

BE MORE CONSIDERATE.

The Telegram tells about Governor Penoyer going to Oregon City to meet the U. S. Fish commissioner and Phil Metchan but the latter officer not being there the governor quietly wended his way to the Baptist church and listened to a sermon preached by Rev. Glendon Parker. Now, is the governor's going to church so rare a thing that it must needs be published in the daily newspapers? And then the governor is said to have "quietly" wended his way to church. Well, of course, he wended "quietly" if he wended at all, for the governor is an educated gentleman and knows how to deport, (this is not used in a legal sense), himself as such. We protest against this kind of notice with reference to our chief magistrate, for to say, as the Telegram did, that the governor wended his way quietly to church may lead many to believe that the governor usually goes in a boisterous way to church. In the abstract we can not see that it is important that the governor went to church for on that same day two thousand of Albany's best citizens went, and no one thought of publishing the names of these church goers. Neither was it important that the governor went quietly for Albany's two thousand, each and every one went quietly, and so uniform is this habit of going quietly that no one attaches any importance to it. It may be that the Telegram thought that our governor, having in mind the vicious and vigorous attacks being made on him by the Salem Independent, the Farmer's Journal and other populist papers and populist leaders, could not very well go to church in a placid state of mind, but if so the Telegram should have said so and not have made statements from which conclusions hurtful to the governor could be drawn. The truth is the Telegram made an unsavory mess of the whole affair for, to clap the climax, it tells that the governor went to the Falls City on Sunday to meet the U. S. Fish commissioner and State Treasurer Metchan from which people naturally infer that official business took them there, but finding they could not attend to the business the governor as a minor matter went to church. It is to be hoped that the Telegram hereafter will be more considerate of our governor.

A dispatch comes from St. Louis saying that the outline of a plan for a new national party is the outgrowth of the Pan-American Bi-Metallic convention recently held here has been published. Free silver is to be the issue and it is hoped to draw all the free coinage supporters from the old parties. A convention is to be held in Atlanta in December, it is said, at which a permanent organization will be effected.

We think it proper to say that there will not be enough in the free silver question six months after date to build a political party on.

The Minneapolis Tribune complains because the builders of that State are using an Ohio sandstone. As the Ohio sandstone is cheaper than the Minnesota article the difficulty might be overcome, did not the Constitution stand in the way, by a good stiff tariff on the product of Ohio. According to the McKinley theory the Minnesota people would not only be protected by this plan but the Ohio people would be compelled to pay their sandstone tax.

The Toledo Blade asks if when Governor Campbell, takes the stump for Larry Neal he will ask those laborers who have had their wages raised to raise their hands. Why not? The McKinley law has surely been in operation long enough to have a fair trial, and it would be interesting to know just how many American laborers have had their wages increased.

We do not want the senate abolished, but we want it reformed. It ought to be made to adjust itself to the American idea of majority rule. All our institutions are based on this idea, and the senate should not be an exception. It should not be permitted to trifle with public interests and to defy public opinion under the pretext of maintaining the traditions of the senate.

The majority in the senate appears to have no rights which the minority feels bound to respect.

The following dispatch comes from Washington and may or may not be true. We predict the latter: Cleveland is getting ready for the issue of gold bonds, probably $100,000,000 either under a compromise silver bill or under authority of the treasury department already had. J. Pierpont Morgan, of Drexel, Morgan & Co. who floated the former issue of bonds, has just had a conference with Carlisle and Gresham. He goes back to New York with the information that the best compromise that can be made with the silver men is to continue the purchase of 2,000,000 ounces of silver per month for three years, and to authorize bonds for the purpose of increasing the gold reserve to $200,000,000. The silver men may insist on the purchase of $2,500,000 per month. If they do, they will consent to a provision permitting the national banks to issue circulation to the par value of their bonds. Cleveland may repudiate the proposed compromise, and may even seek to head it off by announcing that he will provide for the bonds under the authority he already has. Carlisle's emphatic denial of the report from Paris that the United States was seeking to arrange a $100,000,000 bond issue abroad and his beautiful declaration that no bonds would be issued by the democratic administration have no bearing on the situation.
