

Daily Democrat.

WASHINGTON.
(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 4, 1892.

The black wings of the foul bird scandal are flapping ominously over this administration, which has been lauded—by republicans—for its purity and honesty—ever since it came into power. No wonder that Mr Harrison, who, to "render under Caesar that which is Caesar's" is a man of great personal purity and sterling honesty, is shocked at some of the most recent exposures. Any honest man would be. And what makes the matter worse, is that prominent members of Mr Harrison's own party have thrown up some of the worst things. For instance, it was a republican senator—Manderson of Nebraska—who on the floor of the senate proclaimed, and produced the documents to prove that the authorities of the Indian Bureau have for several months been trying to compel the army officer, who is acting Indian Agent at Pine Ridge Agency, to accept and distribute 120,000 pounds of bacon which had been sent to the agency by a Chicago contractor and refused by the army officer, because of its being unfit to eat. How Mr Harrison must enjoy reading the letters from the saintly Indian Commissioner (who signalled his entrance into office, several years ago, by creating a scandal, in connection with saddling his wife's travelling expenses on the government, besides getting her a salary by appointing her his private secretary) to the honest army officer in behalf of the dishonest contractor.

It was also a republican Senator—Chandler of New Hampshire—who, as chairman of the senate committee on Immigration, first directed public attention to the fact that officials of the treasury department had authorized the expenditure of $350,000 more than there was any legal authority for spending, on the building, etc., at the Government Immigration Station on Ellis Island, in New York Harbor, an expenditure which the House and Senate committees on Immigration are now jointly engaged in investigating, for the purpose of placing the responsibility therefor upon some one official, if possible. It cannot be charged that politics had anything to do with exposing either of these charming specimens of official crookedness. The Pension office scandal Mr Harrison has had him so long that he has probably almost become accustomed to it; but some of Raum's admissions, to say nothing of the testimony to the House committee, now engaged in investigating that office, must have made very interesting reading for Mr Harrison.

The first step towards the tariff reform, which the democratic party will ask the voters of the country to endorse next November, will have been taken when the House passes the Springer free wool bill, this week, and others will be due season. If the republican senate sees fit to refuse to pass these bills, so much the worse for the republican party.

Silver rumors are thick just now, probably because of the agitation in the senate caused by the debate brought on by Senator Morgan's resolution and challenge to the senators to define their positions. In spite of all that is said it is very doubtful whether the senate will go to the extent of voting on Senator Stewart's free coinage bill. It certainly will not, if the influence of the administration is strong enough to prevent it. The most interesting rumor is one that says more than eighty members of the House have entertained an agreement to filibuster continuously on everything, except tariff bills, unless the committee on rules will report another rule setting a date for the consideration of the Bland free coinage bill. Farther than that such a request has been made of the committee, the rumor cannot be affirmed.

Superintendent of Immigration Owen, the Indiana ex-Congressman whom Assistant Secretary Nettleton has accused of being unfit for his place and careless if not dishonest, in the handling of vouchers for Uncle Sam's hard cash, has endeavored to answer the charges by throwing the blame for everything that has gone wrong in his office on his clerks, and by charging that General Nettleton is trying, in the interests of parties who oppose the creation of the office of Superintendent of Immigration, and has been from the time he (Owen) took charge of that office, to throw obstacles in the path of his work and bring discredit upon it. It is easy enough to believe that both of them are telling the truth, republican officials are such a queer lot. Mr Harrison is willing, it is said, to sacrifice Owen, who is his personal friend, and also Nettleton, if that would settle the scandal; but he has been told by members of both the House and Senate Immigration committee that they intended to probe the whole matter to the bottom, whoever it might hurt, so that he will probably wait awhile before making any removals or asking any resignations.

LINN COUNTY.

Linn is probably the best governed county in Oregon. It is the third county in the state in wealth and population. Its tax rate is the lowest, or next to the lowest, of any Oregon county. It is entirely out of debt. It has always been democratic, and on a straight issue is so yet. In fact, it is entitled to its claim of being the "banner" democratic county, though on occasions

Unatilla has even beaten Linn in democratic votes, and Crook is as surely and solidly democratic as Linn, but, of course, does not have Linn's strength and influence. Linn has also been fortunate in generally having some able representatives in the legislature—men of breadth and strength and high character. Such is Senator J. K. Weatherford, who is now serving his third term, and who may be called upon to run for congress this year. This year no state senator is to be elected in Linn. Weatherford and his popular young colleague, Myers, holding over. But there are three members to be elected to the house, and the democrats have done wisely in putting up an exceptionally strong and popular ticket. The one who will be depended upon chiefly to make the canvass is M. A. Miller, an able debater and a thorough democrat in the broadest sense of that term.

But, notwithstanding the exceptionally good record of the Linn county democracy, there are some men up there who are dissatisfied, who want something new, who have gone off into the third party movement. A good many of them are, or have been, democrats. They have a perfect right to do this, but the question is, is it wise? Is it necessary? Would it not be better to keep the good, safe, economical government they have so long enjoyed rather than take chances with the republicans? This is what a democrat vote for a third party man this year means. He might just as well go and vote the republican ticket straight. It is especially important to the Oregon democracy this year that old Linn keeps up its good record. The eyes of all the state are on her. It ought to elect a full democratic legislative ticket, at least. To speak plainly, it is the emphatic duty of every democrat in Linn county to vote the straight democratic ticket. It is worthy of support. Put Miller and his colleagues on the ticket in the house along with Weatherford and Myers in the senate, and keep the local affairs in the hands of the democrats, and Linn will remain, as it has been, the brightest Oregon county. Turn it over to the republicans; and what will be gained? Nothing; and there will be a great chance of loss and damage. Linn should maintain its record, and the democrats all over Oregon expect every Linn county democrat to do his duty this year.—Evening Telegram.

NOT CANDID

The Albany Democrat has signified its willingness to engage in a mud-slinging campaign, providing it becomes necessary. We may therefore expect an intellectual repast (?) of campaign literature that will suit the middle of mud-slingers before the 6th of June. The Press will not indulge in that kind of campaigning, let other journals do what they will.—Scio Press.

It is easy to be fair and candid, but in the breasts of some people there seems to be a strong prevailing sentiment to be unkind and unfair. The above reference to what the Democrat said is unkind and unfair. If the Press wanted its readers to know what the Democrat said, it should have given all we said. Here is what we said and every one can tell whether we meant that we wanted to engage in mud-slinging. On the contrary we expressly refused to do so. Read both and then judge of the lack of candor on the part of the Press!

The Democrat is receipt of a communication making a bitter personal attack upon a candidate for a county office. It might be well to say, once for all, that the Democrat will not be the first to open up a mud-slinging campaign. If it can be avoided we shall do so. If the matters to which our correspondent refers were matters of official public record, we should not hesitate to give them publicity, for it would not only be legitimate, but a journalistic duty to do so. But if it become necessary we will return mud for mud.

I recognized in it at once an herb that the Mexicans used to give me in the early 50's for bowel troubles. (I came to California in 1832,) and I knew it would help me and it has. For the first time in years I can sleep well and my system is regular and in splendid condition. The old Mexican herbs in this remedy are a certain cure in constipation and bowel troubles." Ask for
