W. E. Paul will start to-morrow on a two month's trip to New Hampshire, his old home.

Billy left the family hearth nearly thirty years ago and will undoubtedly find a wonderful change around the hills of New Hampshire.

—Corvallis Times.

Chas. Allbrecht, the saloon keeper who was shot through both lungs about two weeks ago, is getting better and was able to appear on our streets Saturday. This is a very strange case. He not only had a miraculous escape, but the fact that he was able to walk the streets in less than two weeks after a bullet had penetrated his body, seems almost incredible. —Corvallis Times.

Ciell Nash has returned from the Keely Institute, at Forest Grove, where he has taken a five weeks' treatment for morphine, whiskey and cigarette habit. He is thoroughly cured and invites anyone interested to come and see him for reference as to the completeness of the cure. He was using twenty-four grains a day of morphine, two pints of liquor and smoked incessantly, and regards his recovery as almost a miracle. —Salem Journal.

ROLAND GRANT'S LECTURE.—The Court House was filled last evening on the occasion of the address by Roland D. Grant, of Portland, formerly of Boston.

The subject was "The American Saloon, and what shall we do with it." The speaker is eloquent in his delivery, and as well talks bare-headed. "People declare the temperance subject to be threadbare," he said "but it is intemperance that is thread bare—the country is full of them." The speaker's line of argument is that even as a financial investment the saloon is a failure, the extra cost of government created by the ravages of intemperance being far more than the revenue received. He cited the city of Salem, Mass., which after several years without license, in which it prospered, and received $30,000 revenue a year, while the extra police force alone amounted to $38,000. The immoral side of the question he presented with illustrations and incidents in an impressive manner.

Tonight at the same place Mr. Grant will lecture on "The Making and Breaking of Nations." Admission free.

MARRIED.

CALDER—CAMPBELL.—On Tuesday evening, Nov. 29th, 1892, at the residence of J. H. Campbell, in Albany, by Rev. F. H. Calder, father of the groom, Mr. W. A. Calder, junior editor of the Brownsville Times, and Miss Lura M. Campbell, an accomplished young lady of estimable character. The ceremony was a very happy event. The bride was dressed in white crepe, with pearl ornaments; her maids were Misses Amelia Senders, Fern Fox and Ray Graham; the handsome young groom left his ink suit at home, and looked well in the usual costume of a groom; he was well backed up by William Campbell, Charles Medin and Clyde Fox and went through the ceremony without piling a line. Crawford & Paxton took a flash light picture of the general scene; all present will cry for "copy" as the company presented a happy spectacle. A fine wedding supper followed. After spending the week in Albany Mr. and Mrs. Calder will return to their print shop and home in Brownsville, taking with them the best wishes of a host of Albany friends. Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Calder, of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cavender, Miss Emma Blanchard, of Brownsville, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, Mr. and Mrs. J.
