G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's German Syrup. Last winter a lady called at my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as a few doses had given her relief." ©

FACTS ABOUT THE TEA WE DRINK.

But few people know that there is such a thing as unadulterated tea in existence, and fewer have seen it. But there is, and it is of all teas the sweetest, purest, and most fragrant. You can at once know it is that it is not offered for sale and that you know nothing of it. That is answered easily; but it is necessary to present first a few facts. The public only knows two general classes, viz, the green and the black teas.

Green Teas.

Few people know that the bright bluish-green color of the ordinary tea exposed in the windows is not the natural color. Unpleasant as the fact may be, it is nevertheless artificial: Prussian blue, allics, gypsum, plumage, and other unwholesome mineral colors being used for this purpose. The effect is twofold. It not only makes the tea bright, shiny, attractive green, but also permits the use of "off-colors" and worthless teas, which, once under the green cloak, are readily worked off as good quality of tea. The honorable coloring process even admits of the use of foreign substances, and the English government, which looks closer into the genuineness of its staples than ours, has in some of the alleged "finest" of teas found red lead, straw, fragments of mottling, rice-hulls, and willow leaves. In fact, it is openly stated by an English authority that hundreds of thousands of pounds of rice, ash, and willow leaves are annually imported as tea, which without the coloring process would be impossible. They reported as one of the most notoriously adulterated articles of commerce. The temptation to make purplings and bad teas into a marketable product with a few cents' worth of green coloring matter is too strong to withstand, and the worthlessness of the teas that often find their way to this market labeled "New Opey," "Best Quality," "Green Tea," etc., would simply astound the public if revealed, to say nothing of the unwholesomeness of the Prussian blue, plumage, gypsum, and the other mineral colors that are employed.

Black Teas.

The bluish and pan-dried Japan teas, as well as the China teas that may be included under the general heading of "black teas," get their color from the firing or roasting process, but unadulterated is also frequently used to give a certain desired commercial appearance. The coloring is done, as in the green teas, by the use of the very same mineral colors, and nothing but adulteration. It is a very cheap process, and a very cheap product is not to be used and an extremely inferior product.

Beck's Tea.

Concerning tea-drinkers the people of the Pacific Coast have heard too little and know less, although it is constantly used where it is known and understood. We are told that when tea is so poor it cannot be sold at home, it is shipped to America; that we will drink anything. That may possibly be one of the reasons we have not been offered such dried teas. The reason being, no doubt, that no coloring matter is used, hence nothing but the pure tea can be employed; for unadulterated tea is not so palatable as the adulterated tea, and the introduction of the same is not so profitable as the adulterated tea. That it is, therefore, sweeter and far more fragrant than the artificially colored green teas and the manipulated black teas, is also true. That it is more expensive, is also true, and that is another reason why we have never seen it. There is not so much profit in it as there is in the cheap adulterated and colored teas.

About the Cost of Teas.

According to the western-house reports, the amount of tea received at San Francisco last year (1891) was $4,000,000 pounds, and the value $100,000,000, or a fraction over one per cent. The cost of tea, of which the reader was aware, paid for that tea the way from 100 to 150 per cent. In other words, for that $4,000,000 worth of tea the consumer paid between four and five millions of dollars. There are your enormous profits, and there you will probably find the chief reason why most of you never heard of a run-dried tea. As the run-dried teas have no mark, they are compelled to be absolutely pure and of better quality than the artificially colored and manipulated teas. Hence the margins on them are smaller, and many dealers don't care about handling them, and you know nothing about them. But it is the object of this article to tell you where you can get them, and what to ask for, and all about them.

"Beck's Tea."

"Beck's Tea," guaranteed to be the purest run-dried tea, is now offered to the people of the Pacific Coast. It will be a revelation to you. You doubtless never saw any natural leaf. Have your grocer break open a package. It will be found in water in the jar between the artificially colored green and the black teas, and the aroma tea presents a clear, brilliant green color, of delightful fragrance. It is offered to the people at 50¢ per pound, the same price that many artificially colored teas are sold for. But this guaranteed, pure tea is more economical to use: for a tea quantity, say about twenty grains, is required per cup. As there are 700 grains to a pound, there will be room to be between three and four hundred cups to the pound, or at the rate of about one-fifth of a cent per cup. Its economy is therefore manifest. It is put up in wax-sealed packages only, in perfect airtight and moisture-proof packages, with the trade-mark that is found at the bottom of this article plainly printed on the package. It is sold in this form for two reasons: one is, that the original strength and aroma is preserved; and second, there can be no deception, which would be quite possible if it were sold in bulk, without the same and trade-mark attached.

Caution.

Remember that the margin of profit is so much smaller on Beck's pure run-dried tea than on the artificially colored teas that you won't get it if you buy any other name can be put on it. Ask for

BEECH'S TEA

Pure As Childhood

If your grocer does not have it, he will get it for you. Price 5¢ per pound. The above trade-mark and price is plainly printed on each package.

Perhaps the best way to get it is to go where you know they have it and are willing to sell it. For instance, it can be had without difficulty at
