THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.

It begins to look like the worst has passed in the financial depression which has prevailed during the past few weeks. While financiers are still apprehensive, the feeling of distrust seems to be beginning to abate. If the crisis is really past, the country is to be congratulated, for previous periods of depression have generally been more lasting and more disastrous than this.

It is singular how regularly these periods have come. They seem to recur at intervals as fixed in time as the changes of the seasons. They are about eight years apart, and have been occurring at that regular interval for over a century. The cause of this periodicity is not understood, but the fact is acknowledged by all who have made a study of economic questions, and furnishes a field for interesting investigation.

Republican newspapers and politicians are charging the present state of affairs to the fact that the democratic party is in power. Non-partisan financiers do not join them in this charge. The charge bears absurdity on its face. Whether democratic legislation would be damaging to the interests of the country is a question that remains to be decided. The people decided it in the negative last November, and we see no reason for thinking their decision was incorrect. Whatever democratic legislation may do, it cannot be responsible for the present condition of affairs—unless effects precede causes, instead of following them, for we have had no democratic legislation since the winter of 1861. Either a republican president or a republican senate has made it impossible. The republicans have several times had the president and both branches of congress. Since Lincoln's election the democrats have never had entire control of the government until now, and until congress meets, republican laws and republican conditions must continue.

The small amount of gold in the treasury and the evils that have followed are the result not of democratic legislation but of republican extravagance.

Looked at from a party standpoint, it is well that this crisis is on us now. After the depression comes the rebound, and the fact that the period of depression came at the very beginning of the democratic administration, and before the democratic congress was called together, will give the country four years to recover in, and the next presidential election will, in all probability, find much more prosperous than we were than we were when the last one was held. If the country recovers during the next four years—as it almost certainly will—the democratic party will get more credit for it than it will deserve, for while legislation will get all the credit, nature's reaction will have much to do with the result, independent of legislation.

The south is especially to be congratulated on the way most southern financial institutions have weathered the gale. Failures have been few and unimportant as compared with those of the north, and southern money has gone to New York to help end the stringency there.

The truth is our section has more of the element of national wealth and greatness than any other, and the reputation for indolence and lack of enterprise that has clung to our people so long is undeserved. The section that has sent the Innans and Newcomes and others to battle with the money kings of Wall street is not deficient in men of energy and business ability. Jacksonville (Fla.) Times.

If you want to know who claimed the credit of passing the Sherman law at the time the measure was before the house for final action, read the following extract from a speech of Conner, a republican congressman from Iowa, who had charge of the measure in the house:

This measure will be given to the country I am happy to say, by republicans. This was agreed upon in conference by republicans only. It was passed in yonder chamber only by republican votes, and I suspect that it may pass here only by republican votes. It will then go where it will be signed by a republican president, and from there it will go to a country which, in November next, will give such a republican endorsement that many of you gentlemen will not be found here to pass upon the next silver measure that may come before congress. It is, Mr Speaker, in line with republican judgment and republican policy.

The republican house immediately passed the bill, without a democratic vote in its favor or a republican vote against it, and it was promptly signed by the republican president. The democratic verdict upon it was that it was a "cowardly makeshift"—and that is the truth.

The decorations of walls prove to have a very important influence upon gas bills. From recent figures by Dr. Sumpter it has been calculated that with different decorations a room would be equally lighted by the following candle-powers: Black cloth, 100; dark brown paper 87; blue paper, 72; clean yellow paint, 60; clean wool, 60; dirty wood, 80; cartridge paper, 20; whitewash, 15. Only about one-sixth as much illumination is necessary for the whitewashed room as for the same room papered in dark brown

Editorial amenities of a quarter of a century ago are aptly illustrated in the following extract from the Louisville Journal, (now Courier-Journal,) published in the DEMOCRAT in the issue of February 9 1867. Geo D Prentice, than whom no man ever welded a more trenchant quill, was then editor of the Journal. The "radical paper at Portland" was the Oregonian. The Journal said:

The editor of the radical paper at Portland, Oregon, thinks that we are anxious to be the tail of the fire eating party. We can't call him the radical party's tail. He is something under that.

The DEMOCRAT in publishing the extract inside the following comment: "Albanyans, both young and old, poor Scott."

Think that a clever and a center shot."

It is believed, according to Mr P L Simmonds, F L S, that there are five times as many insects as there are species of all other living things put together. The oak alone supports 450 species of insects, and 200 kinds make their home in the pine. Forty years ago Humbolt estimated that the number of species preserved in collections was between 150,000 and 170,000, but scientific men now say that there must be more than three-quarters of a million, without taking into account the parasitic creatures. Of the 35,000 species in Europe, however, not more than 3500 are noxious or destructive. There are more than 100,000 kinds of beetles.

Things Worth Remembering.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When this fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of Branderth's Pills will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days, will act as a preventive of either complaint.

Hood's Cures

Numerous Boils

And Catarrh In the Head

Mr. W. L. Tucker
Roseburg, Oregon.

"I feel that it is impossible for me to say too much in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was a great sufferer from impure blood and Catarrh in my head. Job's comforters failed to comfort me, and I suffered from numerous boils.

Agony Beyond Description.
When I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla I had six of them, only four of which came to a head, and since then, thanks to this good medicine, I have been free from this great affliction. I gained 11 pounds in three weeks. The Catarrh in my head which has troubled me for years has also been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla and I
