WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent. Washington, July 17, 1893.

War talk is again heard in Washington and, as usual, the naval officers are hoping that there may be something in it. It is not complimentary to the British government, which is pledged by formal treaty to abide by the decision of the arbitrators in the Behring sea dispute, that so many people should be willing to believe that the muzzing of warships and troops in the Pacific indicates a disposition to dispute by force the decision of the arbitrators, should it be against England, as it is generally believed it will be, but the British government has upon more than one occasion in the past displayed some very queer ideas of the meaning of international honor. It has been suggested here that the talk about the English not accepting the decision is all originated by the English, for the purpose of influencing the arbitrators in their decision. If so it is a very foolish proceeding, certainly as far as the American arbitrators are concerned. One of them, Senator Morgan of Alabama, has more than once expressed the belief that another war between the United States and England was inevitable, and that the sooner it came the better for this country.

Notwithstanding all the sentimental talk about the increasing brotherly relations between the great English speaking nations, no well informed man will deny that there is greater rivalry between the United States and Great Britain today than ever before, and it is the rivalry of commercial traffic, which has drawn England into more wars than any other one thing. The commercial supremacy of the world lies between the two nations, and that either of them will surrender the field peacefully is not probable. No man can mingle with the prominent and representative men from all sections of the country who come to Washington without becoming convinced that a war with England would be very popular, particularly if England should be the aggressor. Nothing would please the American people more than for England to refuse to abide by the decision of the Behring sea arbitration. Such a course would justify war and the Americans would so accept it.

Representative Catchings, of Mississippi, who was a member of the committee on rules of the last house, and who will, it is generally believed, occupy a similar position in the next house, has arrived, and as he expects to stay a long time he brought his family along. Mr Catchings has the same idea that most of the democrats that served in the last house have about the necessity for the adoption of a rule by the next house that will prevent a few men trying the house up when they are so inclined, and he agrees with Speaker Crisp in thinking that the proper way to do this is to adopt a rule giving the majority of the house the right to decide when a vote shall be taken upon any measure. That such a rule would expedite business cannot be doubted, and it would not be open to the objections raised against the obnoxious Reed rules, because it would place the authority for shutting off filibustering in the hands of a majority of the house, instead of the committee on rules, which was but another name for Reed in the last republican house. No democrat wishes to curtail full and free debate, but filibustering must be put down, or there will be no legislation by the house.

There are a number of democrats in the house who are in some particulars the peers of any men who ever served therein but if there is any one of them who possesses prominently all the qualities of a good leader he is not known at this time. It may be because there are so many able democrats in the house, that no one has distinguished himself above a score of his colleagues, thus making it appear that the party lacked a leader, such as Sam Randall or Orpheus Kerr was. Whatever the cause of this condition of affairs may be it offers a splendid opportunity to the new members to come to the front.

Secretary Merton is determined that the seeds sent out by the department of agriculture shall be what they purport to be, both as to the name printed on the package and growing qualities, and in accordance with that determination he has issued an order directing that the sellers of seeds to the department be required to guarantee both in all future purchases.

Secretary Herbert left Washington today on the Dolphin, to make an inspection of all the Atlantic coast navy yards. He expects to be gone about two weeks.

French ingenuity has contrived an improved stone-cutting saw of remarkable efficiency—a circular saw having its edge set with black diamonds in the same way as the straight blades; but as the strain on the diamond is all in one direction, the setting can be made much firmer.

ADMINISTRATIVE PENSION REFORM

The great obstacles to pension reform have heretofore been an indisposition or inability to effect anything by the administration of the law and the impossibility of getting anything except more extravagance from Congress.

There is a change. The new Secretary and Commissioner are now effecting reform by stopping frauds and correcting abuses in the administration of the laws.

Payments have been suspended on over 2,500 cases of alleged "total disability" in regard to which there is evidence that legal disability does not exist. Commissioner Lochren has issued an order calling for the complete record of every applicant for a pension under the demoralizing and extravagant Dependent Pensions act.

With the country scraped by the pension agents' drag-net, and certificates issued by the corrupt Raun at the rate of 1,000 a day, thousands of claims have been not only unjustly but unlawfully allowed.

An annual expenditure of $160,000,000 and a pension list swollen to a million names emphasize the need of reform. No patriot and no deserving veteran need fear a discriminating injustice under the present administration. There has never been at the head of the Pension Bureau so good a lawyer as Judge Lochren, or a better soldier. Any reform that he executes will be just and lawful. But the list will be pruned and purged.

There is only one rule worth following, and commissioner Lochren, himself a veteran, has adopted it, namely, to see that the true veteran gets his dues and that the humbug doesn't get anything. If we are to have a real "roll of honor" the more rigid the investigation is the better, and the man who objects has a motive that won't bear the light.

Chronic Headache Cured—Weak Lungs Made Strong and Well.

For years I had sick headaches every day, and I also had very weak lungs. Since I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, I have been entirely cured of headaches, and my lungs are strong and well. Friends often say

How Well You're Looking. I tell them it is due to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am small in stature—never weighed over 100 pounds before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and at the time I began taking it I had run down to 85 pounds, but now I weigh 111½. My friends thought I would be dead long ago, but I am perfectly well. I am unable to express my thanks for the good

All gone

—woman's suffering and woman's weakness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription puts a stop to it. It's a remedy for all the delicate derangements and disorders that make her suffer, and a cure for all the diseases and disturbances that make her weak. It's a legitimate medicine, that corrects and cures; a tonic that invigorates and builds up; a nervous that soothes and strengthens. For bearing-down pains, displacements, all the functional irregularities peculiar to the sex, it's a safe and certain remedy.

Other medicines claim to cure? That's true. But they don't claim to do this: if the Favorite Prescription fails to give satisfaction, in any case for which it's recommended, the money paid for it is refunded.

Judge for yourself which is likely to be the better medicine.

And think whether something else offered by the dealer is likely to be "just as good."

You pay only for the good you get. On these terms it's the cheapest.
