Daily Democrat.

A POOR METHOD

If the reform papers of this state would use more argument and less billingsgate, they would gain more strength for the party, whose principles they advocate. A good many of these papers appear to vie with each other in an effort to bitterly denounce plutocrats, and we read in one paper that the editor proposes fighting "this thing until hell freezes over and then fighting it out on the ice." There is no argument in all this and the effect produced is opposite to that intended.

There are others who advocate reform by hinting at dynamite, wading through blood to horses' bridles and other things equally foolish. Their great rage is directed at millionaires, unmindful of the fact that nine men out of ten would do almost anything to become a millionaire. All such violent denunciations and threats are lost on men of sense, although they may please the rabble which, like a band of sheep, unthinkingly follows a leader.

This country is not prepared for civil war or dynamite and the newspaper or public speaker who advocates such things should be most promptly suppressed. We are willing to admit that if a foreigh power or a monarchy was forcing upon the people such unjust conditions as have obtained in this country since the war, that the people would be justified in seeking any method to gain relief. Our position, however, is very different, because the people who are wronged by these unjust laws are in the majority and the majority of the people can obtain and hold the power of government. Whenever the people are educated up to a full realization of the power, duties and effects of citizenship they will hurriedly change the laws of the country. Until that time comes, it is necessary for those who see the injustice of present systems to await with patience the education of the masses upon these questions. In the meantime, it is necessary to the success of a reform party that its speakers and papers do not represent it as an organized conspiracy to overthrow the government and murder every man who has become a millionairs by profiting by those unjust laws, which have obtained while the people had a free ballot.

Nine men out of ten who now advocate reforms and reform parties, were less than ten years ago ready to fight one or the heartily advocated the very policy to which they now so seriously object. As they were ignorant then, so is a majority of the people now, and as they were educated to see the wrongs of that policy, so must the people be educated.

As long as the power of government rests in the hands of the people, there can be no excuse for civil war or dynamite and the man who advocates either is as great an evil, in proportion to his influence, as is the system which he denounces. Dynamite and war contain no more argument than do senseless ravings about "plutes," "shylocks" and "old party fossils." It is a good thing for the peoples' party that back of all this raving and bilingsfiate are men sensible enough to not officially endorse party organs ond public speakers who engage in such melo-dramas.—Salem Independent.

Now that the democrats in the lower house of congress have got together on the federal election repeal bill, let them stay together and set the democratic masses an example of party harmony and discipline.—Telegram.

And yet the course pursued by the Telegram during the last six weeks has been such (if it has much influence) to disrupt a party. Let the Telegram show by its course that it really desires harmony in the democratic party before it advises those who do not desire to create discord. The Telegram has much yet to do to inspire faith in it as desiring harmony among democrats.

MAJORITY RULE.

As now constituted the United States senate is composed of 85 members. Forty-eight, (may be fifty) of these are in favor of passing the pending bill to repeal the Sherman law and thirty seven, (may be only thirty five) are opposed. According to the custom of the senate no such thing as the previous question or cloture rule is used to cut off debate. Senators in times past have been permitted to discuss any bill or question until they were satisfied, but senators have been courteous enough to use only reasonable time for discussion. Some eight or ten senators, anti repealers, have now determined to take advantage of this custom and defeat the repeal bill by debating it indefinitely. Senator Voorhees made a great speech Wednesday on the subject of the right of the majority to rule. The following is an extract and it is worthy of careful perusal by those who are led away about the rights of minorities:

"I believe," said he, "that this body should have rules by which to conclude a discussion and reach a vote, one higher, more reasonable; more sensible and more decent than the rule on which we are entering now, which is the only one. Opponents of this bill will not name any day for a vote. They will resort to dilatory measures to prevent action being taken at all. Who is to quit, sir. I would rather be carried from this desk feet foremost and put to sleep at home in Terre Haute forever, than to yield to a principal that a majority has no right to govern. I stand here for the highest principle of free government, known to history. We started in here some weeks ago to discuss the repeal of a bad measure of financial legislation. We have reached a question of free government, we have reached a question of constitutional government; we reached a question whether or not we have a government that can administer itself. Idle, vapid talk, takes the places in papers in regard to abolishing the senate of the United States. This senate can no more be abolished than can the constitution, for it is a great part thereof, but it can be governed by rules of its own making, so as to make itself an acting and proper and reasonable body of legislation.

"No, I would not injure the minority; but shall the minority govern? Answer me. Shall the minority govern? Somebody has to rule; somebody has to control this government; shall it be minority or majority; the senator from Idaho signified that possibly they had a majority. Then let us ascertain that by a vote and we will submit to it gladly, willingly, if we are the minority. Will you? No. Then the question comes whether we have a government at all. I stand here tonight not talking compromise; I stand for the rule of the majority. There is a mighty principle involved in this, and if I go down, I will go down with my flag nailed to the masthead. If a compromise is to take the place on the dictate, it will be by others, not by me."

On a Conservative Basis.

OWING to the present monetary stringency and during the existing condition of the financial market, I find it compulsory to run my business on a very conservative basis. Sugar, as you are aware, is handled on a very small margin of profit; so small in fact to scarcely pay for the handling of it, and the terms upon which it is bought are very strict (cash only.) While money was plentiful and collections good, I was able to allow sugar bills to run 60 days; but conditions at present are such that I will sell sugar for cash only. I assure you I was very reluctant to make a rule of this kind, but the conditions of the market are such as to make it imperative. Trusting you will look at this in the proper light and also understand that this rule applies generally.

ON THE OUTSIDE—that is the best place to keep the huge, old-fashioned pill. Just as soon as you get it inside, it begins to trouble you. What's the use of suffering with it, when you can get more help from Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets?

These tiny, sugar-coated granules do you permanent good. They act mildly and naturally, and there's no reaction afterward. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and permanently cured.

They're the smallest, the easiest to take, and the cheapest—for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. Nothing else urged by the dealer, though they may be better for him to sell, can be "just as good" for you to buy.

Baby Raw as Beefsteak

Baby very sick with eczema when three months old. Had home doctors and specialists. Got worse all the time. Whole body raw as beefsteak. Hair gone. Expected him to die. Sick six months before we tried CUTICURA. No faith in them but in two months he was entirely cured. Not a spot on him now and plenty of hair. MRS. FRANK BARRETT, Winfield, Mich.

Baby Bad with Eczema

Our baby boy, four months old, had bad case of eczema. Head was a solid sore. Face and body badly affected. Itching terrible. Three doctors did not help him. Hands tied sixteen weeks. Mittens on his hands to prevent his scratching. CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him, and we recommend them to others. G. B. & J. HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

Baby Itched Terribly

Baby three months old broke out with white pimples on red surface. Itching terrible, scabs on head and face. Used everything for five months. Grew worse. Purchased CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and in three weeks there was not a sore or pimple, not even a scar. MRS. OSCAR JAMES, Woodston, Kan.

Baby Suffering Agony

Baby had eczema, worst form. Baffled the best doctors here. Was in agony eight months. Began with CUTICURA REMEDIES. In two months the awful disease had ceased its vengeance. No trace could be seen, my darling boy was cured. J. A. NICOLES, Bunker Hill, Ind.
