

HARRY GAY

Ophthalmic Optician,
Optical Specialist,

Will again be in Albany next week 4 days, with office at Revere House, beginning Monday, July 10th. Mr. Gay has done excellent work here in our city fitting the most difficult cases with glasses. Examinations and consultations free.

August 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th.

GOOD EVENING.

FUNNY FREIGHT RATES.—The new tariff schedule on the west side is a thorough one. It calls for 20 cents per hundred pounds on first or any other class of freight from Portland to Corvallis, and 44 cents per hundred on first class freight from Corvallis to Portland. Why it is 24 cents more to haul a hundred pounds of freight ninety-seven miles than it is to haul it ninety-seven miles southward is best understood by the unbusinesslike officials of the S P and the expensive members of the railroad commission. 25 cents per hundred was the rate from Portland to McMinnville, the new tariff advances it seven cents and places it at 32 per 100 and collects 37 cents per 100 from Corvallis to McMinnville, a shorter haul by two miles. The latter is a discrimination of more than 10 cents per 100 in favor of Portland and against Corvallis. The old rate from Portland to Independence was 28 cents per 100, first class, and the new one is 38, the new rate from Corvallis to Forest Grove, about the same distance, is 44 per 100, or 14 cents per 100 more than the former rate from Corvallis to Portland. The new tariff was put into effect without the consent of the board of railway commissioners. If it isn't an outrage, the freightage business will be dull this year.—Corvallis Times.

WALTER WHITMAN LIES.—While on the line of the Willis Land and Improvement Company's ditch last Sunday the party stopped at the farm of M. J. Swagie, about six miles below Walla Walla. This spot has been made historic as being the scene of the famous Whitman massacre in November, 1847, and there still remains the mounds of earth which were thrown up as breast works for the purpose of defense against the hostile savages. Two posts set in the ground mark the spot where the noble Whitman fell. Here is to be seen, still green and thrifty, the oldest apple tree in the Walla Walla valley; a tree planted by the hands of Whitman himself. At the spot that has the most attraction for the visitor today, and which causes the involuntary raising of the hat in respect to its hallowed association, lies on the right hand side of the road, about two hundred yards from the fence. Here, surrounded by a picket fence, lie the remains of Dr. Marcus Whitman, together with fourteen others who lost their lives in the famous massacre. The grass and weeds of years have grown over the spot and it is a perfect wilderness. Not even the rudest kind of a headstone marks the grave of the man to whom, more than any other, the United States are indebted for the possession of this rich northwest territory.—Walla Walla Statesman.

THE GREAT NEED.—The following hard hits are from a Capital city paper: Collections were generally good today, proving that money is more plentiful than generally admitted.—Eugene Guard, Aug. 1st. The same all over the valley. What we need is for everybody to commence talking good times and give the money a chance. Some business firms in Salem did more business in July, 1893, than during the same month last year. If people would only mind their own business and quit talking hard times, the times would be all right.

IF YOU ARE PARTICULAR ABOUT WHAT YOU EAT.—Perry Conn can suit you in groceries. New reasonable specialties constantly arriving. He keeps a clean stock. If you are going to the mountains call on him and get stocked up. If you are going to stay at home, call on him and get the best to be secured, as well as first class treatment. Don't stop eating, but eat what will build up for prosperity as well as quiet times.

A WATCH IS A NECESSITY NOWADAYS. I want one call on Will & Stark, whose stock is large and varied, and prices the most reasonable. They can give you a bargain in this line as well as in jewelry generally.

THE VERDICT IS UNANIMOUS that Will & Stark carry the best line of silver ware in the valley. They have the variety and quality, a combination that counts in buying goods. An inspection always carries conviction.

Fine place, with two acres of land, fruit, etc., for rent. Call on Prof W W Davis, west end of Fourth street.

Clean towels to every customer at Viereck shaving parlors.

Terms, cash at F L Kenton's grocery store.

HOME AND ABROAD

Perry Conn keeps peaches in large quantities.

J R Geddes has been engaged to teach the Stanton school the coming year.

A Knights of Labor club is to be organized in Albany next Saturday evening.

Some Lane county men who crossed the mountains with a band of cattle lost 65 head on the way.

The DEMOCRAT is informed that the statement that the Hillsboro bank had closed was a mistake.

The baggage men had their hands full yesterday. 100 pieces were checked for the Oregon Pacific alone.

J H Raley has been appointed receiver of the business of Adam Nye, of Pendleton, at the suit of Balfour, Guthrie & Co.

These are days when calamity howling should be set down on. The U S is all right; but some of the people lack horse sense.

Postmasters for Oregon were appointed yesterday as follows: W H Silvertooth, Antelope, Wasco county, and L O Ralston at Olex, Gilliam county.

Charlotte M Alton, of Cornelius, Washington county, has just been placed in the insane asylum for insanity caused by religion. People getting religion in the right way will never go insane over it.

Mr C C Hegue has been appointed secretary of the Albany Water Works, to succeed Mr Wallis Baldwin, who has filled the position for several years.

The reward for Fredericks, the man who murdered a brakeman in California, has been increased to $2000. He has been seen all over the coast, several times in this valley.

Dr Edward Bailey will soon go to China under the direction of a missionary society. He has been in Washington for the past two years as a physician on an Indian reservation.—Eugene Guard.

Lionel Stagg, of Portland, a son-in-law of J A Straight, of Eugene, has been appointed a special examiner of national banks, by the treasury department. He has already been placed in charge of the failed bank at The Dalles.

Inquiry has been made as to what the cannery will do this year. Owing to hard times there is a very poor market for canned goods this year. In order to be on the safe side the managers have decided to can nothing but what there is a market for. They will can some late peas, bartlett pears, beans, etc, and will dry prunes and apples.—Eugene Register.

Mr S F Flood assumed the duties of second deputy under Collector Black yesterday. Mr Flood is a young man well known in Oregon and his many friends are pleased at his appointment. Mr Black has also appointed E R Kreiger and Wm Cowan as examiners, the latter being a son of J L Cowan, of Albany.—Dispatch.

A P Anderson and his wife, who started to start forty days, several weeks ago, are still holding out. Anderson is said to be growing very thin and can scarcely walk, while Mrs Anderson continues to thrive on nothing. There are some doubts about her fasting as strictly as her husband. There are sixteen days remaining of the forty, and doubt's are entertained about Anderson lasting that long.—Portland Dispatch.

Speaking of the San Francisco excursionists the Eugene Guard says: It was intended, and preparations had been made, to give the visitors a fine banquet tonight, but the entire party asked the citizens to forego the same as they had been banquipped by Corvallis, Albany and Salem until they were tired out. Instead, they will be tendered a reception at Conser's hall tonight, to watch the public generally invited.

The ways of the world are sometimes pretty hard. The Corvallis News says. Mrs Barnard, who came from the east to teach in the public school at Dallas, about a year ago, but failed to pass the required examination, was thrown out of employment. Along in the winter by sickness she became a county charge. On Monday of last week by order of the court she was purchased a ticket and sent back to her friends in Chicago, says an exchange. Mrs Barnard is well known here, having taught in the public school of this city, and also conducted a private school for awhile.—News.

Judge R S Strahan went to Portland this noon to meet his daughter Pet, who will arrive in Portland tomorrow from Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs Millard Hayes and children returned today from a visit with Mrs Richards, Mrs H's sister, at Albany.—Corvallis News.

Mr Pierce of Albany, an old settler in the Willamette valley, was visiting his niece, Mrs May Kaiser, in this city.—Salem Statesman.

Mr Ed Huston, the popular type writer in the Farmers' and Merchants' Insurance Co's office for several years, has been promoted to the position of book keeper.

Peter Zieroff, Thomas Samuels and John Simpson with their families spent last Sunday at Sodaville. Enroute they passed through Lebanon, which is described as a pretty little city of 1500 inhabitants and possessed of a system of arc lights.—Corvallis Times.

The San Francisco Merchants' excursion party arrived in Albany this noon from Eugene and were given a ride to Idanha this afternoon. Tomorrow they will go to the Bay and most of them return to San Francisco by the steamer sailing then. They were in charge of Mr C T Wardlow, the popular passenger agent.

MISCELLANEOUS

A Salem saloon keeper, Billy Anderson, advertises in a manner that calls for its own comment:

I made a mighty mistake when I went into the banking business, because my creditors became scared and made a run on me, and if it had not been for my wife loaning me $1.50 I would have gone under on the first of the month. Saloons never fail in business, but banks do; and if the people will deposit money with me I will pay 4 per cent, and allow them to draw it out in either cash, whiskey or beer. This is the best offer ever made to those who want a safe place to deposit money.

There was a run on a bank in an iron mill town and the depositors were being paid in silver dollars. The excitement increased and the run became a fast one. The cashier was a young Irishman and the work put upon him was more than he liked. He resolved to stop it. He sent the janitor with a bushel of silver dollars into a rear room where there was a stove, with instructions to "heat them silver dollars red hot." They were heated, and in that condition handed out with a ladle. The depositors first grabbed the coin, then kicked. "But you'll have to take them that way," said the cashier. "We are turning them out as fast as we can melt and mold them, and if you won't wait till they cool you'll have to take them red hot." That settled it. The run was stopped.

Two farmers were not long since discussing their local newspaper. One thought it had too many advertisements in it. The other replied: "In my opinion the advertisements are far from being the least valuable part of it. I look them over carefully and save at least five times the cost of the paper each week through the business advantages I get from them." Said the other: "I believe you are right—I know that they pay me well and rather think it is not good taste to find fault with the advertisements after all." Those men have the right idea of the matter. It pays any man with a family to take a good local paper for the sake of the advertisements if nothing more. And if business men fail to give farmers a chance to read advertisements in the local paper, they are blind to their own interests, to say the least of it. "You never trade with me," said a business man to a prosperous farmer. "You have never invited me to your place of business and I never go where I am not invited; I might not be welcome," was his reply.

GOT HIS MONEY.—The Populist tells the following: Word is out that the Iowa farmer who left six or seven thousand dollars in the Corvallis bank the night before it refused to open its doors next morning, has gotten his money. It is stated that he called on the bank man, whose significant name is Job, and told him that on a certain day he wanted his money, and for him to have it handy, where he could get it suddenly. At the time appointed the man was on hand with a big gun and persuaded Mr Job, who had insisted all the time that he had no money, that it was the best to dig up, which accordingly he did. It is good, if true. No doubt dozens of those failing could be made to pay up if the proper method was applied.

NEW YORK LETTER.

New York, July 28th, 1893.

The financial situation has not improved during the past week and Wall st has been quick to respond to the various disasters throughout the country in the shape of bank failures and business crashes. The announcement that the Erie railway had gone into the hands of a receiver was made on Wednesday morning, and although this was by no means unexpected, that day saw the lowest prices that Wall street has yet had. The stringency of the money market continues one of the most trying features of the situation. Bonds and stocks that in ordinary times would command fancy prices, now go begging for purchasers. No one seems to wish to buy, but to sell. How long this state of things will continue, it is impossible to predict. It all depends on the action of congress. In all the disasters that are daily occurring there is one grain of comfort, and it is that this "object lesson" that they are furnishing, may hasten action in the repealing of the Sherman law. Unless the peoples representatives in congress are both blind and deaf they will repeal this obnoxious law as soon as they assemble. The tune of the republican press in this city, and indeed throughout the country, is very much condemned by conservative business men of all parties. Papers like the New York "Tribune" and "Press" are so intensely partisan that rather than have the present condition of affairs improved by democratic hands, they would prefer to keep them as they are. With them it is "the country be d—d," rather than the republican party should suffer. These papers while professing to desire the repeal of the Sherman law, are covertly doing all in their power to hinder it. If they imagine, however, that by such a course they are helping their party they are vastly mistaken. One effect of the hard times that is very noticeable in this city, is the large number of people who remain in town.

New York has no rival in the world in the variety and attractiveness of its suburban resorts, and in New York City itself, the Central Park, and the beautiful Riverside Parks, and drives afford relief to the thousands who are not able to leave the city even for a day. All of the nearby resorts have profited this year by the presence of those who usually go a distance from the city, but this year are unable to do so. Staten Island's hotels, and boarding houses are turning away guests, and Coney Island, as a day resort, is flourishing greatly. On the other hand Long Branch, which is more expensive to reach and where the hotels are all high price, is practically deserted. The weather this summer has fortunately not been so intensely hot as last summer, and, though there have been some warm spells, life in the city, as a rule, has been endurable. The roof-gardens that are now open in various parts of the city are also agreeable means of an evening's refreshment and entertainment. These so-called gardens are on the top of very high buildings where a cool breeze can almost always be found. Tables and chairs are arranged under arches of electric lights, while liquid refreshments are served by obedient waiters. A stage is erected at the rear, and upon this a variety performance is given. These entertainments seem to be very popular, and the gardens are crowded every night. Fifty cents is the admission, which, one of them, also entitles you to witness the performance of the play in the Theatre Domatari, and between which and the roof elevator runs. There is a very foreign aspect about these roof-gardens at night, that recalls weirdly the "cafe-chantant."

The non-success of the opening of the World's fair on Sunday at Chicago, has been a great surprise to most people here, and only goes to prove that the kind of people who flock to the low resorts that flourish in Chicago on Sunday, are not to be drawn away from them by any such exhibitions as the World's fair. A somewhat similar experience was had in this city with regard to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The Museum of Art, in the Central Park is probably the finest museum of its kind in this country. Its art gallery contains some of the most celebrated paintings in the world. A great pressure was brought to bear to have this museum opened on Sunday, and finally the trustees yielded so far as to open it from one to six in the afternoon of that day. On the first Sunday that it was open a motley crowd thronged the building. The east-siders, and the Bowery "toughs" were there in force.

They brought their lunch with them, and strewed the floor with remnants of edibles. The "toughs" squirted tobacco juice over the pedestals of the statues, and even on the statues themselves. They gazed at the beautiful art treasures with open mouths, and vacant eyes, evidently for something they did not find. Finally they asked the attendants where was "de cow wild de rubber neck" and "de lady wild de two heads." On being informed that no such "freaks" were on exhibition they left in disgust, and have never again darkened the doors of the museum. A very intelligent and orderly class now attend on Sunday, but the crowd is not as large as during the week.

The news from abroad, just now, is attracting a great deal of attention. The House of Commons in London last night, was the scene of most extraordinary excitement over the passage of the final clauses of the Home Rule Bill before the committee of the Whole. A member of the Opposition made a fiery speech which so enraged the Irish members that a free fight took place on the floor of the House. Smashed hats, bloody noses and broken jaws were incidents of the fray. Mr Gladstone watched the extraordinary scene with a face of amazement and disgust. The magnificent fight that this wonderful man is making for Home Rule for Ireland is the admiration of the whole world. The threatened conflict between France and Siam, and the probabilities of other powers being drawn in to the dispute with the consequent widespread effect of any such imbroglio, are matters that affect every quarter of the globe, and, together with our own troubles, make the present period a most momentous one in the world's history.
