor McKinley's manly appeal for an honest and fair congressional apportionment, the senate has passed, under the party whip and spur, a wretchedly framed bill of legislation, which makes the democratic wrong comparatively respectable. The governor has no veto power in Ohio, and it is evident that the house will follow the senate by passing the senate congressional apportionment.

The democrats now howl as did the republicans two years ago; but the howlers of two years ago now do just what they howled against, and the democrats are now howling against just what they did when they had the power. Political chickens will come home to roost sooner or later, but political violence jogs on all the same in both parties.

IT DARE NOT.

Deep down in the heart of democracy the free trade policy is paramount, as much so as it is in Great Britain, but the party dare not give public expression to its ideas on the tariff. On several occasions we have attempted to force an unequivocal admission on this point from our democratic contemporaries; but in every instance they have evaded a direct answer to the question.

The statement that democrats dare not give public expression to their ideas on the tariff question is the most arrant nonsense. They are never slow to express their faith and many reasons for it. By its own words the Mountaineer contradicted time and time again. For years it has denounced the democrats as "free traders." Why has it done this if democrats have not expressed their faith? The whole trouble is with the Mountaineer. It is the beam in its own eye. It calls democrats "free traders" but it has refused for years to tell what it means by the term "free trader." It dare not now explain what it means. It has too much moss back politics to live happy.

The St. Louis Republic has polled the Missouri legislature with the following result:

The completion of the poll of both senate and house now shows the following:

From present appearances it would seem to be the bounden duty of the democratic national convention to turn the heat on New York.—The Dallas Star.

Pimples.

The old idea of 43 years ago was that facial eruptions were due to a "blood humor," for which they gave potash. This all the old Sarsaparillas contain potash, a most objectionable and drastic mineral, that instead of decreasing, actually creates more eruptions. You have noticed this when taking other Sarsaparillas than Joy's. It is however now known that the stomach, the blood creating power, is the seat of all vitiation or cleansing operations. A stomach clogged by indigestion or constipation, vitiates the blood, result pimples. A clean stomach and healthy digestion purifies it and they disappear. Thus Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is compounded after the modern idea to regulate the bowels and stimulate the digestion. The effect is immediate and most satisfactory. A short testimonial to contrast the action of the parash Sarsaparilla and Joy's modern vegetable preparation. Mrs. C. D. Stuart, of 403 Hayes St., S. E., writes: "I have for years had pimples on my face. I tried a popular Sarsaparilla but it actually caused more pimples to break out on my face. Hearing that Joy's was a later preparation and would differently, I tried it and the pimples immediately disappeared."
