

Daily Democrat.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent.

Washington, Sept. 25, 1893.

The senate is practically in a dead lock and unless it can be broken all the democratic legislation which has been promised the people will fail. This may appear to be a strong statement, but it is strictly true. When the agreement was reached between those who favor and those who oppose the Voorhees repeal bill to prolong the debate until all who have expressed a wish to speak thereon shall have an opportunity to do so—two weeks or more—the acknowledgment was made that the senate was in a dead-lock over that bill; that it was impossible to force a vote. If a majority larger than that which the bill for the repeal of the laws authorizing federal interference with elections or the tariff bill will have cannot force a vote, how can a vote be forced upon those measures, or indeed upon any others that may be passed by the house and opposed by the solid republican vote in the senate. That is the situation in a nutshell, and disagreeable as it is to democrats it is better to face it than to pretend not to see it. Senators pretend to believe that a vote will easily be reached on the Voorhees bill in two or three weeks, but it should not be forgotten that the same men professed to be certain that the same bill would be a law before the 15th of September.

A way out of the present dead lock and a preventative of any future dead-locks has been placed ready made into the hands of the democratic senators by Senator Platt, of Conn. That democrats should feel a repugnance towards the adoption of Senator Platt's resolution providing for a cloture rule, which is now in the hands of the committee on rules, is perfectly natural. Still, it would be well for them to keep that weapon where it can be used, if all other methods of proceeding with the business of the people shall fail. The democratic party expects the democratic senators to pass the relief measures the party has pledged itself to pass.

The house by the very decisive vote of 142 to 57 decided against allowing clerks at $6 a day to each of sixteen house committees which rarely ever hold a meeting or transact any business, and thus put itself on record as favoring economy in public expenditures no matter where the money is spent, and also put itself in line with the administration which declared war against sinecures from the first day of its existence. C Representative Holman since he became chairman of the house committee of Indian affairs has gone into the subject of Indian expenditures with his usual thoroughness, and he now announces that material reductions may be made in every direction without injury to the interests of either the Indian or the government, and further that he intends to see that they are made in the appropriation bill to be reported from his committee. It is fashionable to deride Mr Holman and his economical ideas, but it is to such men as he that the honor will belong of keeping the democratic party from falling into the extravagant habits which played so important a part in driving the republican party from power. As President Cleveland has truly said: "The people of this country must learn to practice economy, and the example must be set by the government."

Representative McCreary is losing no opportunity to convince the members of the house committee on coinage, to which was referred his bill providing for the appointment of a joint congressional and commercial monetary committee to investigate our entire financial system and report where and how improvements may be made, of the necessity of reporting it favorably to the house. The committee is still considering the bill.

Representative Bynum has a bill providing for a graduated income tax, which he proposes to use his best efforts to get reported to the house and passed. The house will tomorrow take up the Tacker bill for the repeal of the federal election laws and the debate thereon will be continued until October 9th, when a vote will be taken. The majority in favor of the bill will be precisely that of the democrats on the floor the day the vote is taken, as it will receive every democratic vote in the house, and it is not probable that any democrat will be absent that day unless necessarily compelled to be.

Secretary Gresham, who is now in Indiana, is not enjoying his usual good health, and he proposes going to California shortly to remain six or seven weeks, hoping that the change will be beneficial.

A STRANGE COMBINATION.

What a strange combination it would make if the scheme to unite the protected manufacturers and the unlimited free coinage silver men for the purpose of securing free and unlimited coinage of silver and non-interference with the protective tariff. The protected manufacturers heretofore have been almost a unit in favor of a gold standard while nine tenths of the advocates of free coinage have been in favor of a tariff for revenue. What kind of success would attend a movement in favor of free silver led by such men as Peffer, Pugh, and Blaine, calling upon the protected manufacturers for help may be easily imagined. And what success would attend a movement led by Wharton, Dolan and other adherents of the protective tariff calling upon Peffer, Pugh, Vance, Vest and other low tariff men to assist in preventing any tariff legislation by the 53rd congress. It is ridiculously absurd to think of it.

Of all the impudent pretenses made before the Ways and Means Committee by a Fall River manufacturer this was the worst: "You have it in your power to regulate the wages of our employees," he said. "Will you give them bread or a stone?" So good a protectionist as James G Blaine certified, when Secretary of State, that the labor cost in cotton manufactures in this country was no higher than in England, owing to the greater productivity of our operatives. But aside from this the Fall River mills have reduced wages whenever they dared and raised them only when they must. The supporters of the McKinley bill had a chance to "regulate wages" when an amendment to their bill was offered making the increases in duty conditional upon a corresponding increase in wages. Of course, they promptly voted it down. The monopolists who paid for the increase proposed to get their money back! They reduced wages in ten instances where they increased them in one.

Results from taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Mr. Chas. Walker of San Francisco.

"For several years I have been troubled with blotches and pimples on my face and body, which were very annoying. I tried several prescriptions, and also other medicines, but they did not seem to benefit me. Last fall a friend advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was determined to give it a trial.

After using two bottles, my skin returned to its natural state. I still use it, as it gives me strength and vigor. I never had better health in my life, and I owe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla." CHAS. WALKER, with Carville Mfg. Co., 48 Eighth Street, San Francisco.
