Of a Church of England minister of a distressing rash, by Ayer'a Sarsaparilla. Mr. RICHARD Binks, the well-known Druggist, 207 McGill st., Montreal, P. Q., says:

I have sold Ayer's Family Medicines for 40 years, and have heard nothing but good said of them. I know of many performed by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, one in particular being that of a little daughter of a Church of England minis-ter. The child was literally covered from head to foot with a red and exedingly troublesome rash, from which she had suffered for two or three years, in spite of the best medical frequent available. Her father was in great distress about the case, and, at my recommendation, at last began to administer Ayer's Sarsaparilla, two bot-tles of which effected a complete cure, much to her relief and her father's delight. I am sure, were he here to-day, he would testify in the strongest terms to the merits of

ANOTHER VORCE FOR TRETE.

In reading an article entitled "Zealous for Truth," in the Albany Democra? of Feb 16. I thought I would like to say a word or two through the same medium, lieing personally acquainted with Mr A J Carothers, I can say with him, that the offer made by him in a preceding paper, originated with Mr G W Ketchurn (or at least it is signed with his name) I believe it to be a bonafde offer, having distributed quite a number of the same offers in pamphlet form mysell. Now it regard to the two words, spoken of also it regard to the two words, spoken of also it regard to the two words, spoken of hy Mr Alex Scott, in Matt 25:46, (which I suppose are the word "evertasting punishment.") If as he says, they domean and can be translated "never ending tornuest," "endiess misery," cease less anguish, "eternal sorrow," evertasting torture," etc, why are they not translated so, and then common people could unders and them. As Mr Alex Scott, and these shall go forth to the Moion cutting off, but the righteous to Alonion life. Then the words evertasting punishment, as it is translated in the King Jamee's version, is a cutting off (Kolasen), entiting off, what the righteous for to hoose. No, but a cutting off (Kolasen), entiting off the wicked suffer evertasting punishment, as it is translated and powesse? No, but a cutting off (Kolasen), entiting off the Ming Jamee's version, is a cutting off (Kolasen), entiting off the wicked suffer evertasting punishment. They death, which is promised by "death," which is promised by "death," which is promised by "death," which is promised to the word are cut off from his word of God, predicated of death, beath is a finality in itself. There is no result of the scoond death, which is the word are cut off and yethow often we hear from the pupit about "the death that never dies' we might with equal propriety speak of "the life that never lives." It is sometimes each of the mind of the firm of the pupit about "the death that never dies' we might with equal propriety speak of from which life the wisself are cut off. And yethow often we hear from the pulpit about "the death that never dies' we might with equal propriety speak of "the life that never lives." It is sometimes said, that a liferal, eternal death, would not be much of a punishment, then it must follow that eternal life is not much of a reward (according to that logic) and no believer in christianity would believe that. In Greenleafs Lexicon under the word (Thanatou) death, the definition given to that word is, according to modern theology, "an unchanging, eternal state of wretchedness and mherey," and James 5:20 is a passage referred to. If we read it as cording to the definition it would read, "Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from an unchanging, eternal state of wretchedness and misery, and shall hide a multitude of sins. There could be plenty of other cases cited the same way, but that is enough by way of illustration. Again, the apostic Paul. speaks of the punishment. He calls it everlasting destruction 2 Thess 19 20, and as the Bible states that the wicked are to be destroyed by fire and brimstone, which is the second death, Rev 19:14, Rev 29:6, and in no place does it ell us of a second resurrection, it goes it prove conclusively that "death is the everlasting punishment." This may be quibbling, but as I am not very well learned, I may be excused for quibbling. But if Alex Scott will study his Greek testament, he will find that the word "aionlos" is not predicated of the misery, nor sindiness of the wicked, but of their punishment. I know that punishment does not a way's consist of actual pain but may consist of deprivation of anything, that may be enjoyed both in this life and in the life to come. The writer can conceive of no greater punishment than to be cut off from Life E ernal. However long the punishment may be in taking place the ultimate result is inevitable. James 1:15, R mans 6:23.

It is not necessary to inflict bodity pain in order to punish, ishment of all civilized nations is dear band that is inflicted with the least possible rememe of pain. And now since I have enlarged upon the subject (I have not enlarged upon the subject (I have not enlarged enough to do it justice). I would like to ask if those spoken of by the Apoetle Paul can be destroyed, (and hie says they shall be.) How can they be said to exist, in "everlasting torment" eternal mhery," etc. Please read the following passages: Erk 18 4:20, Psa 22:20 and 78:50 and 89:48, Gen 0 7:14 April: 20:20 and 78:50 and 89:48, Gen 0 7:14 April: 3:19, Psa 119:175, Malachi 4:1. Now in answering the objection, that "eternal death" would not be eternal punishment. Dr Whedon says: "Inasmuch ask it deprives its subject of endless existence, it is a private punishment and ask the eternal exclusion of all reexistence it is ernal exclusion of all reexistence. The ing too loss of the punishment itself is strictly end. and that is inflicted with the least pos
