AFTER THE SHERMAN LAW, WHAT?

There seems to be a general belief that the Sherman silver purchase law will be repealed or its operation suspended when congress meets in extra session. The law as it stands appears to have no friends. The gold monometallists oppose it because of its quasi-recognition of silver as a money metal. The gennine bi-metallists denounce it as a "cowardly makeshift" because it reduces silver to a mere commolity and makes the government a speculator in it instead of placing it on the same plane with gold as real money.

But when the unfriended law is repealed then what will be done? We do not believe the present congress, or any American congress, will take a step so threatening to the welfare of the people. Granted that the present situation is dangerous and that a change is imperative, would it be wise to jump from bogus bimetallism into gold monometallism-from the frying pan into

We have no word of commendation or defense for the Sherman silver law. On that measure the record of the Plaindealer is clear and consistent, It denounced it denounced it from the beginning as illogical and dangerous. Under the pretense of being a bimetallic measure it was in direct antagonism to the bimetallic principle because it reduced silver to a commodity traded in it assuch, and measured its value by gdld alone. That is not bimetallism,

But the repeal of the Sherman law must be followed or accompanied by legislation that will place our money on a secure basis. That cannot be done without the in which the two metals shall be brought into proper relations is a subject for thought ful consideration. It cannot be disposed of by poll parrot repetition of meaningles, phrases. Statesmea of all parties should unite in trying to reach a sound conclugion -Cleveland Plaindealer.

SPECIAL SESIONS

The nation is 117 years old. During that time only eleven extra sessions of congress-have been called. Mr Cleveland's proclamation to that effect is the eleventh. In looking over the history of our country the fact is disclosed that on no occasion have other than extraordinary influences caused these sessions, they have included the settlement of international disputes, carring on of war, raising of troops, or making appropriationr for the expenses of government where the preceding congress falled to do its duty.

Rutherford B Hayes called two extra sessions, as did also James Madison. The other presidents to whom fell this important daty were John Adams, Thomas Jeffersor, Martin Van Buren, William stenry Harrison, Franklin Pierce and Abraham Lincoln, Grever Cleveland can well complete the list up to the present hour, and few had perhaps better reason than he, or were more generally urged by the people of the land irrespective of party.

It is a coincidence that at the special acession of congress called by Hayes which met October 15, 1877, the fan.ous Bland silver bill was passed, though that was not its special object. This provided for the e inage of silver dollars to an amount not less than $2,000,000, and not more than $4,000,000, each dollar to contain 412); grains, and making them legal tender for both private and public debts. Not only did both houses pass the measure, but they passed it over the president's veto. The present Sherman law, which is to be azted upon in August, took the place of the Bland This coming session, however, will be watched more closely than that one and the situation is prover than i Evening Telegram,

Not only did Raum pension a man because he was bald-headed, but he pensioned another because he had two corns on one toe, and paid him at the rate of $12 aments and arrears for the disability. Another was pensioned for deafners, and being a clerk in the Pension Office was put charge of the te'ephone. There is no doubt that Raum left a big job of cleaning for Lochren to do, and Lochren has set about doing it, too, like a Hercules -Louisville Times.

Attempt to absolutation

The newspapers in this state are in a predicament on account of the allegations made by us in regard to the maladministration of affairs at the peniteritary. The republican papers do not dare encourage our work against democratic Mr. Downing, because they well understand that there are republican officials whose turn is yet to come. The democratic papers will not approve of our cause, because Mr Downing is a democrat. The populist papers keep approve of our cause, because Mr Downing is a democrat. The populist papers keep still uthough it is a giorious opportunity for them to prove corruption because Govr Pennoyer stands back of Mr Downing and they understand that to endorse us is to condemn this branch of their governor's administration. Truly, all this proves how necessary it is for the people to have one paper, which knows no party, no friend and no foe. With the exception of the East Oregonian, Sunday Welcome and Farmer's Journal, no paper has either credited or denied our charges.—Salem Independent.

So far as the Democrat is concerned

So far as the DEMOCRAY is concerned this charge is not well founded for several days prior to the publication of the above the DEMOCRAT sald:

the DEMOCRAT said:

If the management of the state penitentiary is as had and corrupt as made out by the Independent, then there is but one course left for the governor to pursue. He should at once remove Downing. It is all right to have a democrat for superintendent, but he must be honest, careful and vigilant. But we do not condemn Mr Downing. We prefer to hear his defense to the charges thus brought against him. Let him reply.

And, by the way, it is proper to say that in the same issue of the Independent in which that paper criticised other papers, was to be found the above article taker from and credited to the DEMOCRAT.
