

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent.

Washington, Aug. 7, 1893.

It today was not the proudest day Speaker Crisp ever saw his looks belled him, and he must differ from the average man. His first election to be speaker of the house— an office only second in authority and dignity to that of president—was the end of one of the bitterest contests ever waged within party lines and now, after being unanimously nominated for the position by the party caucus he is for the second time elevated to the honorable position. It was a personal triumph of which any man might well be proud, and which few men have attained. The following officials were also elected by the house: Clerk, James Kerr, of Pennsylvania (re-elected); sergeant-at-arms, Herman C Snow, ex-congressman of Illinois; Doorkeeper, A B Hurt, of Tennessee; Postmaster, Lynchburg Dalton, of Indiana, (re-elected); Chaplain, Rev S W Hadaway, of the District of Columbia.

Vice President Stevenson presided over the opening session of the senate, which was a short one, as President Cleveland's message will not go in until tomorrow.

There were several good reasons why a large attendance was not expected at the opening of the extra session. There was no contest over the speakership and many members of the house took no interest in those over the other officials; still, the percentage of members present was about the average for the first day of a session. All the members have been heard from and they will all be in their seats before the house is ready to get down to real business, which it cannot do until Speaker Crisp has completed and announced the committee assignments, for the very simple reason that none of the bills introduced can be acted upon until then.

Speaker Crisp is losing no time and just as soon as he can get the committee assignments completed he will announce them, but there is not much probability that it will be earlier than next week. The proposition has been made that Mr Crisp follow the example set by President Cleveland, in announcing the members of his cabinet as fast as they were selected, and announce the committees as fast as they are made up, so that they may get to work on the bills as fast as they are introduced; but the suggestion is hardly practicable. There is so much dove-tailing necessary in assigning the members to committees that the committees are all practically made up at about the same time.

Some one has proposed and the proposal meets with favor from many members, that that an entirely new committee, to be called the committee on coinage and currency, be added to those existing in the house, and that to it be referred all bills relating to coinage and currency. The reason for this proposal is the constant clashing between the committee on coinage, weights and measures and that on banking and currency, as to the reference of bills. Should the proposal be adopted those two committees would be less important, as the first would deal only with comparatively insignificant bills relating to weights and measures and the latter only with bills relating to banking. The new committee, if formed, would rank with the ways and means and appropriation committees in importance.

President Cleveland returned to Washington Saturday afternoon and spent Sunday quietly at his suburban residence. He says he never felt better, and he certainly looks to be in the most robust health. He is very confident that the legislation of the extra session will be satisfactory.

When Secretary Herbert's annual report is made it will be seen that his inspection tour of the Atlantic coast navy yards was not a mere pleasure junket, but was just what it purported to be—an inspection of the yards visited, covering general facilities and methods of working. This may surprise some people, but surprises are frequent under the democratic administration.

Treasury officials say the scarcity of small bills which is now prevailing is no fault of theirs, as they have plenty of small notes and gladly furnish them to banks which apply for them in exchange for notes of larger denomination. A congressman speaking of this, said: There seems to be a screw loose somewhere, when business men of New York pay a premium to get small notes when by sending to Washington, only six hours away, they could get all they needed without paying anything. This matter ought to be looked into.

The administration proposes to do its part in helping the national banks to increase their circulation, and the bureau of engraving and printing is now working extra time printing small notes to supply the demand expected to be made by the banks.

The growth of the orange industry in Florida has increased from a production of 600,000 boxes in 1883 to 1,900,000 for the season just closed, and according to conservative estimates the coming crop will be fully 5,000,000 boxes, of which over 4,000,000 will be marketed. The average price received by growers the past season was $1 31 per box.

The extreme stringency of money is open to very easy explanation. Timid and scary people have withdrawn and concealed a large part of the money of the country, and the banks are obliged to hold for their protection a large share of the remainder. The chief thing that has produced the scare is the threatened debasement of the money of the country by substitution of silver values for gold.—Oregonian

We call the attention of those republicans who have been saying that fear of tariff reduction is the cause of "the extreme stringency of money" to the above frank admission by the Oregonian that it is the silver question.

A canning company at Chenat Illinois, recently agreed to give the Morris Bros, $750 if they would within five days produce a rainfall of half an inch over 300 square miles. The Morris Bros, began Tuesday at 8 o'clock a rain, which yielded 3/4 inches set in, covering the territory contracted for. The canning firm says it will pay the money. Last night rain fell in neighboring localities in like quantity. The rainmaking use chemicals.

The proof of the merits of a plaster is the cures it effects, and the voluntary testimonials of those who have used Allcock's Porous Plasters during the past thirty years is unimpeachable evidence of their superiority and should convince the most skeptical. Self praise is no recommendation, but certificates from those who have used them are.

Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Set right —all the proper functions of womanhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the remedy. It regulates and promotes their action, and removes the obstructions and suppressions which cause trouble and misery. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent, that can produce only good results. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nerve; a legitimate medicine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—and carefully adapted, by an experienced physician, to woman's delicate needs. For all the derangements, irregularities, and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, the "Favorite Prescription" is a remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't give satisfaction in every case, the money is returned. No other medicine for women is sold in this way. No other medicine can be.
