

Daily Democrat.

DANGER Averted

And now they say that the governor, instead of favoring Col. Compson for railroad commissioner, has actually had a row with him and that the Col. will not so much as call at the executive office. The cause of this trouble has been kept a profound secret, yet observing ones have but little difficulty in divining the cause. Hints have been dropped around the corridors of the capitol that the doughty Col. is not emphatically orthodox on the silver question as measured by his Excellency's standard, and one of those hints, caught up by the winds of a speech made by a senator in favor of overriding the governor's veto of the world's fair bill, was wafted right into the executive chamber when the governor was overwhelmed with consternation on the discovery of this awful defect in the political makeup of one of the principal officers of the much admired state militia. That the governor will proceed at once to remove the Col. from the important station which he is rendered so incompetent and unworthy to fill by reason of his unsoundness on the silver question, admits not of a doubt. The interests of the people of the whole commonwealth are at stake. Just think of it! Suppose on the 5th day of next month the Wall street "Plotocrat" (now mark that word closely,) should send forth his edict (mark) declaring the annexation of Hawaii, and suppose the British Lion should become enraged at such brazen conduct, and suppose the British man-of-war Warsprite should sail into Yaquina Bay and at once begin to batter down the fortifications adjacent to that important seaport, and suppose the ever vigilant and intrepid governor should order the state militia to the front to defend our homes and firesides, headed by Col. Compson, and suppose on the very eve of a great battle it should be suddenly discovered that the Col's views on the silver question were not in accord with those of the governor, who could foretell the fearful consequences that would necessarily follow? Should the governor permit the Col. to hold his commission a week longer? Nay, verily. Perish the thought. No, let the governor act with his wonted alacrity. Let the Col. be sent to the retired list with Col. Robert A. Miller when they will each have time and opportunity to reflect upon the condign punishment inevitably inflicted upon those who would have the audacity to have views upon the silver question at variance with those of his Excellency the Governor. Why these two military gentlemen should have so far forgotten the extent of their duty and obligation to the governor, the duty to always be in harmony with him on all questions like the silver question which so materially affects the efficiency, courage and devotion of the military force of the state is beyond our comprehension. Why, such conduct is but little short of treason and the governor will receive the hearty plaudits of his loyal people if he shall take their heads off a la Clarkson.

Democratic papers all over the state are handling Governor Penney without gloves on account of the personal attacks which he almost daily makes upon President-elect Cleveland. The matter has been carried so far by the governor that democratic papers have nothing else to do but to strike back, and this they will continue to do, we suppose, as long as the governor pursues this senseless, childish course. But there is one thing we believe democratic papers can do which gives us the white, pleasing side of the picture, and that is to say, that, taken all in all, the governor has made a most excellent chief magistracy of the state, and, so far as the DEMOCRAT is concerned it has no sufficient cause to regret that it labored with all its might and zeal to secure the governor's first and second election. He has been a safe, careful economical, painstaking governor, all his idiosyncrasies to the contrary, notwithstanding.

We most earnestly hope that the passage of the world's fair bill over the governor's veto will not move the governor to resign as it is reported he would do in case the legislature took such action. The state needs the governor's services the next two years more than it has ever needed them before.

It is said that Col. H. B. Compson of Lakeview is said to be Governor Penney's candidate for railroad commissioner. Tread softly, Governor. Are you quite sure as to this Col's views on the silver question?

A LINN COUNTY MAP.

Win G. Oberbauer & Co. are making a map of Linn county, which should be in every business house, public dwelling and school room in Linn county. The map accurately locates every city, town and postoffice, and rivers and creeks, shows voting precincts, townships, etc., shows the distance of each postoffice from Albany. Cut out the following and mail to Win G. Oberbauer & Co., 100 Front street, Portland, Oregon, and they will deliver you as many as you order. Please deliver me—copies of your Linn county map for which—agree to pay fifty cents per copy on delivery of maps. —Signature—

Speaking of Dr. Parkhurst's way of chasing the devil out of New York, Sam Jones says it reminds him of the way his dog ran a hog out of a Georgia cornfield. The dog ran on ahead.

Judge Gresham is within a few weeks of sixty years of age. He is not in very rugged health and is in moderate pecuniary circumstances. His place on the bench is a life position, and it is easy to understand why he should not want to give it up.

A hint thoughtlessly thrown out by a Maine newspaper that the Governor of that State would do well to appoint a Democrat to the Supreme Court vacancy caused by the death of Judge Virgin has excited considerable alarm in the Republican camp. The bench is solidly Republican, unless Judge Libbey, who is said to have voted the Democratic ticket by mistake some years ago, may be called a Democrat.

Gen. Clarkson being asked: "What of the future?" "Oh, as the French say, the sky will come blue again to the Republicans. As I have already said, a majority of the voters of this nation are Republicans, and with the right leadership they will come into their own again. The Democrats did not elect a Democratic President last year. Disappointed Republicans elected for them a man who is not a Democrat—at least, not of the old type; a man who in my judgment is one of the strongest men yet developed by any party in America, the strongest man that the Democratic party has ever had for popular leadership, and the man who is likely to give the Democracy of the old kind more trouble the next four years than any Republican President could possibly have given it. Cleveland meant all that he said in his letter of acceptance in repudiating the reckless platform of his party, and he will bring his party to the pledges of that letter, or break it in two trying to do so. He sees that the old Democracy cannot live to die. He is for a new Democracy, or a Democracy superseded or mastered by the Mugwump creed. He intends to give the Democratic party a clean face and a Mugwump heart. He has a daring programme, but to back him in it he has more personal courage and more iron will than any man who has ever been President of this Republic. For where the will of Grant and Jackson was tempered by their sense of party loyalty, Cleveland will be inspired and hardened by his idea of personal superiority. Cleveland's ambition is clearly to be the founder of a new Democracy."

After the Grip

Hood's Sarsaparilla Restored Health and Strength

"Last winter I had the Grip and was quite sick. After I began to get better, being weak and run down, I concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, seeing it recommended so highly. I must say that I was more than pleased with it. I recovered my health completely in a short time and think

I am in better health than before I was sick. I feel sure that this is due to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In the package of Sarsaparilla when I opened it I found a sample box of Hood's Pills. I was surprised and delighted to find how well they agreed with me, so griping and so weakening afterward. I have tried many other kinds of pills, but Hood's Pills the preference every time now. I think they are just wonderful. I am glad to recommend two such good preparations as Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills." Mrs. ISALAH EMERSON, East Manchester, N. H.
