STATES' RIGHTS AND THE COURT.

If J. S. Clarkson will look over the supreme court records since the civil war his apprehensions of the triumph of states' rights through Judge Jackson's influence will abate somewhat.

He will learn there, perhaps to his astonishment, that the supreme court, while composed mainly of republican justices, has already and finally decided, on the states' rights side, a number of cases more directly involving that issue than any that are likely to arise hereafter—cases whose decision, indeed, practically puts the question finally out of court as a debatable issue.

It was a strongly republican court when it decided the Louisiana slaughter house case and the Ku-Klux case, and when it overthrew the civil rights bill. Every judge on the bench was the appointee of a republican president when the court decided the Virginia debt case, and that decision was one of the strongest judicial assertions of states' rights that have ever been made.

On the other hand, the southern, democratic, states' rights Justice Lamar helped to make the majority of the court in deciding lately against states' rights in the original package case.

The trouble with Mr. Clarkson is, first, that he confounds strict construction of the constitution—to which all judicial minds seem inclined—with the theory of secession and the spirit of rebellion, and second, that he cannot understand that there are men who, in high judicial position, can divest their minds of all narrow considerations of partisanship and give judgments in accordance with the law, the constitution and the fundamental principles of government.

Those democrats who are disposed to criticize the appointment of Gresham should bear in mind that there is plenty of room in the democratic party for men like Gresham. Had the party a thousand such new men as he it would be all the better for it. Mr. Cleveland fixed in his mind the standard of man he required for the office of secretary of state and then began to look about for the man who would fill the measure, and found him in Harriett Dickinson, Whitney, and Hayard, but these "old guard" democrats all and severally declined. By the advice of many democrats of national reputation Mr. Cleveland was induced to consider the propriety of offering Judge Gresham an appointment and thus he was led to make him secretary of state. That Gresham will be heartily in harmony with every democratic measure which Mr. Cleveland will attempt to carry out admits not of a doubt. No high minded man like Judge Gresham would accept a position were this not true.

A republican paper, speaking of Carlisle, Gresham, Bissell, Lamont and Morton, members of Cleveland's cabinet, says that they are all "poor men." Well in point of money wealth this is true, but in ability, personal integrity, and wide experience they are rich, and this is what the nation stands much in need of just at present. The country has been ruled by wealth long enough. Last fall the people, the poor people, decided that a change was desirable and by an overwhelming victory, turned the plutocrats out and the democrats in. It is fitting that Cleveland should select "poor men" for his cabinet. The rich have had their day and they have employed their time well in taxing the many for their own benefit. There will be less official style when Carlisle, Gresham, Bissell and the other members of the cabinet are in control than under the rule of the protected barons of the country. It's a healthy sign, this return to Jeffersonian simplicity.

A democrat in Albany who finds a cause and motive for every move made on the political chess board has found the cause of the appointment of Gresham. He says that that gentleman is cousin to the wife of his Excellency, Governor Penneyer, and the latter's tender interest in the relatives of his better half, induced him to recommend this appointment to Mr. Cleveland. His influence with the president led the latter at once to make the appointment.

Eighty-eight degrees below zero is given as the minimum temperature at a point on the Lena River in northeast Siberia, latitude 67 north and longitude 134 east from Greenwich. The thought of that may help to make us better contented with the cold weather we have had this month.

It is a strange fact that while paper is being used for dozens of purposes formerly monopolized by wood, or even a harder material, such as car wheels, boxes, barrels, tubs, pails, etc., wood is rapidly driving other ingredients to the wall in the manufacture of nearly all the cheaper grades of paper.

The financial outlook for the state is gloomy in view of the fact that the legislature just adjourned appropriated nearly two and a quarter millions with not a dollar in the treasury. The people mourn and groan when the looters' role, but when old democratic simplicity hold away their rejoice.

The governor has a plain duty to perform when he comes to consider the Durham ballot law, veto it.

STOP at Will & Stark's when you are after diamonds, the best watches, and the finest silverware to be secured. They save them.

Concerning the report put in circulation by certain republican papers of New York to the effect that Carlisle was opposed to the appointment of Gresham, the New York World says it is authorized by both Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Carlisle to say there is no truth in the statement. Mr. Carlisle when informed by Mr. Cleveland of the appointment of Mr. Gresham declared it a most excellent appointment saying that he knew Mr. Gresham well and that he was "a great big, broad minded man, the very one to be chosen."

The Washington correspondent of the Oregonian is, indeed, hard pressed for political capital. He says Gresham is a republican in every thing but in name. But the very reverse is true. He is a democrat in every thing but in name, and this fact coupled with his unquestioned integrity and ability accounts for his appointment. These democratic principles will show themselves in his official conduct.

Over a hundred specimens of deep sea fishes have been secured off the California coast. For the most part they are darkly colored, soft bodied, and many of them are covered with phosphorescent spots which act as portable lamps, whereby the fish are able to see in the dark depths of the ocean. These fish live in the open sea, at a depth of two to five miles, and their soft bodies at this depth are rendered firm by the tremendous pressure of the surrounding waters.

Raised from the Dead Long and Terrible Illness from Blood Poisoning

Completely Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Mary E. O'Fallon, a very intelligent lady of Lima, Ohio, was poisoned while assisting physicians at an autopsy 5 years ago, and soon terrible ulcers broke out on her head, arms, tongue and throat. Her hair all came out. She weighed but 75 lbs., and saw no prospect of help. At last she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and at once improved; could soon get out of bed and walk. She says: "I became perfectly cured by and am now a well woman. I weigh 125 lbs., eat well and do the work for a large family. My case seems a wonderful recovery and physicians look at me in astonishment, as almost like one raised from the dead."

HOOD'S PILLS should be in every family medicine chest. Once used, always preferred.
