Foor Ball.-The Albany college foot

Foor Ball.—The Albany college foot all team will go to Eugene tomorrow ght to play the university team on standay afternoon. The Guard says it the approaching game: Much intersity ampus next Saturday. The Albany for ball team will try their ability with the team recently organized at the university of Oregon.

A Guard reporter witnessed the latter sam in their practice yesterday afternoon and to judge from appearances the ganization is a good one for this game, ome of the members were rather averse on contest so soon for scarcely one new anything of practical foot ball ten average. The team is exercising under the particular direction of Mr. Weatherbee I the department of pnysical culture in he university. The instruction in the ris of the game is given by Cal M foung and the boys are proving aptuals.

As One Bunderso.—The Corvallis sews easys that the building which has use the torn down, on the lot south of freighten & Quivey's implement establishment, was an o'd lead mark to creallis. As near as we can learn it was built in 1851 and was known for a number of years as the Shakespeare aloon, and was opened by John Thomas, who died as its owner. Others conducted a saloon in the building, and in the year 1858 a bowling alley was built on. In later years the business of the town moved farther north and the old building was veated and afterwards converted into a dwelling house. Still later, it was occupied by Chinese. The old timers can look back and recall many a "gay" time in the old Shakespeare saloon. In those days money was scarce, comparatively, but gold dust and $50 slogs were plentiful, and many a dollar changed hands on the green cloth and the bar in this old structure now of the past. As OLD BUILDING .- The Corvallis

A GRITTY WOMAN.—Miss Olhe Reynolds, whose home is on the middle fork of the John Cay river, arrived in Pendleton Monday evening. Her journey of 75 miles to the city was one which could be taken by but few ladies, for the reason that it involved the enduring of bitterly cold weather and the passing along some trails that were dangerous in the extreme. But a small party made the trip, riding a fraction of the distance in a hack. The greater portion of the road was covered on horseback. The animals were compelled to plough through large drifts of snow, which lay all over the ground from two to five feet deep. Sometimes the horses were urged along trails that seemed impossible of passage. But Miss Reynolds was supplied with both fortitude and experience in handling horses, so that she came through all right.—Fendleton E.O. A GEITTY WOMAN -- Miss Ollie Rey

CHILDREN LOST.—A Brownsville dispatch is to the effect that late Saturday night word was brought to that city that two children of William D Riggs, aged respectively 4 and 6 years, who live about 1½ miles east of the town, were lost in the brush. Early Sunday morning some 75 men and boys started out to scont the brush by hills. The rain had fallen nearly all night, and it was cold and stormy, and grave tears were entertained for their safety. That had gone with them, returned home alone about 8 o'clock in the morning. The search was diligently prosecuted, however, and about 11 o'clock the two little ones were found safe under a large fir tree, about 2½ miles from home, over on the slope of McDowell creek. They were not hurt, but cold and hungry. They were soon re'urned to their home, after an absence of about 19 hours. Guns were fred over the event.

"Tom C Young, who used to brake on the freight train out here, passed down the road Thursday night in the custody of Sheriff Walker on his way to San Quentin for one year. He shot at a man named Thob Frazier in Montague, who was too familiar with his wife When arraigned befere the superior court he plead guilty and got one year. He was very foolish for not making a fight for his liberty." Young was formerly a brakeman on the S P road here.

Ella Higginson, now a famous writer, at present attached to the staff of the Ladies Home Journal, was formerly the wife of a La Grande druggist, who grew up there almost from babyhood. Her talent seems to have been hidden while there and was not a matter of particular publicity. Some of her first work appeared in eastern story papers, and afterward there were several articles published over her name near home.

Owing to the high stage of water it was impossible for the steamer Eugene to get below the Albany bridge Saturday, so she spent the day here and put in the time giving 10 cent excursions down the river a couple of miles. A great many children and young folks enjoyed a steamer ride.—Register. There has not been any water so high this year that the Eugene could not pass under the bridge.

Character is the noblest treasure a person can possess, says the Salem Independent. It is the crown and glory of life. It dignifies every station and exalts every position. Its power is greater than that of gold; its influence is stronger than that of position. The foundation of society rests upon character. Napoleon once said that the moral to the physical is as ten to one. Character commands; influence gains respect and admiration.

Rev and Mrs J B Starkey, of Minne-apolis, camz down from Seattle Monday and remained over night in Pendleton. Mr Starkey, while a gentleman of the sacred calling, has managed during the years to amass a fair sized fortune, and has wide experience in observing the development of various localities. He has traveled through the west before, and now believes that a tidal wave of prosperity is coming to this section.

Kentucky editors cannot be too careful about what they print. The citizens of the blue grass commonwealth are touchy, and statements published with the most amiable intentions are likely to cause trouble. Here is the editor of the Mount Sterling Times, for example; who printed what he thought was a graceful obituary notice, winding up with the perfunctory statement that "the deceased had gone to a happier home." He is now the defendant in a libel suit brought by the widow of the corpie, and when he goes home after seeing the paper to press he takes the middle of the street and carries his shotgun at full cock. The notice was gratis, too.
